INCENDIARISM.—The building at the N. E. corner of Twenty-third and South, which was burned out last night, was about 135 feet long; and was formerly the depot of the Spruce and Pine Streets Passenger Railway Company. It was owned by Thos. Passmore Hanbest, and was leased to Murphy, McGuigan & Co., who used it as a distillery for some time. Recently was leased to Murphy, McGuigan & Co., who used it as a distillery for some time. Recently it had been used by a notorious character as a dog, rat and cock pit. The building was open and exposed, and was also a rendezvous for bad boys and loafers. About ten days ago an attempt was made to destroy it by fire, but the thames were discovered and were extinguished by the police and citizens before any damage by the police and citizens before any damage had been done. Fire Marshal Blackburn then went to the owner of the premises, noti-tied bim of the exposed and insecure-condi-tion of the structure, and urged him to bave it put in better condition. The reply was that the lease had nearly a year to run, and the tenants should look after the matter. At this time all the personal effects in the building were under seizure for arrear-ages of rent. The Fire Marshal finding it im-possible to have the building properly secured, by the police and citizens before any damage ages of rent. The Fire Marshal finding it im-possible to have the building properly secured, then notified the Manufacturers' Mutual In-surance Company that their risk of $2,000 on the premises was exceedingly dangerous, as the destruction of the building by fire was only a question of time. The Secre.ary said that the risk would be withdrawn. The pre-diction of the Fire Marshal, in regard to the burning of the building, has come true, and on inquiry this morning he discovered that the insurance was still kept up. The consequence is that the Company will have to pay $2,000 for what was probably not worth over $500. New BANKING HOUSES.—The new banking

Then the hinges were knocked off with a sledge-hammer which weighs almost ten pounds. Surgical instruments and Masonic wels, valued at $1,000, were carried off. The jewels, valued at $1,000, were carried on. The thieves made a selection of goods, and picked out such as were of solid silver. Some of the syringes were taken from the morocco cases, so as to prevent identification. The roblers left behind a dark-lantern, about 20 auger-bits, a sledge-hammer, and two jimmies. Among those present were many pro-minent members of the bar, distinguished merchants and gentlemen who, during the late war, were identified, with the army of people who throwged the office of General Crosman, in Girard street, above Eleventh. As everybody will remember, in December, 1863, a bark, called the A No. 1, was seized by the authorities of the Detective Police, of which Mr. Benjamin Franklin was then the chief. She was bound for San Francisco. It was understood that the bark was partly freighted with arms and powder, designed to furnish aid to the Southern Confederacy by supplying it with munitions of war by which to carry on the resistance of the late rebellion. The scizure of the vessel was made upon the authority of General Cadwalader, who was then in command of the district. The vessel was then receiving powder from the Dupont Border Mills. For General Cadwalader, Counsellor Wil-liam H. Rawle appeared. Captain Crosby was represented by Counsellor Theodore Guyler. Mr. Crosby testified as to the suffering he had endured while in the sharty guard-house at Fort Mifflin. Mr. Charles Chase, one of the owners of the bark, deposed that the protest of Captain Crosby against the seizure of the vessel was made at his order. To that demand, he claims, he never re-reived a satisfactory reply. The vessel was detained for nearly a month. General Cad-walader, in-reply to queries of witness, as to the cause of the detention of the bark, said only the wanted to know that the memore only that he wanted to know that the purpose of her owners was legitimate, and that the or ner owners was regitting her cargo were not to be used against the Federal Govern-ment. In consequence of statements made, Secretary Stanton ordered the detention of the vessel. The witness said that he would be ersonally responsible, and asked the release of the bark. This was corroborated by Mr. J. T. Tbackara. The gentleman further stated that Gen. Cadwalader declared himself per-sonally and individually responsible for the seizure. The cargo of heavy guns, powder and coal were the property of the Navy and Treasury Department. They were intended the bark or the Mare Island Navy Yard. The defense was ably nade. Counsellor Rawle showed that the seizure was the order of the President. Under such order the right of seizure could not be questioned, nor could damage be recovered for such detention. Documentary evidence would be submitted. Mr. Rawle remarked that he would show General Cadwalader to be noting under a bighter authority. that he would show General Cadwalader to be acting under a higher authority. Gen. There was no place in which to store 3,000 kegs of powder; the War Depart-ment would not have permitted the powder to have been shipped without a special order. The vessel was ice-locked.
