SECOND DAY.

Diocesan Convention of Pennsylvania.

SECOND DAY.

This body reassembled for religious exercises at 9 o'clock. Its business was resumed at the hour of 10.

The attendance, owing propab'y to the menacing appearance of the clouds, was less numerous than that of yesterday.

The minutes of the previous session were then read and adopted.

A list of churches delinquent in contribution to the convention fund was read by the secretary.

Secretary.

Two churches are in its debt to the amount of $700, and another nearly $100.

The Committee on Episcopal Residence reported that since the adjournment of the last Convention the title of the property purchased had been secured, and vested in the hands of trustees nominated and chosen at the last meeting of the Convention. The trustees in trustees nominated and chosen at the last meeting of the Convention. The trustees in question are Messrs. Thomas Robins, John Wetherill and Thomas H. Montgomery. These gentlemen are also trustees of the Episcopal fund.

The Committee reported that the house occupied by the Bishop since October, 1869, had been purchased for $20,000; that additions, repairs and furniture had caused the expenditure that the superior of repairs and furniture had caused the expenditure of $11,383 33. This, with a ground-rent of $6,000, makes the sum of $37,612 29. That the Committee have been unable to extinguish the ground-rent is because of the non-payment of the subscriptions by parishes, amounting to $2,592. Part of this sum has since been paid. The remainder will be so provided that the Committee state that the entire incumbrance of $6,000 will be immediately cancelled. The documents in the case are in the hands of the Committee above-named. They hands of the Committee above named. They include a schedule of the furniture. The money was thus contributed:

A motion was made that this Committee be now discharged.

An amendment was offered that the report be printed in the Journal, and after the extin shment of the ground rent the committee guishment of the ground rent the committee shall be discharged.

The thinks of the Convention were then formally voted to the Committee. Previously to this a delegate mirthfully suggested that the Committee be continued and sent over to secure an Episcopal residence in the new dio-

Rev. Mr. Harris offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee to select designs for a diocesan seal. With this necessary article the diocese seems never to have been supplied. The subject was referred to the standing committee.
Mr. Welsh offered this resolution: That the day," and insert May 1. Adopted.

The church at Phillipsburg, Pennsylvania, having changed its name from "Trinity" to "St. Paul's," a resolution to thus name it in the journal was offered by Rev. Mr. Mears.

Dr. Paddock offered a resolution that the Bishop be requested to select twelve clergy-men, willing at least four times annually to present to those parishes in which collections for that purpose have not been made the cause of diocesan missions, and that the names of such clergymen be published for the informa-tion of these parishes and others.

Mr. Welsh - preferred to erase the number

Dr. Paddock refused to accept this.

Dr. Watson—This is because the gentleman is so High Church. [Laughter.]

Mr. Wm. J. Alston, of St. Thomas (Colored) Church, spoke warmly in support of the resolutions. Mr. Alston said that though his church was the poorest and that though his church was the poorest and the humblest in Philadelphia, yet at no time had it failed to respond nobly to the cause of missions. When the last collection was taken up the day was respond notify to the cause of missions. When the last collection, was taken up, the day was cloudy, and but thirty two people were present. They had contributed an average of two dollars a head, although the average income of the members of the congregation is not more than three dollars and a half a week.

not more than three dollars and a half a week. The subject should be officially presented in all the churches of the diocese.

Rey. J. R. Moore, of the Church of the Crucifixion, said that though he had labored hard in this work, he had accomplished literally nothing. He had been so complimented by the Bishop for what he had done in the way of work, that he telt ashamed at reading what he had said. For work in individual parishes had said. For work in individual parishes the raising of money is less difficult, but to get people to contribute to the cause of Christ at a distance from their own doors was a matter in which so much discouragement is met. The fault lies somewhat in the clergy, who too often are remiss in educating their people to the obligations upon them of sustaining Dio-cesan missions.

Rev. Dr. Rudder said that year after year this Convention spends hours after hours of time that evaporates only in mere talk. We do nothing. The speaker thought that a pas-toral from the Bishop and corresponding action upon the part of the clergy would do

Dr. Rudder said that the Greek word expressing the character of this contribution was cpitaxa, the root of our English word tax—something inevitable unavoidable, levied by the law. Talk about "the liberty" of being in Christ. We can imagine what would be the reply if some turbulent old Corinthian had used the quotation to St. Paul. The convention has a moral and ecclesiastic right to make his tax. Whether politic or not was a question of a different color.

Or. G. E. I will show him that it implies not coerceon, but contingency. [Laughter.] Dr. Rudder maintained the correctness of

He knew no reason why those who gave the money to Christ shouldn't speak for Christ. The Catholic Church doesn't muzzle its latty. A distinguished American Romanist, Hon. Joseph R. Rev. Dr. Batterson offered a series of resolutions as a substitute for the whole of the prolutions as a substitute for the whole of the proceedings above. He was in favor of the laity speaking for the Diocean missions, at the foot of the pulpit, as long as he could speak and the people would listen.

Having promised to withdraw his resolutions if they provoked discussion, Dr. Batterson then withdrew them.

The original resolution and amendments were then adopted, with slight deviation.

The Convention then adjourned until 5 P. M.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Second Day's Proceedings.

The Assembly met at 9-this-morning, and passed one hour in devotional exercises under the lead of the Moderator. The services cousisted of singing, prayer, a Scripture lessen, read by the Moderator, and short impromptu addresses. At 10 o'clock the business of the day was opened by the reading of the minutes of yesterday's ression by Rev. Dr. Dickson, Permanent Clerk, and approved by the House.

The following telegram was received from the Moderator, of the General Assembly of 1837, and read by the Moderator:

"ALLEGHENY CITY, May 19, 1870.—To the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church:—The Moderator of the last General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church-immediately preceding the separation, sends greeting to the first re-united Assembly of the same, through their Moderator, praying that their proceedings may be distinguished by the wisdom that is from above, and cemented by that charity which is the bond of perfection.

On motion of Dr. Crosbie, the above was referred to the Stated Clerk for an appropriate reply.

An invitation was received from the American Sunday School Union for the General Assembly to attend the anniversary of that organization on Tuesday evening next.

The reports of the Standing Committees of the Assembly were handed in to the clerks without reading.

On motior, the second order of the day, which was the reports of the Synods, &c., was postponed until 3; o'clock P. M.

The report of the Joint Committee on Conference on the union of the Publication Boards was then read by Rev. Dr. Humphrey.

This report states that a proper house for the transaction of the publication business of the Church should be immediately provided; that the buildings now under the control of the Assembly are totally inadequate, and that vastly greater accommodations will be necessary for the united business of the Church-The second necessity is, that an efficient board and proper officers be appointed; and third, that a sufficient force of colporteurs and a supply of Sunday School libraries and other literature by the Board, on the largest -terms of Christian benevolence, shall be pro-

The report then proceeds to a series of resolutions recommending the names of certain ministers and laymen for members of the Committee of Publication, and providing for the legal arrangements to secure property, &c. It also recommends the sale of the property No. 807 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and the on the property on Chestnut street opposite the U.S. Mint.

Dr. Musgrave presented a memorial from the Board of Directors of Princeton Seminary, providing for the increase of the Salaries of the Board of Directors of Princeton Seminary, providing for the increase of the salaries of Professors to $5,000 per annum, and requesting the General Assembly so to alter the plan of the Seminary that the Directors shall have the power to appoint and remove Professors, subject to the veto of the General Assembly.

The remainder of the session was occupied with the announcement by the Moderator of the Standing Committees of the Assembly of the Standing Committees of the Assembly and calls for meetings after adjournment. The Assembly then took a recess until 34 o'clock.

The Loxley Contested Will.—The matter of the contest of the will of Mary P. Loxley, referred to several times in the Bulletin, has been concluded, as will be seen by the following decision of the Register which was rendered this morning at 11 o'clock:

"In the matter of the alleged last will of Mary P. Loxley, deceased.

OPENING OF A RAILROAD.—The Plymouth Railroad was formally opened yesterday. This road extends from, Conshohooken on the line Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown Railrond, to Oreland on the North Peua-sylvania Railroad, a distance of ten miles. It sylvania Railroad, a distance of ten miles. It was laid out by Jesse Lightfoot and Joshua Comly, engineers, and has been built within the past two years, under the direct supervision of Robert Jamison, engineer. It runs through one of the finest agricultural regions in the State, and the scenery along the line is beautiful. That section also abounds in limestone, and at the upper terminus of the road there is an excellent deposit of iron ore. The main object accomplished in the construction of the road is the direct transportation of iron ore from the Lehigh Valley to the Schuylkill Valley, to supply the seven furnaces located at Conshohocken, Spring Mill and Norristown. There will also be a good miscellaneous freight business, comprising milk, lime, &c. The road is laid in the most substantial manner and is well ballasted with slag. The manner and is well ballasted with slag. The Wissahickon Creek, near Flourtown, is crossed by means of a fine iron truss bridge, with eighty feet span. Just previous to reaching this bridge there are six hundred feet of treatlework, twenty-four feet in height, and with twenty-five feet span. The road cost about $220.000. It is virtually a branch of the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown Rail delphia, Germantown and Norristown Rallroad, and was built under the auspices of that corporation. It will be operated by that company, under the direction of Mr. W. S. Wilson, General Superintendent, and will be a valuable two passenger trains will be run daily, to connect with trains on the Norristown Railroad.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE - PEROT'S MALT HOUSE NEARLY DESTROYED.—This morning about quarter past seven o'clock a fire broke about quarter past seven o'clock a fire broke out in the extensive malt-house of Francis Perot's Sons, on the south side of Vine street, between Third and Fourth. The establishment occupies a front of 130 feet on Vine street, extending through to New street. In the centre, on Vine street, there is a large yard. The buildings are four stories in height and are very substantially built, being, it is said, about 130 years old. The Perot family have occupied the premises for 52 years.

The fire originated in the northeastern por-The fire originated in the northeastern por tion of the establishment, in a kiln used for drying malt. The employes were at work at the time, but the flames spread rapidly, and all efforts of the workmen to suppress them proved unavailing. The police cleared the street of idlers, put up their ropes in such positions to give the firemen ample opportunity for working, and kept the space exclusively for firemen. The latter got in operation, but the flames continued to spread until the entire upper part of the establishment was pretty well destroyed.

The malt house contains a mill, engine, steep tubs and all the necessary appurtonances for a first-class establishment of that kind. Of course these were more or less damaged by fire or water.

The stock on hand comprised about 30,000 bushels of malt.—This was entirely destroyed.
The loss on stock is about $45,000, and the to the extent of about $20,000, making a total loss of about $65,000. The insurances are as follows: ON STOCK.

LOCAL CHOWDER.—The Episcopalians will finish their convention this evening.

The Baptists begin their national assembling on Monday night. They will meet in the First Church, Broad and Arch streets. They will hold three sessions each day. The farmers around us talk exultingly of growing weather. How it is that, with cows standing udder deep in clover, they should ask forty to fifty cents a pound for their butter, is something basable rather upon the hypothesis of avarice than upon the existence of actual or avarice than upon the existence of actual cause.

The delegates to the Episcopal Convention were invited, this morning, by many of the public institutions, to pay them a visit. Most of them will, by Sunday next, be preaching in their own pulpits.

A lady, with a waist like that of a wasp, and shoes so tight that her walk was a limp, attracted mingled commiseration and contempt this morning upon the promenade. She was richly attired; was evidently a lady. That she realized the reason why, so few could resist the inclination to take at her a long and pitying look, we do not know. Of all the "lacings" that ever yet met our observation this was the most frightful.

The number of strange faces in Chestnut street to-day indicate what the hotel registers street to-day indicate what the notel registers declare—that the city is filled with strangers. Our Market and Third street clerks are growing thin with overwork. We this morning possed the celebrated fat one in a condition bordering upon deliquescence. In dull seasons he would pass for a specimen of the Great American Sloth.

THE BELAPSING FEVER .- The ambulance of the Board of Health went down into the Bed-ford street district this morning upon its usual errand—to convey the patients seized with the errand—to convey the patients seized with the relapsing fever during the night. We are glad to report that no cases were discovered, and the ambulance was sent away empty for the first time since the fever broke out. Yesterday patients were taken out of the district. Whether any will be found during the latter part of to-day cannot be told, but we sincerely hope not, and we will be glad to hear that the force of the fever is in a measure spent.

AN ESPECIAL MUSEUM .- That courage is the parent of success has been the unvarying result of our own, observation. That this is the case we were this morning especially reassured. We had heard of the intended alterations to the furniture warehouse of Mr. John M. Gardner, No. 1316 Chestnut street, and that the therefore proposed to give to buyers of furniture an opportunity at public sale to secure selections from goods that have so largely contributed to render Philadelphiamade furniture famous all over the Union.

What we did not know was the remarkable selections from goods that have so largely contributed to render Philadelphiamade furniture famous all over the Union.

What we did not know was the remarkable selection of construction like the present. What we did not know was the remarkable railty of opportunities like the present. With long and varied observation, we are free to confess surprise at the self-illustrating superiority of Mr. Gardner's work. We acknowledge, with equal pleasure, that his taste is the taste of a true artist. All this furniture was made from classical drawings. It is the exact convergence of their which we find in the salons counterpart of that which we find in the salons and palaces of Europe. The catalogue com-prises one hundred and fifty-four items; it is prises one hundred and fifty-four items; it is as interesting as a catalogue of the contents of any department of the Louvre. That every Philadelphian possessing the taste and the means to purchase such goods should call and view them we very decidedly recommend.—Seekers after "gingerbread." work—will—nothere meet their requirements. The furniture of Mr. Gardner will be best appreciated by those who best understand the character of the materials he employs, and of the difference materials he employs, and of the difference between the productions of artisans paid by the day and those remunerated "by the job." ference between satin damask and brocatelle ference between satin damask and brocatelle, and between tapestry and moquet. Of all the fabrics entering into this furniture, they can inspect detached samples at their leisure. To those whose perception of the beautiful is at all discerning, Mr. Gardner's warerooms, possess all the attractiveness of a museum. Much of the furniture is inlaid with unique wood—freaks of nature, of which no two precisely correspond. All the plass employed is cisely correspond. All the glass employed is the heaviest French plate; the hair is the choicest in the market; the upholstering_tells its own story. The appreciative observer will notice—the-elaborateness of all the details of Mr. Gardner's work—the finish given to everything upon which the eye may rest. That an opportunity to buy such goods at public sale should be offered to our citizens is an evidence of enterprise on the part of Mr. Gard-ner that entitles him to especial credit. The intending buyer will do well to examine the entire stock anterior to the day of sale. the entire stock anterior to the day of sale. The series of parlor suits is especially noteworthy. The taste in the contrast in the woods employed will interest every one. The introduction of French walnut is an especial feature, and so is the contrast between the bird-eye maple and the walnut. The woods used in such furniture as this are culled from large quantities. A given log or "burl" may bring tenfold the price-of-other-logs of the same kinds of wood. To mannfacturers like Mr. Gardner the cost of such varieties is a matter of perfect indifference. The gainers by it will be the persons who purchase at the coming sale.

The variety in cabinets and reception chairs, centre-tables and buffets here is ex-ceeding by fine. The marble used is selected with the same critical discrimination as that with the same critical discrimination as that required in selecting anything else. One large centre-table will be noticed (No. 43 on the catalogue); than which the world perhaps never produced anything more beautiful. The design is Greek, the top a delicately marked Brocadella marble, the walnut ornamented with carved heads and medallions. No. 42 is an elaborate parlor suit, to suit some fat an elaborate parlor suit, to suit some fat pocket book and appreciative buyer. It is in the style of Louis XVI. Louis evidently knew what was beautiful. So do we. This suite is properly breatelle and makent and its suite is what was beautiful. So do we. This suite is in crimson brocatelle and walnut, with puffed edges, carved heads and other ornaments. It is in eight pieces. A parlor cabinet, No. 39, will be viewed with admiration. We never more narrowly escaped an infraction of the Tenth Commandment than when looking at it this morning. It is of French ash, marble top, with animals' heads and grapes carved in the perfection of the graver's art. A hall stand, No. 78 will probably be hought by the same No. 78, will probably be bought by the same person who secures the cabinet; so. also, should No. 89, a walnut and ebony bookcase, should No. 89, a wainut and ebony bookcase, with plate-glass doors. An antique library table, No. 112, is worthy of Washington Irving. Upon it we ourselves could almost work up an epic. Sideboard No. 118 will attract attention. From a finer one even Eugenie never yet sipped her ante-prandial claret.

The sale will be conducted by Messrs. Mar-The safe will be conditioned by mosts. Interest of the safe will be conditioned by make a point of doing everything well. In this connection it may not be out of place here to thank Mr. Gardner for the politeness of our reception this morning, and for the copious draught upon his artistic and mechanical lere that he permitted us to make. The sale begins on Monday morning, May 23d, at 10 o'clock.

SHERIDAN'S RIDE.—The picture of Sheridan's Ride, which has been withdrawn from exhibition for the past ten days, owing to the damage done to the Academy of Fine Arts by the recent great hail-storm, has been removed to the beautiful galleries of the Artists' Fund Society, 1334 Chestnut street, oppoite to the U.S. Mint. where it will remain for a limited period. The exhibition will open tomorrow (Saturday). Mr. J. B. Roberts will continue to read the poem three times a day

AN EXCELLENT SELECTION .- Mr. J. H. An Excellent Selection.—Mr. J. H. Dennison has accepted a position as room clerk at the Stockton House, Cape May, for the next season. The proprietor could not have made a better selection. Mr. Dennison was formerly connected with the Columbia House. He is polite and attentive in the discharge of his duties, and has always been a general favorite with the guests of the house.

CITY NOTICES.

EVERY STRANGER in attendance at the Great Union Convention should avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting one of the most beautiful stores in the world, even if they do not wish to purchase a tendollar all-wool Spring Suit; or any other cheap clothing. A view of the interior of our store repays all who give us a call.
