The usual attractions at these meetings, and at this month, are displays of cauliflowers and raspberries. Of the former, the crop this year has proven a failure. The crop of the latter has never been more luxuriant. By Mr. David W. ## LETTER FROM A LITTLE CHEROKEE BOY.

How to Civilize the Sioux. The Washington Republican, July 11, says that the following letter was written in English by a little son, only 9 years old, to his father, Col. Lewis Downing, principal chief of the Cherokee Nation, who is now in Washington and the Cherokee Nation, who is now in Washington and the character of the cherokee Nation, who is now in Washington and the character of the character of ington on business: TAHLEQUAH, June, 1870.—My Dear Father I have a few minutes before the school-bell rings to write to you. I go to school in the morning; in the atternoon I say my lessons at nome, and then take a ride on my pony. know you would like to be with me now. I am sitting in my arbor, which is covered with vines. I have my little writing-desk in it, two chairs, and a long bench, with my buffulo robe and cushion, where I take a nap when I feel like it. In one corner of my arbor is a little bird's nest, with four young ones chirp-ing in it; the other corner has my squirrel cage, where funny little Nelly Grant peeps out at me from its windows. The poor General was the best squirrel I ever had, but the dogs killed him. In the other corner is my bee hive, with a glass door, where I can watch the busy bees make their honey. At the door of the other arbor sits my dog. His name is Watch. Here I learn my lessons, speak my pieces, and write my letters and compositions; it is my green study. I want you now to shut your eyes and see if you can see me sitting at my desk writing to you.

Last week Harper had a picture in it of the Indian chiefs Red Cloud, Spotted Tail, Swift Bear, and The Adrocate (the name of the pa per published in the Cherokee Nation) says that a great warrer is invited to yielt. Wesh that a great warrior is invited to visit Washington. If the people of the United States wish these Indians to become civilized they ought to send them to see us. They may think they cannot become like white people, but it they come to us, their Cherokee brothers, and remember that our fathers were as wild as they are, we can show them our capital schools, our fields of corn and grain our comfortable houses, and when they listen to our hymns and we tell them about our good laws, they will think they can do as much as Cherokee Indians, and they will go home and try to do like us. Please tell the President to send them home through our country if he wishes them to become civilized. I will show them all my pictures and play for them on my organ, and do all I can to entertain them. I wish so much that they would stop fighting and scalping, and learn to love God and do what is right. Your affectionate son,

L. J. Downing.

A ROYAL STORY-TELLER.

Queen Isabella's "Valedictory." [From the Pall Mall Gazette.] The full text of Queen Isabella's farewell to he Spanish people is published this morning.

It is as follows:
SPANIARDS! My long reign has seen many sad and troubled periods—sad above all for me, because the glory of certain facts and the progress realized while I ruled the destiny of our dear country cannot make me forget that, loving peace and the increase of the public good, I ever saw my deepest and most cher-ished feelings, my noblest aspirations, and my most carnest wishes for the prosperity of Spain thwarted by acts independent of my will. As a child, thousands of heroes pro-claimed my name, but the horrors of war surrained my name, but the norrors of war sur-rounded my cradle. As a girl, I had no thought but to second the proposals which appeared good and calculated to secure your happiness, but the heated strife of parties allowed no time for the law and for the love of prudent reforms to take root. At an age when reason is fortified by experience, the ungovernable passions of men whom I would not oppose at the cost of your blood—nore precious to me than my own—have driven me to a foreign country far from the throne of my ancestors, to this friendly, hospitable, and illustrious land, but which is not my own country, nor that of my children. Such, in brief, is the political history of thirty-five years, in which I have exercised the supreme representative power of the people committed to my charge by God's law, by per-sonal right, and by national right. Reflecting upon this period, I cannot accuse myself of contributing with deliberate intention either to the evils laid to my charge or to misfortunes which I was powerless to avert. A constitutional Queen, I have sincerely respected the laws. A Spanish woman before all, and a loving mother, Spain's sons are all equally dear to me The misfortunes which I could not prevent were mitigated by me as far as possible. Nothing was more grateful to my heart than to pardon and reward, and I omitted nothing to prevent my subjects' tears from flowing in my cause. With desires and feelings that have nevertheless been vair to spare me, in my country or away from it, the bitter trials addicting by life, resigned to suffer them, and accepting the designs of Divine Providence, I believe I can yet freely and spontaneously perform this last of my acts, all of which, without exception, have sought to promote your prosperity and to secure your tranquility. Twenty months have passed since I set fool Twenty months have passed since I set foot upon toreign soil, apprehensive of ils which in their blindness, tenacious supporters of ille-gitimate aspirations, who have been con-demned by the laws of the kingdom, by the vot-of many assemblies, by the right of victory, and by the declarations of the government of ivilized Europe do not hesitate to endeavor to reproduce. In these twenty months my ofo reproduce. In these twenty months my at dicted soul has never ceased to hear the suf-fering cry which arises from my never-forgot en Spain. Full of faith in its future, some rous for its greatness, integrity and independence, grateful for the support of those who were and are attached to me, forgetting the were and are attached to me, forgetting the affronts of those who do not know me or in-ult me, for myself I ask nothing, but I would obey the impulse of my heart and the loyal entiment of the Spaniards by confiding to heir honor and noble feeling the destiny of a raditional dynasty and the heir of a hundred ings.

Here follows the act of abdication transfer ring the crown to the Prince, under that ster-ting the crown to the Prince, under the title of Alfonso XII., Isabella preserving all civil rights, and the custody of Alfonso while living abroad, and until proclaimed King by the government and Cortes representing the legiumate vote of the nation.

THE LATIN ALLIANCE.

France, Austria and Italy at Solferino [From Galignani's Messenger, June 30.] The funeral solemnity which has just taken place on the battlefield of Solferino serves, in the Austrian and Italian journals, as a text for articles evincing a warm desire for a close alliance of these two nations and France.

The Vienna Frendenblatt enumerates, in reference to this point, the efforts which France has made in that direction, and with

The repairing force of time, the prudence of the monarchs and their advisers, as well as the friendly and well-timed interposition of the friendly and well-timed interposition of an ally, all this has successfully concurred to establish a good understanding between-Italy and Austria, and it is thus that we see the three Powers united among themselves, and with sufficient authority at their disposal to pre-real any attempts to disturb the general tranquility, no matter in what quarter they may arise. Such should always be, the role of the green Continental nations, neither seeking conquest nor dominion, but acting as the guardians of Europe against all who do.

THE THREATENED WAR.

Action of Our Government. The Washington correspondence of the New York Tribune says: Secretaries Boutwelland Robeson and Gen. Sherman had consultations with the President to-day. He conversed with all of them as to the aspect of the war in Europe, and was of the opinion that it was inevitable. Gen. Sherman is of the same opinion, and thinks it may lead to a general European war, but sees no reason why this Government should be no reason why this Government should be affected in any way. Secretary Robeson says if they fight we must keep them off our coast, and perhaps out of this Continent entirely. The Secretary of the Treasury does not think there will be any very protracted struggle, if one at all, on account of the poverty of all the nations in volved in the quarrel. Vice-Admiral Porter also thinks that war is certain, and that France has been preparing for it for a year past. He has been preparing for it for a year past. He thinks that Government has the best navy in the world, with 48,000 seamen, well-drilled and disciplined, and as many and as good and disciplined, and as many and as good vessels as the English, Prussian and Spanish navies combined. He says that she can blockade all the Prussian and Spanish ports, take Havana and the other Cuban ports, and free the Cubans, and in three months have them fighting on her side. In his opinion, England will remain neutral; and that as Napoleon means were and has part got a good excuse he will war, and has now got a good excuse, he will not wait for diplomacy. There appears to be much interest felt in the matter at the War, Navy, and Treasury Departments. Upon in-quiring at the State Department, nothing had been received from Paris, London, or Madrid on the subject, and some of the officials of that grave establishment seemed to be astonished that such a thing as war should be thought of.
