POLICEMEN'S TROUBLES.—Policeman Prenderville was tried by the Police Jury on Saturday, on the charge of having brutally treated John Lagrang, who was arrested at Front and Market streets for drunkenness.

John W. Moffly testified while the prisoner was struggling, Officer Prenderville struck him three times on the head with a billy; his hat was off; I requested the officers to stop, but they would not; I was told not to hit the man, as he would be pacified; the prisoner had a bottle of liquor, and was struggling to get away—hanging back; Officer No. 158 was angry, determined to have him go; blood flowed freely and bespattered my clothing; he struggled with the officers; officers called on nobody for assistance; I followed to the Station House; one gentleman wanted to pay his fine, and the Sergeant who was there was insolent.

George D. Stroud said: Sergeant Coates challenged me to a prize fight. W. M. Claffin testified—Saw the officers struggling with the prisoner, who was holding; saw Prenderville strike him with a billy; Mr. Moffly tried to coax prisoner to go along; it seemed to me that Sub. Dolan was trying to get him along; he was sticking his hands in, giving vent to his feelings of intense anger.

Frank C. Drake testified—Saw Mr. Moffly interceding with Officer Prenderville, who had a billy in his hand, raised and ready to strike; the prisoner seemed to pull back, and was pushing and trying to get away; at that time Prenderville struck him; I noticed that Prenderville had a billy in his hand; I saw Sub. Dolan strike the prisoner; the street was blocked; Prenderville and myself started the drags; the prisoner was in the street and did not appear to move; noticed that he was being dragged by the neck of his coat; two horses instead of one; when he turned Market street it took six or eight men to help him up the hill; when they got to Front, Prenderville went to him, and told him that he was going to arrest him; he called the officer a scoundrel; I caught him by the throat; I took him on one side, and he kicked and tried to get away from me; I afterwards saw the prisoner's neck; it had a scar in the shape of an L; looked like finger nails; his shirt was torn and buttons off; I saw the prisoner hit the officer before he was hit, and saw him choke before and after.

Alderman Quirk testified that the prisoner was calling the officer names during the hearing; after the hearing told him to sleep till 10 o'clock, as he was too drunk to go out; the prisoner had blood on his shirt; after he was taken away from the station house he wanted to turn back and fight the officers.

Policeman Charles McCully testified—The prisoner had two wounds; cut the hair round both ears; sticking plaster on, and washed and dressed him; all the time he was violent.

Thomas Duling, telegraph operator, testified that Prenderville hit him in the neck; it had a red mark on it; his shirt and buttons were torn; the Sergeant led the prisoner out one hour before the hearing; he was very violent during the hearing.

Officer Prenderville corroborated the statement of Dolan.

This concluded the trial of Prenderville. Sergeant Coates, charged with acting rudely towards George D. Stroud, Esq., a member of the Bar, in connection with the same case, was then tried.

George D. Stroud stated that he saw a man being taken to the station house; he followed to see what became of the case; when he got there he found the Sergeant in his shirt sleeves; Officers Prenderville and Dolan were standing back, though the prisoner was injured; asked Mr. Moffly if he wanted to pay the fine and release the prisoner; the Sergeant objected to the advice of witness; he said he had a right to give advice; he would challenge to fight; the Sergeant came out from behind and said: "You have got to get out of here or I will smash your head;" handed him my card; he then got down from his horse; Joseph Fackelbusch, No. 1129, Station House No. 2, Forty-fourth Ward, in the city; come here in the back yard and fight me for $10; I was instructed by Mr. Moffly what to do; the man could be fined $5.

Geo. V. Potter, No. 233 Market street, testified—When Mr. Stroud was offering advice to the Sergeant said: "Lock the prisoner up; put us all out; Mr. Stroud offered his card as a lawyer to the Sergeant, who said that he was a pretty lawyer; he then got down from his seat and said to Mr. Stroud that he would like to have him ten minutes private; also said he would come into the yard for three minutes he would put a head on him and give him ten dollars; he then walked to Stroud, took hold of his arm and attempted to put him out; told us that the man could have no hearing until next morning; we then left and came to the Mayor's office; Mayor was not in, and went to his private office; saw his son; he told us he thought the Alderman had a hearing at six o'clock that evening; we returned; and the Alderman was not there; Mr. Moffly asked about the prisoner's condition; they said that he had been washed and was down stairs.

F. R. Drake, testified—Mr. Stroud asked the Sergeant if the man could have a hearing, and have his wounds dressed; the Sergeant answered him in an excited and insolent manner, such as no gentleman would answer; this caused Mr. Stroud to ask the Sergeant if he knew who he was, following the remark by saying: "I am a lawyer;" the Sergeant said: "You are a pretty lawyer, you had better go and correct grammar than to come here to attend to cases;" the Sergeant said: "I would not just like to have a number of minutes with Mr. Stroud;" Mr. Stroud in a quiet manner said: "Would you?" he replied: "Yes, I would; come out into the back yard, and I will put a head on you in three minutes or $10;" I mentioned to Mr. Moffly at the time that the language of the Sergeant was unbecomingly an officer; witness then corroborated the statement of Mr. Stroud in regard to the name and name given by the Sergeant.

Thomas Duling, telegraph operator, testified—Three gentlemen came in and interfered before the charge was made; the Sergeant told them to wait until he heard the officer's statement; then he would hear what they had to say; after the officers had made the charges the Sergeant said to Mr. Moffly: "I am willing to hear what you have to say;" they made some statement; the Sergeant told them that he Alderman would be there at 6 o'clock; he poked gentlemanly at the time; Mr. Stroud poked up and said: "That man can pay his fine and enter bail;" the Sergeant said: "The man is drunk and cannot have a hearing;" he ordered the officers to lock him up, saying that no man is allowed to have a hearing under the influence of liquor; Mr. Stroud spoke up and said: "I am a lawyer;" the Sergeant said he could not help what he was; that the prisoner was unconscious; some one in the crowd said to the Sergeant: "If you had you from the desk I would mash you in the nose;" I heard the Sergeant order the crowd out two or three times.

Sub. Dolan testified—Heard the remark from the crowd: "Hit the Sergeant in the nose;" Mr. Stroud, who had climbed on the side of the desk, could not tell whether it was Mr. Stroud or the man with the red shirt on who made the remark; a great crowd kept annoying the Sergeant from the time the prisoner was brought in until he was locked up.

Officer Prenderville made a statement corroborating that of Sub. Dolan. He further said: Mr. Stroud was standing by my right when a remark was made; Mr. Stroud said in a low tone: "Yes, he ought to have it;" Mr. Stroud insisted that the man ought to have a hearing; Sergeant Coates stated that the prisoner was heavily drunk when brought in; Mr. Stroud demanded a hearing; I told him it was not customary to give drunken men a hearing until they got sober; having a feeling that the man was being treated unfairly, I went for Alderman to give him a hearing before dark; had him washed, hair cut, and sticking-plaster put on his head; some gentleman in the crowd said if I was not behind the desk they would punch my nose; at least one hundred men were around pulling and mauling me; don't remember making any such remarks charged to me.

This closed the evidence, and it will be submitted to the Mayor for his consideration.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.—George Mason, known to the police as a burglar, was before Alderman Kean on Saturday night, charged with the robbery of the silk store of J. C. Truesitt & Co., No. 212 Church street, last week.

Cornelius Daily, barkeeper at No. 200 Church street, testified that he had seen Mason passing up and down Church street on several occasions, and two or three times he had stopped and got a drink at his place.

Policeman Haney, Fourth District, testified that he had seen a person who resembled the prisoner standing at the corner of Second and Chestnut streets on the morning preceding the robbery.

Sergeant John Duffy, Seventeenth District, testified that in accordance with orders from the Chief he arrested Mason, and searched his house; found brace and bits, keys, comb, file, shreds, made of bolt metal, can of powder, wedges and other articles.
