is one good feature in these meaningless raids that they are not calculated to make the Fenians more popular with the people of the United States. The Standard remarks that the event will prove to the Fenians that, in spite of all the signs to the contrary, the disposition of the American Government is not in their favor; that the President, and "we trust we may say the great body of the American people" have too high a sense of their interna-tional duty to permit, unchecked, this flagrant attack in time of peace upon the property of their Canadian neighbors. Whatever encour-agement may have been given to the Fenian tion of the American press, there seems to be no reason to doubt the sincerity of the Ameri-can Government in enforcing the neutrality laws against the perpetrators of this most wan-ton and iniquitous outrage.

TERRIBLE FIRE

Destructive Fire in Newark --- Loss 8120.000.

Early yesterday morning Officer McConnell, of Newark, discovered a fire in Vail's hat factory, on South Market street. The entire establishment, together with its machinery and contents, was entirely destroyed. The building was of brick, 100 feet front and 200 feet deep, and four stories in height. It was owned by Mr.

P.W. Vail, who is also connected with the company who conducted the business. Part of the third floor was occupied by Mr. Wm. Dodd, also as a hat factory. A watchman named

The inactivity in the exchange market led to a further reduction of rates on the part of the leading bankers. There is now a difference of only a half percent, between "lorg" and "short" sterling bills, owing to the easier money market in London.

The Government market was very steady, despite the lower price of gold, the decline in which in its influence upon national securities has been fully counterbalanced by the advance in five twenties at London. The agitation of the funding question produced a dull market, but not a weak one. Upon the announcement of the rejection of the funding sections of the currency bill the market advanced and closed strong.

President---Speeches Made. WASHINGTON, June 9.- Red Cloud and his delegation of Sioux had an interview with the President this morning. Red Cloud addressed the President, saying that he was pleased with his visit here. The Great Spirit had put them raised in this immediate neighborhood. His people were willing to be kind to the whites, but they were poor and wanted what was just and right. He had never urged war against the whites. He pointed his people out, whom he had brought here with him to the President, and urged the President to pity them. They had been pushed from this neighborhood to far over the hills, while the sunsets shine. The great Father, the President has children he loves them and

The Great Spirit has taught them to live on wild game, and they could not live like whites. Again he urged the President to take pity on his people, and hoped that Fort Fetterman, near his reservation would be removed. near his reservation would be removed.

The President advised them to learn farm ing and raise cattle as soon as possible, and they would then be independent. He could not remove Fort Fetterman, as it was needed to protect the Indians against the whites as well as the whites against the Indians. Besides, it was needed as a base from which they could draw their supplies. The President replied that he had always wanted to live at peace with the red man, and the Indian when wronged by the white man and would also protect the white man, when wronged by the Indian, and see that all appropriations and laws for them should be carried out faithfully treaties made with them should be observed, and they should not be molested on their reservation.
