Accounts received from Belgium award the victory to the French. Death of a Baron.

The husband of cantatrice Paulina Lucca, Baron Rahden, who received a dangerous wound at the battle of Rezonville, is dead. CARLSRUHE, Aug. 31.-Reports from the besiegers investing Strasbourg state that the siege has been continued with redoubled force since the unfortunate occurrence which nearly terminated in the death of the truce-bearer Col. Leczinsky. Prussian parallels have been pushed forward quite to the works of Stras bourg, guns mounted, and an increased fire maintained without intermission. The citizens of Strasbourg who have succeeded in getting away from the city detail harrowing accounts of the dreadful straits to which the besieged have been reduced. They state that the people inside the walls have been forced to the very extremities of hunger by the in nossibility of obtaining a supply of food. The sufferings of the people are consequently dreadful. They spend their nights in the cellars of their dwellings in terror of the shells which are exploding in the very centre of the town. Food of every description has risen to a height heretofore unknown. Pota toes are sold at 20 francs per pound, and the inhabitants are compelled in the absence of beef cattle to subsist on the flesh of horses. CARLSRUHE, Aug. 31.—The number of German troops now besieging the fortress of Strasbourg is estimated at 50,000. The shells of the foremost works of the Prussians are exploding in the streets of Strasbourg. The valuable municipal library has been destroyed by a conflagration. The Baden Troops have placed in position 100 sixty-pounders and fire from this heavy ordnance has been opened upon the city with tremendous effect. raging through the city of Strasbourg.

Victory for the Prussian Cavalry. BERLIN, August 31.-A despatch from Barle-Duc reports a brilliant victory achieved by the Prussian cavalry in the centre of the enemy on Monday. Two squadrons of hussars stormed and captured the town of Vrizy, between Vouzieres and Altegny. The town so gallantly taken by assault was chiefly garrisoned by Turcos.
