A TIMELY DISCOVERY.—In the early part of yesterday morning Assistant Fire Marshal Randall was walking down Market street. The door was ajar at 4 A. M. As the anomaly was discovered, he immediately proceeded to the front of the building. On entering he smelt a smell. At first he supposed it to be an exhalation from a barrel of sour crot. A little investigation showed that the cause of the illuminating gas was leaking from the pipes in the cellar of an inn on Market street, just below Eleventh. He had entered the place with anything like the least care. A day lamp would probably have caused an explosion of sufficient violence to blow out the front of the building. As thirty boarders were sleeping in the house, the officer adopted more prudent measures. He pried open the door and permitted external air to expel the errant gas. With the aid of Policeman Duncan he then succeeded in extinguishing the source of the leaks. Having done this he executed a solo upon the bell pull. This brought to the door a representative of the landlord. Explanation was made, with the consciousness of having begun the week by the performance of a meritorious action. Mr. Randall patted himself upon the back and passed on.

THE RESULT OF NERVELESSNESS.—The quiet of yesterday morning, which was broken by the arrival of the steamer, was disturbed at about four o'clock by the detonation in rapid succession of four pistol shots. Windows flew up, night-capped heads were thrust out, and the ever-present curs in the vicinity began to bark. The neighborhood is populous. In warm nights the adjoining market sheds afford shelter to people whom the police do not care to drive away, and who would not stay in a row was in progress. A group of men were working off a high pressure of various excitement by an altercation that promised to terminate in a riot. The disturbance began to wane as the character of the blossom. The knock-down that ensued aroused the police in the vicinity. The man who used the pistol was the only one arrested. The other three shots took the intended effect, is a circumstance that by this time he probably sets down as exceedingly fortunate. Alderman Bousal committed him to prison.

DARON AND FRANK.—A twenty-first and Race streets early yesterday morning a policeman undertook to arrest a disturber of the peace. He took the man by the top of the coat. While walking him to the station-house William Dunlap came up. "What are you going to do with that man?" quoth he to the officer. "Lock him up," was the reply. "Interfere with me in any way and you'll find yourself in jail," Dunlap said. "I don't care for some things could be done as well as others. This opinion was shared by Thomas Dunleavy. Thomas came to the assistance of Dunlap. They succeeded in driving the policeman out of the object of their solicitude. They didn't succeed in anything except in getting themselves consigned to jail. Before breathing the air of freedom Dunlap was able to find a gentleman whose signature was of sufficient suggestiveness to give to Alderman Smith the validity of bail in $1,000.

DON'T RELISH HIS RATINGS.—At Front and Pine streets Mrs. Keogh wrestles with the will of William Dunlap. "What are you going to do with that man?" quoth he to the officer. "Lock him up," was the reply. "Interfere with me in any way and you'll find yourself in jail," Dunlap said. "I don't care for some things could be done as well as others. This opinion was shared by Thomas Dunleavy. Thomas came to the assistance of Dunlap. They succeeded in driving the policeman out of the object of their solicitude. They didn't succeed in anything except in getting themselves consigned to jail. Before breathing the air of freedom Dunlap was able to find a gentleman whose signature was of sufficient suggestiveness to give to Alderman Smith the validity of bail in $1,000.

A ROW IN A RUMMERY.—James Foelt undertook to spend Sunday night in a drift about the city. He stranded high and dry in a lager-house in Third, below Chestnut. He quenched his drought with further portions of lager beer. As he rose to the level of pugacity he quarreled with the landlord. The reason was that the landlord could not see how six fives made only twenty. For this offense in discerning the beauties of the lower mathematics, Foelt beat him with a beer-mug. He hit him upon the head, and the beer-mug struck the cranium of the victim are reduced to a sadly unpropitious level. Reserve Policeman Sage, who happened to be on a furlough in the vicinity, arrested Foelt. The latter was committed to prison.

WHO LOST THEM?—James Collins and Jas. Kennedy were yesterday before Alderman Toland. They were taken into custody at St. Ann and Green streets. The latter was charged with a lot of wagon hubs. To a prying policeman who wondered why men should be totting around wagon hubs on a Sunday they made evasive replies. They had a story to tell as they claimed, was something that the officer declined to believe. The hubs, the men and the policeman formed in line. They marched to the station-house. The man who was charged with the wagon hubs was taken into custody. After inquiring into the case he set it down as suspicious. Like a clothes-basket, in his opinion, the statement of the man who was charged with the wagon hubs was full of holes. Water for this reason the prisoner was detained for a further hearing.

EXPENSIVE GENEROSITY.—Policeman King, at Second and Coates streets yesterday morning, saw a man engaged in violating a municipal statute. He was taken into custody. The man was charged with a lot of wagon hubs. To a prying policeman who wondered why men should be totting around wagon hubs on a Sunday they made evasive replies. They had a story to tell as they claimed, was something that the officer declined to believe. The hubs, the men and the policeman formed in line. They marched to the station-house. Like a clothes-basket, in his opinion, the statement of the man who was charged with the wagon hubs was full of holes. Water for this reason the prisoner was detained for a further hearing.

HEAVY LINDEN HALL.—A colored man named William Williams was in need of a new coat. He went down to a tailor who was what a number of cases of doekien were among the contents of the platform. With a wrench he pried off the lid of a case and carried away four pieces. That he won't have a new coat next Saturday is because of the preventive efficacy of his plunder. He will be interviewed by Justice Kerr at the Central Station during the course of this afternoon.

A FLAW IN THE INDICTMENT.—The trial of the noted Colonel Wigham, charged with making up the "boogie game," was to have come on this morning, before Judge Cadwalader, in the United States District Court. He was defended by Wm. M. Bull and Counselor Geo. F. Riell. After the indictment was read Mr. Bull said that he intended in it what he called a fatal defect. The indictment described the defendant as a gambler. By the direction of Judge Cadwalader the prisoner was discharged.

SMITH A FROUSE.—At Thompson and Crease streets, yesterday, the cries of a female were heard in a dwelling. A policeman entered. The occupant of the house was John Loucon. He was engaged in the enforcement of domestic discipline by punning his wife. In the opinion of the policeman this was an unparliamentary proceeding. The woman was taken before A. J. Shoemaker. He was committed to answer. Before signing the mittimus the magistrate delivered to the prisoner a lecture upon the subject of domestic harmony and with such effect that even his constable felt called upon to draw his handkerchief.

Row-wow.—At Laurel Hill, on Sunday, many hundreds of people are generally found straggling the graves of their dead. This is yesterday the case. Through a group of people who were gathered around a newly-made tomb, there was a fearful object. It was the hope of a mad dog. The salivary was running from his mouth, and his eye was red and blood-shot. His appearance caused a scattering and a consternation to which a pistol in the hands of a gentleman present gave welcome relief.

ROBBERY.—William Bailey keeps a shoe store at No. 1109 Spring Garden street. During Saturday night thieves got into the premises adjoining. They thus got on top of Bailey's bulk window. This gave them access by way of the window to Bailey's second story. The only reward of their risk and labor was a few dollars worth of silver. The thief was seen and was the officer was unable to say. The thief escaped undetected.

THINK OF IT.—No less than 153 vagrants, vulgarly termed "bummers," were, yesterday morning, brought into the Police Station, at Eighth and South streets. It isn't their habit of being hideous by night time, but that they are an eyesore by day. Upon cellar doors, in alleys and against fences they lie all day on Sunday, a disgusting spectacle upon the ubiquity of poisonous liquor and enlightenment in the nineteenth century of a great and philanthropic city.

DEAD.—Turnkey John G. Smith, of the Central Police Station, died this morning, at the post of duty last night, he is a corpse today. He was taken mortally ill. He was driven in a carriage to his residence in Dilworth street between Third and Fourth streets. He died before reaching it. He died from that restless malady—disease of the heart. He was 41 years of age. He had held his position about 16 months.

STABBY.—THE STABBERS.—John O'Neill, Stephen Vaninden and John Delaney spent part of Sunday at the job. They first drank. They then fought. It is alleged that O'Neill stabbed Vaninden in the thigh, and Vaninden stabbed Delaney. We are unable to give full details of the affair. Our information is that Delaney lies in a very critical condition and that O'Neill has fled.

ROBBING THE COAL WHARVES.—The police are engaged in a custody of Mary Smith. She was stealing coal from the Trenton avenue coal wharves. The charge is that Mary is an extensive operator in this line. She is a widow, and has a family of five children. She is disposed to be lenient to operators of wholesale dealers. To this class, in their opinion, Mary has long belonged. She was held by Alderman Neal in $500 to answer.

DOUBLE REFRESHMENT.—Hillman, the enterprising news-vender of the North Pennsylvania Railroad, while increasing his supplies of intellectual food for his myriads of customers, is not unmindful of the need of refreshments which go so far to increase the comforts of the rail. He has established one of the best and handsomest mineral water fountains in Philadelphia. The fountain is at the depot, and the purchaser of the EVENING BULLETIN's latest editions can now refresh himself still further, by a cold draught of delicious mineral water. Hillman deserves well of his country.

INFALLIBILITY.

Address of Archbishop Purcell. Cincinnati, Aug. 21.—Archbishop Purcell addressed upon the "Eccumenical Council," this evening excited a widespread interest in this city, and, judging from the preparations of the press, and the arrangements for the papers outside the city, the opinions of the Archbishop upon this subject were looked forward to with eager interest by the country at large.

The following is the address of the Bishop of Cincinnati, as given to the members of the Council. The meaning of the word "Eccumenical" is the whole habitable globe. A Council which is "Eccumenical" is one whose jurisdiction extends to the whole of the globe. It must be convened by the Pope, and be a General Council. Its proceedings must be sanctioned by the Pope, and its decrees solemnly approved by the Holy See. These are the essential conditions of every General Council of the Catholic Church.

With some explanations of the difficulties experienced in selecting a suitable place of meeting, he proceeded: The Pope was never present in the Council. He did not control our minds or discern our thoughts. He did not direct the direction of five Cardinals, one of whom was always present. The Council was composed of nine hundred and thirty bishops, general, of religious orders and bodies. There were 120,000 monks, and fifty-one orders. A full representation of the east and west, the north and south of all nations, states and territories. In the first schema of the Council, the decrees for the constitution of the Church embraces the constitution of the State and also the organization of the religious and scientific truth, whether scientific truth should be discouraged, or whether such restraints should be imposed upon the students of science as would cripple them. I am happy to say that never have the rights of science been so vindicated than they were by the Bishops of the assembly. An American Bishop, my own fellow student forty years ago, now Bishop of Augustine, Florida, it should be said. He broached it at once to the cardinals composing the Roman Inquisition, which had done injustice to Galileo, and said: "Our Roman congregation is now teaching a doctrine contrary to Scripture, when he taught the doctrine of the revolution of the earth." I mention this fact to show that the rights of science have been vindicated by the hand of the Bishop. He also addressed the Spanish Bishops, who were there, and showed them what an injury their predecessors had done to the rights of science. He said: "Our Roman congregation is now teaching a doctrine contrary to Scripture, when he taught the doctrine of the revolution of the earth." I mention this fact to show that the rights of science have been vindicated by the hand of the Bishop. He also addressed the Spanish Bishops, who were there, and showed them what an injury their predecessors had done to the rights of science.

The Bishop of Pittsburgh refuted the representation that our Catholics of America are not properly instructed, for, if they were, they would not deny Papal infallibility. The Bishop was opposed to the principle, and to the definition of infallibility—strenuously and indignantly opposed to it. He indignantly replied to the charge that he had been misled by saying that our American Catholics are better instructed than the Italians. He was told to be cautious, but he uttered a great truth. (Applause.) He did not want to disparage the Italians, but at the same time, he would not consent to a new such a thing to be said of our American Catholics. I can say that I am the best instructed portion of the Catholic world, in my opinion. (Applause.) I wrote an address to the civil government as I was advised to do, and I was told that the archives of the Council, there to remain. In that discourse I took occasion to show that ours is the best form of human government; that the source of power is placed by God in the people; that kings rule for their benefit, and that they were not created for the benefit of kings. That the Church of God has no right to a kingly patronage or protection; that the people of America, that our civil constitution gave perfect liberty to every denomination of Christians; that it looked with equal favor upon them all, and that I verily believed this better for the Catholic religion than if she was the object of the State's special patronage and protection. It is for the people to judge of what is right. When I came down from the archbishop, Archbishop Manning, himself a strong infallibilist, was the first to take issue with the Pope. He said: "You are a true republican." When I spoke of infallibility this was for me a subject far more delicate to speak upon than any other. I was in favor of the dogma; and for good reasons. I loved friends, for he is in a higher eminence than any of us, and he could see better than us the good of religion and of the human family. As I say, the Pope is in favor of his own personal independence and separate infallibility; and, moreover, he was urged to this by many others. There were 500 Bishops who thought that he was and is infallible. He said at the beginning that there was a decided majority against us; yet we thought that we discovered inaccuracies in the definition of this dogma. We thought that we should make known to the Holy Father, the Pope. We were twenty Bishops, dwelling together in our American College, who were in favor of the dogma. We thought that we should make known to the Holy Father, the Pope. We were twenty Bishops, dwelling together in our American College, who were in favor of the dogma. We thought that we should make known to the Holy Father, the Pope. We were twenty Bishops, dwelling together in our American College, who were in favor of the dogma.

possession of Rome for twenty-four hours, because you would then smother the fact by being twenty-four hours. So the Holy Father has to watch as well as to pray, and he has sometimes to be even a little distrustful of those who pretend to be his officious minions, and who tell him things they should not. But, my dear friends, as I have said, wherever there are men there will be defects and vices, and wherever will you find in history anything to compare with the almost absolute perfection of the Holy Father and error and crime and disorder, such as you will find in the conduct of the Catholic Church by the Pope, whom God has now placed over her. In the tenth century there were some persons who had political power in Rome, and were thrust into the chair of St. Peter; but God soon thrust them away, and if you are called to answer this argument against your church, you can say that, in the genealogy of Jesus Christ there were very bad men, and that as that did not make Jesus Christ bad, so in the Pontifical genealogy also there were a few bad men; but they did not make Pontifical succession vicious, and beyond this we can see the Church going on her safe and glorious course for eight hundred and thirty years, and all sorts of dangers and persecutions, to glorious immortality.

THE FINEST WOMAN IN NEW YORK. Miss K. Bellmont, a most remarkable society for her distinctive appearance and beautiful complexion, was once a sailor, rough-skinned girl. Chagrined at her red, freckled face she plucked into Hagan's Magnolia Cream, and in a few days her complexion was as clear as a bell. This article overcomes freckles, tan, sunburns, moths-patches, ring-worms, etc., and makes one look ten years younger than they are. Magnolia Cream for a transparent complexion, and Lyons' Katharine to make the hair plentiful, luxuriant, soft and delicate, have no rivals. The Katharine prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates dandruff, and is the best and cheapest dressing for the hair. A PLEASANT TONIC FOR CHILDREN may be had in Dr. J. C. Rose's Vermifuge. It is certain and safe in its action, imparting health and vigor to the organs of digestion, removing all nervous and dyspeptic symptoms, and cleansing the system of worms. Of all remedies, a bottle of this medicine should be kept in every house, as well as in every school. It is the only medicine of the kind that is safe for children, and certain to produce a valuable and permanent benefit to the health of the household. Prepared only at 22 Chestnut street, and sold everywhere.

THE WAY HE FEELS HIS GENE.—There is a young man in Manayunk who feeds his geese on iron filings, and gathers steel pens from their wings. Of this we have heard, but we have no whatever of the great superiority of the original Beyer's Magnolia Cream. Sold by Messrs. MERRILL & BROWN, the extensive dealers in anthracite, at the northeast corner of Ninth and Arch streets. These gentlemen have succeeded in establishing a trade second to none in our city. Their patrons come from all quarters, well knowing they are certain of getting a splendid article at the very lowest price. It is a positive fact, and needs only a trial to be satisfactorily proved.

WINES, LIQUORS, & C. THE PERFECTION OF THE ART OF REFINING WHISKIES. P. HEYNER, Sole Proprietor for the State of Penna. Celebrated "P. P." WHISKIES.

This is the only process in operation in the State of Pennsylvania for Refining Whiskies in "Vacuo."

Nos. 246 S. FRONT STREET AND 117 DOCK STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

It has been clearly demonstrated that all Liquors distilled by the ordinary method contain a very large percentage of impurities; the degree of heat that must necessarily be employed, decomposing, disengaging and expelling all the beneficial elements and noxious gases contained in the mash, which when condensed form the deleterious fuel-ool so detrimental to life and health.

Consequently Liquors, as ordinarily distilled, are apt, even when only used sparingly as an adjunct to create NAUSEA, SICK HEADACHE, INFLAMMATION AND KIDNEY DISEASES; but, when indulged in to excess, the result is BRAIN FEVER, DELIRIUM TREMENS, APOPLEXY, INSANITY, &c.

The "P. P." Whiskies, on the contrary, "stimulate and cheer" without unduly exciting the brain or injuring the coats of the stomach. They are refined from the choicest products of the cereals in "VACUO," the pressure of the atmosphere being reduced from 14 to 2 lbs. to the square inch; consequently a temperature of only about 90 degrees of heat is required in the operation.

The process is entirely mechanical, no ADDS, OILS, COALS, RESINS, EXTRACTS, PRUNES, OR OTHER INGREDIENTS OF ANY DESCRIPTION BEING USED—hence the "P. P." Whiskies are not only delicate in flavor, but pure, wholesome and innocuous as a beverage, retaining in simple purity the flavor of the cereals from which they were distilled.

The "P. P." Whiskies have been tested by some of the most eminent of the Medical Faculty by Analytical Chemists, and by the best judges of liquors in the United States, and pronounced perfectly pure and wholesome, and especially desirable for Family use and delicate purposes.
