Wednesday, September 21, 1870. THE CITY OF BOSTON. Nearly eight months have elapsed since City of Boston sailed on her fatal voyage, and to day we have the first ray of light upon the tracedy that swept steamer and crew and passengers into destruction. On Sunday last, a bottle drifted on shore at Long Beach, near Atlantic City, containing the only message that will probably ever reach success without the advice or assistance of the s from the ill-fated vessel. It is a very brief message, and is without date or signature: berge and going down-all hands. Long. 54 Republicans of New York to triumph in the

ANOTHER BAD BEAT. The important news of the bombardme and unconditional surrender of Toul, reached this country last night, and was published exclusively in the papers of the AMERICAN PRESS Association, this morning. Toul is a strongly fortified town, twelve miles west of Nancy, and a most important position in its relation to | sel-wi the line of supplies to the German armies. It has made a stout resistance for more than a month past, and has only capitulated after a terrible bombardment. The Associated Press paners will probably receive tidings of this imortant event to-day, but they are badly beaten by their young rival, as they nearly always are, when there is any news of real consequence.

of the highest value, as settling the time and manner of her loss.

While heavy fighting is going on around Paris, the prospects of peace seem to be growing brighter, and we now have some reason to hope for an early conclusion of the war. M. Favre has gone to the Prussian headquarters, and we have a decided intimation from Bismarck, with sundry hints from other quarters. that Prussia will treat with the Provisional government under certain conditions. Prussia, it appears, will not consent to an armistice, but will continue hostilities until its terms are accepted by France. Then, report asserts, the Prussians will discontinue offensive operations, but will remain upon French territory, in what portions of it we do not know, until a legislature can be elected with power to ratify the treaty made by the Favre government.

Whether Prussia's terms will include cession

A Poem, by Marian Douglas; Good Girls by Major Traverse; How to Travel, by Major Traverse; How to Traverse; H of territory by France we cannot tell, but it is to be hoped that they will be of such a kind of the behavior their ratification by the coming Assembly. The presence of the enemy upon French soil will have the character of a constant menace, and any favorable action of the Assembly may be regarded as compulsory; but the Prussians have the upperhaud, and if France desires peace and the privilege of organizing popular government; she will do well to be satisfied with and to accept the Prussian offer even if its conditions are harsh and offensive. France needs peace now before any other thing, and if her representatives are wise they will secure it at any endurable sacrifice. The slight demonstrations of the Red Republicans in Paris have not as much significance as that which attached to the movements and utterances of the Copperhead faction in this country during our civil war. There will always be a party, in every crisis, no matter where it is presented, that will oppose itself tolaw and order, to the efforts of patriotic men, and to the best interests of the country. The cause of the French republic will be injured no more by the violence of such a crazy fool as Cluseret than our cause was hurt by the scurrility and treason of Vallandigham or the ravings of C. Chauncey Burr, of New Jer sey. It is apparent that the large majority of the lower classes in Paris are working earnestly with the government for the defence of the city, under Rochefort, who is behaving better than demagogues usually do. When the danger is passed, the opposition to the new government may be formidable and threatening; at present we do not fear that Cluseret and his fellow fanatics will excite any portion of the population to outlawry and riot. It is to be regretted that President Grant should have taken the trouble to contradict Dana's slanderous charge that he had allowed Mr. Gould or Fisk to pay his subscription to the Rawlins fund, or that he was under any pecuniary obligation to those persons. I was below the dignity of the President to notice such a slander emanating from such a source. Nobody believed it for a moment, and its denial will only incite its author to the concoction of some fresh libel. to be added to the long catalogue that records the spleen of the embittered and disappointed There is but one proper way to deal with

[By the American Press Association.]

The New York Democratic Convention.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 21.—This city is full of strangers; all the hotels are crowded so much that many are sleeping on cots in the parlors, and halls. The delegates to the Democratic Convention are all here.

The eight o'clock special train from New York, did not arrive until six o'clock this morning. The members were received at the depot by a large delegation, headed by a band of music, and were then marched through the city.

Many of the old Sachems of the Democratic party arrived in the city yesterday, and last evening were carnestly discussing the programme of proceedings for the Convention today. Some of the leaders, however, of the Tammany party came on the late train of the Eric Railway last night. There were fitteen hundred aboard, including delegates and outsiders.

Tammany sends a large delegation of the first Railway last night. There were fitteen hundred aboard, including delegates and outsiders.

Tammany sends a large delegation of the tinterests of the ancient Sachem.

The young Democracy of New York were on hand at an early hour yesterday, and in strong force: They found, on their arrival, that Tammany had engaged all the rooms at the Colson, and at some of the other hotels, and the leaders of the Young Democracy therefore took rooms at the Clinton Hotel, and made that their headquarters. Besides, a full delegation, about half of the alternates are present.

The Tammany men appear to ignore their branch of the Democracy, and were busy last evening representing to the delegates from the interior of the State that their opponents were of no account.

Tammany is a name of fearful import with the Democrats from the curval districts, and they heestate to array thenselves against it. On their contrary, the other vulney of the party insist that they have strength and votes, and that they have strength and votes, and that they have strength and votes, and the days of the rule of Tammany are sist that they have strength and votes, and that the days of the rule of Tammany are numbered.

The old Tammany Sachems will insist, if they think they can carry the country with they can carry the country with they think they can carry the country with them on ruling out the young Democracy, and the Convention will be called to put its heel on those who ignore the ancient and iron rule. If not strong enough for this, they "may nake a virtue of necessity," and consent the ne delegates of the young Democracy have seats in the Convention.

The general feeling among the delegates last night was that the present State officers, from Governor Hoffman down, should be renominated. There is a strong opposition, however, to some of the candidates, and it is pos-

TUESDAY, Sept. 20.—The money market was less active, and no higher rates than six per cent, were reported, although some loans from yesterday doubtless stood over at that figure. On Governments the prevailing rate was five per cent, and the larger Government dealers were supplied at four per cent. Discounts also moved more freely, the "disposition to take paper more readily being quite observable."

Foreign exchange was dull, and the market barely steady. There is quite an accumulation of bills in the street, and the actual business to-day, which was light, was at 109% for prime sixty-day stering, and 10% for sight.
