BROWNSVILLE, June 1, 1870.—A filibuster-ing expedition into Mexico is now organizing. The preliminary steps were taken several months ago, when, you recollect, Gen. Rose-crans, late of the United States Army, paid a visit to that country, and traversed it exten-sively. The leaders of the expedition will be former officers of the United States Army and former officers of the United States Army and of the late Confederacy, with Gen. Rosecrans in supreme command. The headquarters are in New York city. The principal subordinate departments are Chicago, St. Louis, Philadel-phia, Houston, Texas, New Orleans, and Shreveport, La. Major B. Shelly, a Tribune correspondent during the war, has something to do with this expedition. He has been in Chicago for the past month, and may still be Chicago for the past month, and may still be there. The Confederate General, J. Bank-head Magruder, is the commander of the New Orlean's portion of the expedition; and, from all I hear, will play a prominent part in the affair. The Federal authorities at Washington are fully aware of the decisive steps about to are fully aware of the decisive steps about to be taken, and, as the saying is, "wink at it." The grand passage over the Rio Grande and into the Mexican territory will take place two months hence. The plan is as follows: Rose-crans and, the Mexican General, Escobedo, who Lam informed is their here, and in sp.

who, I am informed, is their hero, and in su-preme command of the Mexican forces in the Northeast, and who fought the late. Emperor Maximilian so well, have come to a satisfac-tory understanding, and in consideration of a large sum of money paid to Escobedo, it is mutually understood and agreed to conduct the enterprise as follows: The fillbusters will enter the country along the border in sound of 20 and upwards as if the border in squads of 20 and upwards, as if they were immigrants, miners on the way to the gold mines of New Mexico, cattle drovers, and the like. General Escobedo is to withdraw his army one or two hundred miles away from the border to enable the expedition to inter the country, organize, and then advance as a military force. Then both armies sup-posed to be hostile are to advance and to have a short sham engagement, at the termination of which Escobedo is to break and fall back in utter confusion, and then to aid and assist the carpet-baggers to conquer the country, and es tablish a government with Rosecrans or some one else at its head, which government will be ultimately turned over to the United States Imprisonment of an American by the Dominican Government--- An Investigation.

[Special Despatch to the Phila. Evening Bulletin.] WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Senate has been discussing all day the memorial and resolution offered by Senator Ferry, to investigate the imprisonment of Mr. Hatch, an American citizen, by the Dominican Government, while General Babcock was in San Domingo negotiating a treaty for the purchase of that island. Mr. Ferry presented a memorial signed by Hatch, saying that he had been imprisoned by machinations of General Babcock to prevent his returning to the United States and exposing the San Domingo treaty as a swindle. In presenting the memorial Mr. Ferry said he had obtained undoubted evidence of its truthfulness, and therefore moved that it be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, with power to send for persons and paper. During Mr. Ferry's remarks about Babcock, Senator Sumner ejaculated the words, "He ought to be cashiered," which made some stir, and led to an amendment being offered as to the reference of the memorial by substituting a special committee instead of the Committee on Foreign Relations. The debate was warm and carried on with a good deal-of bitterness by the friends and opponents to an investigation. It was stated with great freedom that corrupt means had been used in the purchase of the island.

The Grand Master, his officers, and all the Masons of this city are dressed in plain black suits, with ribbons, on which are the names of the lodges, attached to their coats. The Masonic apron was worn under the coat. At 10 A. The conductor came up from the rear of the train, and the passengers learning from him what had probably occurred, taking lanterns, looked for the remains. On one of the trucks was found a piece of a calico dress, torn, ap-parently, from the body. About sixty feet from the last car the body of a woman was found fearfully mangled and mittilated. the body, the entire train having passed over the neck. There was a gash behind one of the ears and a out upon the side of the head. The remains were found to be quite cold-sufficient evidence that the deceased was not killed by that train. The ground along the track was examined, and after some search a spot was dis-covered covered with blood which had soaked through into the ground. The place is some little distance from the track, so that the death of the woman was evidently not caused by a railway train. There are also foot marks by a railway train. There are also foot marks there, which seem to indicate that a foul mur-der has been committed, and that the murderer, having disposed of his victim's life, had placed her upon the track, in the hope that the train would pass over her and destroy all evidence of his orime. The remains were taken to Evauston.

As the time approached for the column to whirl into view the approaches to the scene of the ceremony were blocked up by a seeth-ing, tumultaous crowd, whose behavior caused much trouble to the police, and made the more respectable citizeus turn back. The gentler sex were obliged to look on from a distance. In spite of the attempts to break the lines no accident nor breach of the peace occurred.

the peace occurred. The Grand Lodge, preceded by a band, Grand Marshal H. Clay Prestob and Aids, passed Booth's Theatre at 11:30 o'clock, and after receiving the honors from St. Cecile Lodge, filed into the pavilion set apart for it, Most Worshipful James Gibson, Grand Master, in full regalia, taking his seat imme-diately. The Grand Lodge was followed in regular succession by the others, which filled up the places set apart for them outside of the Warden's platform. At noon the scene was lively and interesting, although the sombre garments, black hats and white aprons of the Brotherhood had somewhat a monotonous effect, which was re-lieved partially by the honest, manly faces turned toward the scene of celebration. The best humor-prevailed, and everybody

At 12.30 the music of the various bands stopped, and the Senior Grand Warden, C. G. Judson, having taken their seats, the Grand (bhaydin edged up grid breather the grand Chaulain offered up amid breathless silence a Chaplan offered up amid breathless silence a most feeling prayer to the Omnipotent, at the conclusion of which an anthem commencing "Here we meet to lay the stone" was sung by St. Cecile Lodge, when the Deputy Grand Master, John H. Anthon, addressing the Grand Master in a brief speech, stated that after many years' labor the fraternity had se-cured the ground on which they stood. He then presented W. Simons, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements who stated that then presented W. Sinous, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, who stated that everything was, ready to commence building operations. The Grand Chaplain then offered up a touching invocation, after which Mozart Lodge, of Philadelphia, sang the Ma-sonic anthem, "In Every Clime from Age to Age." The Grand Treasurer, followed by the Grand Lodge, then proceeded to the stone, and placed a box containing coins, news-papers, Masonic emblems, rolls and records into a cavity under the stone, together with a Masonic silver medal two and a half inches in diameter, and a silver plate fourteeu inches diameter, and a silver plate fourteen inches by ten. On the face of the former was a

The impressive Ma-sonic ceremonies attendant upon such occa-sions then followed. The stone was conse-orated by the Grand Stewards, who poured corn, oil and wine on it-a blessing being asked at each stage by the Grand Master. After some music by the Mozart Lodge Baud the architect, N. Lebrun, was presented. An-address was then given by the Grand Master on the importance of the ceremony the craft

Mr. Butler stated that the investigation of Cuban matters had developed no evidence whatever tending to implicate Mr. Fitch in-any irregular transaction connected with the Cuban or any other question.

The Currency bill was then resumed. Mr. Garfield stated that to-day had been de-voted, by order of the House, to debate under the fifteen-minute rule until four o'clook, when the niteen-infute rule until four o'clook, when he was to demand the previous question. Mr. Ingersoll thought the time allowed for debate entirely too short, and asked unani-mous consent that the debate might be extended to another day, to-day being devoted, to half-hour speeches, and to-morrow to fifteen minute speeches.

Mr. Dawes cojected, as to-morrow has been set apart for an appropriation bill. Messrs. Randail, Ingersoll and others ap-pealed for more time, but the objection was Mr. Allison submitted an amendment providing that fifty-five millions instead of ninety-five millions additional circulation shall be issued to National Banks.

Mr. Burchard submitted an amend-nent, providing that the interest on bonds deposited as security for circulament, bonds tion shall accumulate as a legal banking

Mr. Ingersoll then made a speech in favor of retiring national bank circulation and sub-stituting an increased volume of greenbacks in place of it. He took the ground that the prosperity and progress of any nation was indicated by the amount of circulating currency used therein.

rency used therein. Mr. Randall advocated the amendment offered by him. He would redeem and cancel the bank notes with greenbacks, and gave notice that he would offer an amendment providing a system of free banking. Mr. Coburn advocates the withdrawal of fifty millions of back notes from States having an excessive circulation, and redistribution of the same to States having less than their. pro-portion, and the issuing of forfy-four millions greenbacks, to be substituted in place of the hree per cents.

their views dissenting from some sections of the bill.

Mr. Willard and Mr. Roots each submitted amendments, making in all about 25 amend-ments to be acted upon when the vote is taken.

AN OIL PRINCE.

"Coal Oil Johnny" Hauling Coal.

A Rouseville (Pa.) correspondent of the Putsburgh Commercial says: "Johnny Steel," the farmer boy, oil prince, "Johnny Steel," the farmer boy, oil prince, millionaire, but now teamster, is one of the celebrities of this town. As a self-made man he is as striking an example as can be found-anywhere. Five or six brief years ago, it was estimated that he was worth between two and three millions of dollars; but to-day he is re-duced to the necessity of earning an honest living by hauling coal along the streets of Rouseville, and is doubtless a greater blessing to the community than in the days of his pros-perity. His case furnishes as apt an illustration
