The Railway Master Mechanics...The Delaware River and Cape May Excur-

The members of The American Railway Master Mechanics Association, who have been holding their convention in this city during the past week, made an excursion along the the past week, made an excursion along the Delaware front of the city on Saturday, by invitation of the committee of citizens who have had charge of the entertainment of the gentlemen during their stay here. The splendid steamboat Twilight, under command of Capt. H. Crawford, was provided for the occasion. The weather was very unpropitious. At the time appointed for the starting of the excursion a disagreeable drizzling rain was prevailing. a disagreeable drizzling rain was prevailing, but the storm did not deter many from participating in the excursion. The Master Mechanics' with their families turned out in full force, and with their families turned out in thin fores, and there was also a large number of invited guests on board of the boat. Beck's Band, comprising twenty pieces, was also present. It was understood that after the trip on the Delaware the boat would stop at Camden and her passengers transferred to the West Jersey Kailroad cars, to be taken to Cape May. Theresengers transferred to the West Jersey Railroad cars, to be taken to Cape May. Therefore many came provided with satchels, valises, &c. They were not troubled with the baggage much, however. As soon as they got on board they found Mr. John H. Markley, the popular general baggage and express agent, ready to take charge of any articles and check them direct to the hotel at Cape May. This

The Twillight with several hundred ladies and gentlemen aboard, left Chestnut street wharf a little after ten 'o'clock, and steamed up the river, above the Port Richmond coal wharves. Then the head of the boat was turned down stream. Thus the strangers were afforded an opportunity of obtaining a pretty good idea of the extensive manufacturing interests of the city. The Navy-Yard, and League Island, with several of the iron-clads in full view, were special objects of interest, and attracted great attention. Upon reaching the mouth of the Schuylkill, the boat was turned up that river, and proceeded as far as Gray's mouth of the Schuylkill, the boat was turned up that river, and proceeded as far as Gray's Ferry, thus giving a view of the Point Breeze Gas Works, and the great petroleum shipping depot, and other places of note. Upon returning to the Delaware, the boat proceeded down the river several miles, passing Fort Mifflin and the Lazaretto Station. On the return trip the company was invited to a sumptious lunch. Lazaretto Station. On the return trip the company was invited to a sumptaous lunch, provided in excellent style by N. Finelli, restaurateur, and served under the supervision of John E. White, head-waiter. Capt Crawford had his boat at the Camden landing of the West Jersey Railroad Company punctually at the time agreed upon. The storing weather detracted much from the pleasure of the excursion, but all of the ladies and gentlemen who participated in it were nected with it was managed. The Special Committee having charge of this excursion comprised Capt. Theo. Julius, Stephen Morris and E. I. Levy.

and E. L. Levy
The Cape May excursionists, numbering 230, and comprising scarcely one-half of those who were on the boat, were provided with a special train, drawn by an engine gaily decorated with flags. Among this company, in addition to the Railway men, there were Gen. J. J. Abercrombie, U. S. A., and Major-Gen. Robert Patterson, Thomas T. Tasker, Jr., C. P. Parry, W. B. Bement, J. B. Dougherty, A. M. Eastwick, Wm. Butcher, James G. Hardie, and other gentlemen connected with the manand other gentlemen connected with the man ufacturing interests of Philadelphia. The train left Camden at 2.15 P. M., and reached Cape May at 5.15 P. M. Upon alighting from the cars a procession was formed, and preceded by the band, the party marched to Congress Hall, a hotel of well deserved popularity. The season has ended, and most of the hotels The season has ended, and most of the notes have been closed. This, added to the fact that there had been a very heavy storm on Friday night, and rain fell incessantly during Saturday, made Cape May present rather a dreary and describe appropriate. There are various day, made Cape May present rather a dreary and desolate appearance. There are various modes of enjoyment at the sea side, however, and these the Railway Master Mechanics' were fully supplied with by the Committee of Arrangements, assisted by Mr. J. F. Cake, proprietor of Congress Hall, and his employes. On Saturday evening the large duning hall was converted into a ball-room, and a "hop" was given, the members of Beck's Band forming the orchestra. The excursionists were joined by a number of ladies and gentlemen who yet remain at their cottages or at the hotels, which are still open. This, of course, added to the pleasure of the "hop," and it passed off in the most delightful manner. Subsequently the band, by direction of Capt. Julius, of the committee, proceeded to the cottage of M. Hall Stanton, Esq., and compilmented its owner by a serenade. Mr. Stauton is a progressive man, and in many ways has contributed greatly towards the prosperity of Cape May. He has erected one of the handsomest and most costly private residences on the island, and occupies it during the entire season. He was assiduous in his attentions to the railway visitors during their stay. The serenade to Mr. Stauton concluded Saturday's programme.

Sunday opened very disagreeable. Therewere several heavy showers before daylight, and a drizzling rain prevailed until about ten o'clock. Then the clouds broke and Old Sol made a strenuous effort to show himself. At the bathing hour a very fine surf was rolling iere arevari

Beck's band then gave a concert of sacred and operatic music which occupied the time until the dinner hour. In the evening another concert was given in the hall of the hotel. This was followed by a concert of sacred music in the parlor, under the direction of Mr. Wm. N. Marcus, Jr. Mr. the direction of Mr. Win. N. Marcus, Jr. Mr. C. F. Yesterday afternoon, Mr. C. and family went to visit some friends, and during their absence a visit was paid their house. About 4; o'clock three lads entered an alley leading to the proof of the place clambered over the 4½ o'clock three lads entered an alley leading to the yard of the place, clambered over the back gate and next forced an entrance to the cellar through the window. They then ascended to the parlor, and from beneath the cabinet organ removed $332 that had been there secreted by Mr. C. On discovering the loss, Mr. C. notified Detective Miller, who resides in the neighborhood. The latter gentleman, seeing at once that no greenhorn had planned the job, made some inquiries relative to Mr. C's employes, and selecting a lad named John McLaughlin, who had been recently discharged, he searched for selecting a lad named John McLaughlin, who had been recently discharged, he searched for and found him. Being accused of the crime he confessed his guilt, and disclosed the names of his two confederates—Jos. Murphy and Pat. Cahill. The money, minus 50 cents, was subsequently found through McL.'s direction, in the cellar of a house on Memphis street. Ald, Heins held the lads to answer.

Incendiary Fire—On Callowhill street, between Broad and Fifteenth, south side, is the marble yard of John Carney. Located therein were a series of sheds or frame buildings occupied in part as a tool and workshop, a stable and and oyster saloon. The first by Mr. Carney and workmen, the second by Pat McGonigal, and the third by a colored man named Jacob Cornish. About 3 o'clock, this morning, the match of an incendiary fired these sheds, and before the progress of the flames could be stayed damage to the extent of $1,000 was sustained by Mr. C., ugon which there is no insurance. In the stable were two horses, which fortunately were saved.

Mr. Cornish, who slept in his portion of the place, succeeded in saving his stock and utensils. On Saturday night Mr. Cornish discovered a number of boys on the roof, who had INCENDIARY FIRE. On Callowhill street, vered a number of boys on the roof, who had with them a bag half-full of straw. Entering into conversation with them, they boldly stated that they intended to fire the place sooner or later. This morning Francis Crilly, aged fourteen, was recognized by Mr. Cornish as one of the young scoundrels, and he was locked up for a hearing.

GOOD MOVEMENT.—A meeting of the residents of Spring Garden street, west of Eighteenth, was held a few evenings since to take into consideration the paving of that street with the Nicolson, or some other improved pavement. A committee of five gentlemen was appointed to investigate the merits and casts of the different kinds of paving; also to inquire of the City Cannella. merits and casts of the different kinds of paving; also to inquire of the City Councils when they propose to widen the street from Sixteenth to Eighteenth by the removal of the foundries and factories now on the line of the street. Several months have passed by since the property-holders were obliged to pay into the City Treasury an assessment, that was made upon them, towards reimbursing the owners of those buildings, and they are anxious to see them demolished.

MESSRS. KEENAN AND KLOTZ.—On Saturday one John Keenan visited a livery stable, situate on Chelton avenue, Germantown, for the purpose of borrowing a portion of a set of harness. The proprietor being absent, the stableman, one Klotz by name, refused to accede to Mr. Keenan's request. Words followed, and finally Keenan struck Klotz. In retalliation Keenan was struck over the head with an iron bar, wielded by the stableman. Keenan then procured a warrant, upon which Klotz was arrested and held in $800 bail by Alderman Waterhouse to answer. Procuring bail, Mr. Klotz then had Keenan arrested and held in $1,000 bail by Alderman Thomas; and all this over a small piece of harness.

APPLES, TIMOTHY SEED, &c.—At Schenckville, Montgomery county, resides a farmer named Jacob Kraft. A few days since Jacob visited the city, leaving in charge of his farm one Amos Hourin. Yesterday Amos hitched up one of Jacob's finest horses to the best wagon on the farm, and placing therein a lot of apples, timothy seed, an accordeon and a double-barreled gun, he made up quite a load. Not satisfied, however, he entered the farm. Not satisfied, however, he entered the farm-house and took therefrom a $100 bond and $139 in cash. Driving to this city he put up the team in a stable at Second and Coates and then went on a spree. This morning h-was arrested by Detective Levy, minus the cash. All the other articles were recovered. SURGICAL INSTRUMENTS.—John Kelley is the name assumed by a vagabondish character who, too lazy to work, makes his way through the world by stealing. Early this morning Kelley entered the hall of the residence of Dr. Ashton, Ninth and Pine streets, and removed therefrom two hats and a case of surgical in-struments. As he was leaving he was seen by a servant, who happened to have occasion to a servant, who happened to have occasion to visit the grocery store, and the alarm sounded. Kelley made some tall walking, but one of Mayor Fox's policemen outdid him. Kelley now resides at the City Hotelsbeing intro-duced thereto by Alderman Jones.

CLOTHING.—On Saturday evening, as a lad named Conrad Weaver, employed in a tailor-ing establishment, was carrying a coat and pair of pants to the house of a customer, he pair of paints to the house of a customer, he was assulted at Sixth and South streets by a thief named John Robinson, who grabbed the garments and ran. A policeman named O'Connell ran after him, and being somewhat the better pedestrian, soon captured him. John was sent to Moyamensing.

This morning there was a perfectly cloudless sky, and the air was cool and bracing. More pleasant weather could not be imagined. Many of the excursionists sharpened their appetites for breakfast by a stroll along the beach, and others took a bath. After a good breakfast the band performed several selections, and then struck up a grand march. This was the signal for leaving, and the party formed in proces.

The construction of the following sewers, built by private oitizens during the recess of the Board, were ratified, viz. One on Spruce street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth; one on Walnut street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second; one on Walnut street, between Titeenth and Sixteenth; one on Gothic street, east from Second.

The petition for a culvert over a run of water at Ninth and Tioga streets, Twenty-fifth Ward, was granted.

Also, one for a sewer on Wynkoop street, between Spruce and Locust.

The construction of sewers on the following streets was ordered: Essex atteet, between Christian and Catharine; Seventeenth street, between Cuthbert and Arch; Fifth street, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth; Forty-first street, from Haverford road to Mary street, and Mary street westward to Forty-convil street.

street, and Mary street westward to Forty-second street.

Mr. Davis, to whom was referred the deed of dedication for Meloher street, Nineteenth Ward, reported that no action could be taken in the case until Levins and Beecher streets are vacated by the Court.

A CHARACTER.-Jacob Cornish, who has for years sold cysters on Callowhill-street, near Fifteenth, and whose establishment was last night destroyed by fire, is one of Philadel-phia's characters. Born on the eastern shore of Maryland, he there labored in slavery until at the age of fifty, having amassed enough cash by thriftfulness, he purchased his freedom. He then came to Philadelphia, and has according to his own statement, resided here fifty-eight years, making his total age 108. Jacob has been five times married, and has been him no less than thirty obil. had born unto him no less than thirty children. To number his grand and great-grand-children, he says, would necessitate the use of a good-sized blackboard and plenty of chalk. SHARP PRACTICE.-Win. Pickering, on Sat SHARP PRACTICE.—Win. Pickering, on Saturday, stole a horse and wagon from a farmer at Chadd's Ford, Delaware County, and driving to this city attempted to sell it. A policeman, named Urian, hearing of the affair, followed after William to arrest him, but before he could overtake him he had entered. Delaware County. Being in citizens dress the officer kept on, and finally coming up with William, engaged in conversation and agreed to find a customer for the team. By this means William was induced to return to the Blue Bell Hotel, on the Darby road, when the smart officer informed him that he was a prisoner. Alderman formed him that he was a prisoner. Alderman

FIFTEEN CENTS' WORTH OF CALICO .- A daughter of one of the descendants of Ham, named Mary Carnes, on Saturday night en-tered the residence of Mrs. Sarah E. Jones, a lady of the same hue, and stole therefrom a calico dress, valued at fifteen cents. For this criminal act Mary was sent to Moyamensing.

WATCH!—A character, styling himself Robert Everett, was arrested in Edgewood street, on Saturday night, whilst endeavoring to relieve a Son of Bacchus of his watch and chain. Robert was taken before Alderman Neill, who sent him to prison.

THE NEW-HOUSE OF CORRECTION.—The Committee of Finance of Select Council have, by a vote of 4 yeas to 2 mays, agreed to report in favor of the ordinance appropriating $450,-000 for the erection of a new House of Correc-

SLIGHT FIRES .- At 7 o'clock, this A. M., a slight fire occurred in a rag store at Frankford road and Cumberland street. About 91 A. M., the store, No. 729 Poplar street, was slightly damaged by fire and water.

TWENTY THOUSAND GUESTS .- We are prepared to entertain not less than twenty thousand guests with a grand display of our Fall stock, in our new buildings, next Thursday. Without crowding, our house will hold two thousand people, and we hope to have it filled at least ten times over. (We propose to keep count, and tell just exactly how many go in and out of our doors on that day.) We will make a long day of it, that all may have an opportunity. Business men can drop in as they go to business or return; mothers can bring their children after school, in the afternoon, or at the moon recess; and men who are too busy to pared to entertain not less than twenty thouthe noon recess; and men who are too busy to go in the daytime can call in the evening. All will be heartly welcomed and well entertained. WANAMAKER & BROWN.

WANAMER & BROWN.

The Stock of mourning goods, linens, &c., of Messrs. Perkins & Co., No. 9 South Ninth street, has recently been greatly augmented by importations and purchases from domestic manufacturers, and ladies and others will find on visiting the store, anything in the line that they may require. The linen department is a separate and distinct feature, and is under the charge of able hands. Parties contemplating purchases, should not fail to visit this establishment, as in addition to first-class goods, Messrs. P. & Co. engage to sell at the lowest cash prices.

MR. A. DOUGLAS, (Organist at the Church of the Saviour, West Philadelphia,) formerly connected with Mr. J. E. Gould's Piano establishment, has associated himself with Messrs. Redfield, Phelps & Co., agents for Hallet, Davis & Co.'s New Scale Grand and Square Pianos, and can hereafter be found at the rooms of the firm, No. 927 Chestnut, street Mr. D. will have especial charge of the rent ing of Pianos and will be happy at any time to serve his friends.

WE WOULD call special attention to the sale of Residence and Elegant Furniture, on Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock, No. 732 North Nineteenth street, by M. Thomas & Sons, Auctioneers.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

The October number disproves again that flippant gibe in "Lothair" about the degrada tion of anecdotage. Lippincott's has always been the anecdotist par excellence; its place in our monthly literature has been held high above tide precisely by this airy fund of in edited personalities; yet it is not in the least flabby, nor gaseous, nor trivial. It is the most charming of gossipers, ever ready with some precious reminiscence of the great ones departed; yet its persiflage is continually justifled by the wisest and highest thought or study-In the present number we have a new anecdote of Sidney Smith, a capital hit or two about the Empire and the war, some social about the Empire and the war, some social chit-chat from Mexico, etc., all very good for adding sparkle to an October fireside. At the same time we have "Prussia the German Nation," a political paper by Stephen Powers which will command serious attention; "The Porcellan-Fabrik at Meissen," by Helen W. Pierson, very graphic and informing; "The English Hustings," by Mr. Towle, sometime U. S. Commercial Agent at Bradford, England, picturesque and frappantian incisive analysis of Elaubort's novel L'Education Sentimentale; and other papers that realize the ideal of a genial, kindly, watchful, wide-awake monthly conversationalist or visitor. The fiction leads off with "The Ghost of Ten Brock Van Der Heyden," a lively bit of Americanism; then comos Margaret Hosmer's narration, in which factwould fain awake to find itself a dream, of her troubles with Mary Ann and Chyng Loo, the Celtic and Celestial household ministers; "Irene," a tale of society, begins with vivacity and promise. Trollope's novel, "Sir Harry Hotspur of Humblethwaite," continues its patient delineation of that lifelike character, Cousin George, the Black Sheep. Chapter xvII. is illustrated chit-chat from Mexico, etc., all very good for with one of E.B. Bensell's careful drawings, with one of E. B. Bensell's caretin drawings, solidly and thoroughly engraved by Lauder-bach; it is amusing to find our limner invariably drawing, American girls of the most uncontaminate breed for his illustrations of English life; we like the trait, for it shows how thoroughly the artist has imbibed the types around him—and an artist who attempts a represent a type he has not seen is comto represent a type he has not seen is committed to the most helpless blunders. On the whole, we have a varied and genial number of a most companionable magazine.

CITY NOTICES.

POSTPONE not until to-morrow that which should be done to day. The great rush for clething at Rockbill Wilson's on Saturday clearly demonstrated that the people have studied this old adage.
