has been no news of a very startling character from Paris or the seat of war. In Paris the streets are still thronged by excited multitudes. but the government seems to have complete control of the situation, and the frenzy which followed the announcement of defeat and threatened to culminate in a revolutionary outbreak, has given way to an earnest enthusiasm, which is directed to the support of military measures directed against the enemy. The new ministry has begun its administration with beyond possibility of salvation. The doubts a commendable display of energy. The milithat now hang over the result of the contest tary loan of five hundred million francs, which was authorized the other day, has been increased, by order of the Corps Legislatif, to one thousand million francs. On the other hand, the expenses of the fiscal year civilians will be used in the interests of revolution. It is a desperate measure, which could only be adopted in a dreadful emergency. While Paris is tranquil. symptoms of revolutionary feeling are manifested in Marseilles and Toulouse. In the latter city an attempt was made yesterday morning by a few irrational radicals to proclaim a Republic; but the government appears to have suppressed the foolish demonstration without difficulty. In the red Republican city of Marseilles there have been violent popular demonstrations for two or three days. Pending the engagement, which may begin at any moment, King William has issued a generous and humane proclamation, declaring he is compelled to take. This proclamation will have a good effect if it should happen that the French provinces now held by the Prussians should be joined once more to Germany. Emperor has thus shown has checked temporarily all speculations as to his dethrousement and the about it of the empire, and started grave fear whether the people of France, sharing his shame and disgrace, may not second him to the uttermost of their ability in a restoration of French prestige. The Gold Room, taking this view of the situation, began to look for a prolonged war—a change in sentiment which rendered gold firmer; but the market was feverish and unsettled between the extremes of the day, which were 115% and 117%. The importance attaching to the situation in the French Government fairly overrode the influence Porrsynie, Aug. 12-Total shipments o settled between the extremes of the day, which were into a proper and the french Government fairly overrode the influence of a reduction in the Bank of England rate of discount to the procedure of the influence to the procedure of the influence of the procedure of the directors this morning—and was the secret of lower quotations for our five; twentier in hondon to day, despite the easier discount figure at bank—an inconsistency which surprised these who had not given full value to the doings in Paris. Gold opened as it closed last evening, in the vicinity of 115%, and eventually rose to 117%, from which it declined to 116% on the report of another Prussian victory. This report lacking confirmation there was a second advance to 117%, from which there was a decline at the close to 117 on the news of a recovery to 86% for our five-twenties in London—a recuperative movement of the market abroad for which we have steadfastly looked in view of the inevitable enhancement of American credit, whether Prussia ends the war by following as the second to the control of the contro niners, who have been on a strike since the irst of June.
The strikers' demand is one dollar per ton rally at the present critical juncture. The only alternatives in the case are the later or speedler enhancement of that credit. The appreciation itself. Is a fixed fact.

In the gold loan market the rate ranged from four percent, or carrying to flat for borrowing. The operations of the Gold Exchange Bank were as follows: Gold cleared, $102.005.00; gold balances, $1,705.630; currency balances, $2,002.192.

The better demand for money, arising out of the larger volume of business and enhanced prices at the Stock Exchange, induced some of the banks to call their five per cent. loans to the brokers, whose wants were, however, readily supplied from other sources at the same rate. Prime houses were freely accommodated as low as four per cent. on stocks, and the government dealers were easy borrowers at three to four per cent. Com were easy borrowers at three to four per cent. Con mercial paper is in moderate supply at 6½ to 7½ p cent. with 7 to 8½ per cent. bid, for prime double name cent. with 7 to 8½ per cent. bid, for prime double name acceptances.

The dealings in exchange are as yet almost entirely restricted to sterling, the rates for which were steady to day on a moderate amount of business for the steamer of the balance of the week.

The situation of the speculative feeling touching government bends remains as already reported, with per haps a duller tone to the business of to-day, the result of the higher ruiling of the gold premium. Prices were indeed, a shade lower, and it is shrewdly suspected that the foreign bankers, had they been out of the bend which they are reported to be lieavily possessed of would have made a raid on the market to-day on the strength of the news from Europe.
