He briefly referred to the articles of most commercial importance, as palm-oil, palm-kernel, peanuts, camwood, ivory, &c.; and asserted that the soil was peculiarly well adapted to the growth of sugar-cane and coffee trees. English, French, Germans and Dutch had established agencies on the coast, and by these means had obtained control of the trade to the exclusion of the United States. He advised the establishing of American warehouses there, and alleged that by their maintenance, Americans would obtain a supremacy over other nationalities, as the people of Liberia felt nearer to the United States than to any other country.

Without, there was a cold moon up

And reddened. In its dim alcove

The mirror shed a clearness round.

The ruffled silence spread again, Like water that a pebble stirs.

Our mother rose from where she sat

"Glory unto the Newly Born!"

Just then in the room over us

Her needles, as she laid them down, Met lightly, and her silken gown Settled: no other noise than that.

So, as said angels, she did say; Because we were in Christmas Day, Though it would still be long till morn

There was a pushing back of chairs, As some who had sat unawares So late, now heard the hour and rose.

With anxious softly-stepping haste
Our mother went where Margaret lay,
Fearing the sounds o'erhead—should
Have broken her long watched-for rest!

She stooped an instant, calm, and turned

But suddenly turned back again; And all her features seemed in pain

For my part, I but hid my face,
