THE DEATH OF "LITTLE NELL,"

A Letter from Dickens. To the Editor of the New York Times:— Feeling—that anything—before—unpublished touching the life and works of that great man who has done so much to elevate the lowly, and haughty; over whose writings we have laughed and wept and wondered, while our hearts have ever been softened and made bet ter, I send you this copy of a note written and signed by his own hand—Charles Dickens by my brother, Stanley Smith, since deceased, at that time an editor in Albany. The original is in the possession of Rev. Dr. W. B. Sprague. to whom it was presented by my brother, as a valuable addition to the Doctor's extensive valuable addition to valuable addition of autographs.

J. HYATT SMITH.

Brooklyn, Monday, Aug. 8, 1870.

CARLTON HOUSE, New York, February 12, 1842.—Mp Dear Sir. Let me say, in answer to your letter, that the wanderings, history and death of Nell are quite imaginary and wholly fictitious. That many of the feelings which grow out of this little story, and are suggested by it, are familiar to me I need scarcely say. The grave has closed over very deep affection and strong love of mine. So far, and no farther, there is truth in it. I do not usually answer questions, having this reference, so freely. But yours is an honest letter, I believe. Therefore, I give you an honest answer. Your friend, CHARLES DICKENS. MR. J. STANLEY SMITH, Albany, N. Y.

CHINESE LUXURIES.—The Chinese are CHINESE LUNURLES.—Phe Chinese are a queer people to go to market. A gentleman at Canton writes that a mighbor of his lately supplied himself with a hind-quarter of borse, three firkins of pickled rats and two tarrels of bull dogs. He does not say anything should their coal, but we may rest assured that they have nothing to, be compared with the old original Beaver Bleadow Lehigh, sold by Mitchell & Wroth, the extensive dealers, at the northeast corner of Ninth and Girurd avenue. These gentlemen make a specialty of this celebrated variety, although they keep all the other approved brands. Having secured their present stock before the strike at the mines, they are enabled to sell at about twenty per cent, below the prevailing rates.

The Latest Fashionable Beverage.—
A furnishing store in this city advertises a new style of crivat as "the latest fashion for the throat." This may be the latest style for the outside of that organ, but a fashion for the inside has just come up, which is twice as popular. Somebody has found out that Schiedam Schinapps in prove seeda water, and energhody acquiescein the arrangement. Although somewhat conservative by nature, we are not opposed to progress, and consciving it our solemn duty, as a public journalist, to ascertain whether Schinapps Soda Water was a proper thing to be recommended to our subscribers, we tried it. The result may be stated in a few words. The mixture is good to take, and if our stomach is like stomachs in general it is congenial to that, part of the human organization. TERRIBLE CALAMITY.

It is now secrtained that over fifty lives were lost by the burning of the "War Eagle" at La Crosse, Wis., on the 18th of May. The railroad and steamboat managers are concealing the fact that a large number of inmigrants were burned on the lower deck, and many were drowned. A newly-married couple, bound for St. Louis, were burned in their state-room.

This horrible accident, which many of our readers will remember, originated in a barrel of Refued Petroleum which was leaking, standing on deck. The fluid in some way became ignited, and this wholesale murder was the result. It is quite time that the authorities put a final stop to the sale of this murderous method of illumination. There is one oil in which we have full confidence, and that is Pratt's Astral Oil; this we can recommend in the highest terms. It not only gives a handsom light, but is really safe.
