The Grand Demenstration of To-Day.
The late disturbances in New York between the Irish Protestants and Irish Catholics have created considerable excitement among both parties, and in this city they have served to awaken renewed interest in the organization known as the American Protestant Association. When the announcement was made some weeks ago that the grand annual parade of the Order would be made to-day, each and every lodge began filling up with members, and it was hoped that a large turnout would be when the various Lodges had all assembled on Broad street, this morning, no one was more astonished than the Worthy Grand Master. Great as had been the expectations, the number of men in line was still greater, and a fair estimate placed the figures at three thousand. Owing to some difficulty in forming the divisions of the control of the contr sions, one or two Lodges being absent, it was nearly 11 o'clock before the line commenced

THE ALBANY ZOUAVE CADETS—RECEPTION THE ALBANY ZOUNVE CABETS—RECEPTION BY THE CITY AUTHORITIES.—Our Albanian visitors are not being allowed to rest supinely on their backs. Yesterday, after having been conducted to their quarters at the Continential, and allowed time to perform their ablutions, they were taken in charge by the members of Company D, 1st Regiment P. V. M., and conducted to different parts of the city. In the evening a complimentary reception was tendered them at the Larder Street Armory, the hour fixed being nine o'clock. The visitors left the hotel at 8.30 o'clock; and headed by Doering's band, were conducted to the place named by a sub-committee of "D." On entering they found about 150 invited guests present, and Company D and the First Regiment band drawn up in line to receive them. After music by Doering's band, Col. Jas. W. Latta, on behalf of the Reserves, tendered the strangers a cordial welcome, in reply to which Capt. Wm A. Hamilton, committing the Cedets wade a few remarks and BY THE CITY AUTHORITIES.—Our Albanian reply to which Capt. Wm. A. We will have many matters of interest to occupy your attention, but there will be none that will make a deeper impression upon you that will make a deeper impression upon you than the efforts to promote your enjoyment that will be manifested by the corps who have been privileged specially to pay you their attention whilst you sojourn with us. We have a strong military spirit marking the young men of Philadelphia at the present time, but whilst the State of Pennsylvany withholds that legislation which is so vama withholds that legislation which is so value withholds that legislation which is so essential for the encouragement of this com-mendable movement, our city authorities here are doing everything in their power to foster and promote it. We believe that a strong military spirit among our citizens and its development into organization contribute greatly to the aid of the civil power in administering the law; and the greater the organization, the less the necessity for its being called into use. And whatever agencies, whether of movement or example, that will whether of movement or example, that will promote this end, it is not only our place but our pleasure to welcome; and in that view, and also principally because of the distinguished reputation of the Albany Zouave Cadets as a model military corps, we extend to you a hearty reception, and we hope that in addition to the pleasure of your company, the excellence of your drill and discipline will have its beneficial influence upon your brethren, the volunteers of ence upon your brethren, the volunteers of our city. I commend you, gentlemen, to the hospitalities of our citizens, and trust that your visit here may be as agreeable to you as I am sure it is a matter of happiness to us. Capt. Hamilton responded briefly, and introduced Judge Advocate Gould.

Lieut. Gould said: Our worthy Captain,

Lieut. Gould said: Our worthy Captain, like the illustrious Grant, whose picture, I see, graces these walls, is not a talker, although an excellent officer. I occupy the place of spokesman, and I feel that I hold a very responsible position, as our company contains professional men, men of ability, men of high standing in commercial pursuits, and men connected with every branch of business to be found in a large commercial city. These men the citizens of Albany look upon with great pride. On behalf of the company I thank you for the On behalf of the company I thank you for the hearty welcome which you have extended to us, and also for the compliment which you have paid to us. I thank you for this cordial greeting, which comes in a way to be appreciated by soldiers. Last night our men grasped by the hand men who fought with them on the field of battle; men who slept from this State to the rescue of the liberties of side by side with them; men who had gone from this State to the rescue of the liberties of the land. In addition, I feel as if I am representing the State of New York on this happy occasion. I feel as if New York is shaking hands with Pennsylvania. We cherish our State, which takes a great pride in her mili tia Prussia makes it obligatory to give three years' service in the military, and we have recently seen the effect of that. Our State is following in the footsteps of Prussia. No foreign example is needed, however, as the first to rush to arms at the outbreak of our war were the arms at the outbreak of our war were the militia, and to them we owe the preservation of the capital. We shall never forget your kindness, which has made a deep and lasting impression upon us. We love our State and we love our Governor Hoffman our State and we love our Governor Hoffman but our hearts are big, and we shall give a large place to every soldier in this corps of yours, from whom we have received such kind attentions. Again I thank you for your hospitality so cordially extended on this occasion, which I consider one of the happiest events I ever had the pleasure of enjoying. This concluded the ceremony of reception. The company broke ranks, and the members then examined the relics in the hall.

ss. Fire Marshal Blackburn has investigated the circumstances attending the origin of the fire, and is satisfied that the cause was purely accidental. There were separate engines and boilers in each mill. The shavings from the planing mill were used in the plaster mill. The greater part of the saw-dust not used as fuel was deposited in a small building at the northeast coner of Coates and Beach streets, which was formerly used as an editor. which was formerly used as an office. From each of the saws there were wooden pipes which concentrated in a fan. The sawdust by power of suction was drawn to this fan and by the fan was blown into this building. This building had got full, and there was a large pile on the outside at the end of the deliver-ing trough. From each of the planing machines there was a wooden trough concentrating in the planing mill. A larger delivery trough passed from the planers into the plaster mill. One of the pannels of the saw-dust fan got heated several times on Tuesday afternoon, and the machinery was stopped to allow it to

A little after five o'clock the foreman, Mr Levi B. Ulmer, who was standing near the fan, saw sparks blown through the delivery-trough to the pile on the outside of the storage building. Before he could scarcely see what was the matter the whole pile broke out into flames. The fire got into the large delivery trough leading into the plaster mill, and both mills were in flames almost simultaneously.

There were two brass bands—one under Professor Oberkirsch and the other under Professor Mayer. There was also an orchestra for dancing. During the afternoon there was considerable singing. Among the songs were: "Die Wacht am Rhein" ("The Guard on the Rhine"), by the Mannerchor, under Professor Engelke; "The Chassepot." by the Young Mannerchor, under Professor Hartmann; "Der Abschied oom Walde" ("Parting with the Woods"), by the mixed chorus of the Hartmonie, under Professor Kuenzel, and the the Woods"), by the mixed chorus of the Harmonie, under Professor Kuenzel, and the popular air, "Hoer fes, Mein Volk" ("Hear it, My People.") The Sängerbund, under Professor Dietrich, also sang several excellent pieces. The great German national refrain, "Was Ist des Deutschen Vaterland." was sung, about eight o'clock, by the best singers of all the societies, together with instrumental accompaniment. This splendid refrain created the greatest enthusiasm, and cheers tollowed cheers for Germany and its leaders. AMERICAN ENTERPRISE IN THE EAST.—We were recently shown a letter from a traveler in the Holy Land to friends in America, from which we make the following extract, thinking it may not prove uninteresting to our readers. He says:
"Wo met with cases of Pratt's Oll, not only in the hazaars in Jorusalom, and in Damascus and Alexandria, but in nearly every mountain village of the Lebanon irange; and we were told that we should find it burning beneath the tents of the Arabs, in the plain which stretches away towards the valley of the Euphrases. We were told that two pligrins tock as an offering to Mecca, two cases of this oll, and a German Student Lamp, which so pleased the custodians of the shrine that the Hadjees were, on their return, entrasted with an order for a further supply, and now we believe that Mahomet's tomb is seen and kissed by the light of Pratt's New York Oll."

We are ourselves using Pratt's Astral Oll, and, from actual trial, can recommend it to our readers as the best we ever used. More than all, it is perfectly safe.

The Astral Oll is for sale air wholesale and retailby Z. Locke & Co., 1010 Market street. Sole agents for Philadiciphila. AMERICAN ENTERPRISE IN THE EAST.

J. EDGAR THOMSON, Trustees. The greater part of the road is already completed, and the carnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing repidly, in time for the movement of the coming, grain crops, which, it is estimated, will double the present income of the road.

The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great bitate of lowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings, warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investor as, in every respect, an undoubted security. These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege at tached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably dove par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, at rerest in the meanwhile. United States Five-twenties, a present prices, only return 5 per cent., and we regard be security equally safe.
