DR. SCHENCK ADVISES CONSUMPTIVES TO GO TO FLORIDA IN WINTER.—As consumption and lung diseases has been my study and practice for the last thirty-five years, I know that I know what course to pursue to get tolerably bad case of diseased lungs in a healthy condition. The most important matter is to prevent taking cold. The most certain place is to go to Florida in winter, and to go down in the State where the air is even, and the climate is good, and a good house is kept there by Peterman. The back ground are rather low, with some tendency to fever and ague. I saw a number there last winter whose lungs were, or had been deeply diseased and were getting well. One hundred miles lower down the river I would prefer, as the temperature is more even and the air more dry. I allude to Melonville and Enterprise, and prefer Melonville to any place I visited on account of its being two miles from the river or lake, and it seems impossible to take a good sign for a consumptive to want something to eat. The majority of them appear to grow in flesh, and when this is the case, lungs must heal.

In Florida you will find nearly all using my medicines, especially my Schenck's Mandrake Pills; for the climate is more bilious than in the North. I would advise every person complaining with lung disease to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills. I say these medicines, because they do what ought to be done, and nothing more is required. Nature has got to do the rest. When a physician gives a patient medicine to stop the cough, chills or night-sweats, and tells them to walk or ride out every day to get the fresh air, they will be very sure to die. Now, all I do is to give my three medicines, according to the directions, except, in some cases, more Mandrake Pills are required. I get a tone to the stomach; I get up a good appetite; they crave food, it digests and makes good food; the patient begins to grow in flesh, and the lungs begin to heal, then the cough begins to get loose, and abates the creeping chills and night sweats stop, and the patient gets well and healthy.

Everybody should keep on hand Schenck's Mandrake Pills they act on the liver better than cologne, and are good in every instance where purgatives are required. If you have eaten too much fruit, and diarrhea has set in, take a dose of the pills and physic it off. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of the pills and you will be relieved in two hours. Where persons are living in the country in summer, and eating freely of fruit, take one of Schenck's Mandrake Pills every night, or every other night, just sufficient to keep the bowels gently open. They can eat corn, watermelons, peaches, apples or plums as freely as they like without danger, and they will be sure to escape chills and fever. Try them; they are perfectly harmless.

"P. P."—This is the cabalistic sign of Hevner, 246 South Front street, by which he indicates the fact which, so far as we can judge from theoretical and practical evidence, is a fact, that he is able, by the system of refining, which he has adopted, to produce a "Perfectly Pure" Whisky.

From the notorious "Rifle" whisky, which is said to kill at forty paces, up through all the intermediate grades, there is nothing much more difficult than to discover a perfectly pure whisky. The majority of the spirits sold under the name of whisky are compounds of horrid impurities which, if they were fairly appreciated, would constitute the most powerful "poison" agency in the world. Some are, of course, more disgusting and dangerous than others, but the great desideratum is to get at a whisky that is entirely unadulterated, and Mr. Hevner seems to have accomplished this desirable result by the process of refining the liquor in vacuo, at a temperature at which the impurities will not vaporize, by which means a complete separation is effected.

A perfectly pure whisky is undoubtedly a most valuable medicinal agent, and used under proper advice or restrictions, constitutes an invaluable adjunct. The trouble is that those who thus use it have still been compelled to run the risk of taking a variety of impurities into their system, and a more or less deleterious character. Mr. Hevner's process professes to remove all impurities, and an examination of the practical results of his refining process satisfies us that what it professes, it actually accomplishes. Mr. Hevner invites the public to examine his vaporizing process, and to see the character of the impurities extracted. "P. P." is undoubtedly the honest improvement upon a most important branch of manufacture, and people who use whisky, either medicinally or otherwise, have themselves to blame if they continue to use low unknown, poisonous drugs and disgusting impurities, when they can obtain at the same price, the several grades of Hevner's "P. P." Whiskies.

THE FAVORITE FINE CONFECTIONS OF PHILADELPHIA.—The fine confections and chocolate of Stephen F. Whitman & Son, southwest corner of Twelfth and Market streets, have not only been popular and fashionable but they are universally deemed to be the favorite productions of the art, not here alone, but throughout the country at large. They are not matched for their popularity by any of the ordinary means of public knowledge to the trade, but to the intrinsic excellence of their manufacture. In all the productions of art a high order of skill will necessarily produce a corresponding degree of perfection. Hence it is that Whitman & Son's preparations have won special favor in our fashionable and elegant saloons, and in the houses of the non-luxurious, chocolate preparations and other delicious confections of the palate being now celebrated throughout the land and even abroad.

PROBANT SALE.—We call particular attention to the advertisement in another column, relative to the sale of building lots in Moorestown, N. J., which takes place on October 24. The beautiful village of Moorestown is situated nine miles from Camden, on the Camden, Burlington and Pemberton, and Hightstown Railroad. The lots are large, and favorably situated in the centre of the town.

OUR $12 SUITS being the same as others sell at $15, proves our goods all the way through to be twenty-five per cent. lower. Our large purchases and buying of first-class hands does it. WANAMAKER & BROWN, Oak Hall, The Largest Clothing House, Sixth and Market streets.

INSURANCE.

"The Provident."

PROVIDENT

OF PHILADELPHIA, OFFICE—No. 111 South FOURTH St.

The dividend received by a policy holder is the difference between the actual cost of insurance and the premium paid. This Company is expressly required by its charter to divide every dollar of surplus thus arising among its policy holders. It is, therefore, particularly successful.

The New York report for 1870 shows that the assets of this Company are in the proportion of $1 50 to every $1 of liabilities, thus insuring perfect reliability.

It has received the approbation of the most learned actuaries, and is endorsed and recommended by many of the prominent scientific and public men in the United States. An institution of a similar kind in England, the Friends' Provident Institution, has been wonderfully successful.

Its advantages in every respect, both as to safety, cheapness, terms of policies, &c., are not recalled. The prudent and economical management of its business, combined with the remarkable average longevity of its members, commends it to the confidence and favor of all classes of whatever denomination.
