Could not these children have som especial enjoyment of vacation? I was pleased, particularly with one little point in this school. At meals the boys and girls are allowed to converse with each other in a low tone, adding enjoyment to the gratifi cation of the stomach. In most of the schools his is not permitted, and the rule is unquestionably wrong. Physiologists all say that agreeable conversation at meals is conducive digestion, and why should not breakfast dinner and supper be rather a happy reunion than a dull, heavy, solemn and silent task?
