HUMOROUS ITEMS.

To prevent a house from being cold—keep it coal'd.

An old bachelor says wives are help-me-e(a)ts.

A Ticklish Position — Standing upon trifles.

Pay down when you buy, and you won't have to pay up by-and-by.

When do apprentices desire most to travel?

When they become journey-men.

If you don't believe a fly has 209,362 pores in his body, catch one and count them for yourself. "Shoo fly! don't bodder me!"

A fellow just returned from a fight in which he came off second best, was asked what made him look so sheepish. "I've been, and got lamm'd."

"Mein Herr, do you know what for we call our boy Hans?"

"I do not, really."

"Well, I tell you. Der reason that we call our boy Hans is—it is ish name."

Josh Billings says there are few sights more sublime and pathetic than to see a poor but virtuous young man, full of Christian fortitude, struggling to grow a moustache.

"This world is all a fleeting show," said a priest to a culprit on the gallows.

"Yes," was the prompt reply; but if you have no objection, I'd rather see the show a little longer."

"John," said a victimized husband, how I wish it was as much the fashion to trade wives as it is to trade horses."

"Why so, Pete?"

"Why, I'd cheat some body pretty bad afore night."

A subscriber wishing to stop his paper, wrote:

"I don't want your paper any longer." To which the editor replied,

"I wouldn't make it any longer if you did."

An Irishman, officiating as chairman of a club was annoyed at the tumult created by a set of unruly members, and astonished them by vociferating, "Jintlemen, jintlemen, will yees come too order? If you kape silent, you may make as much noise as you plaze."

A raw Jonathan, who had been gazing at a garden in the vicinity of New York, in which there were several marble statues, exclaimed: "Just see what a waste! Here's no less than six scare-crows in this little ten-foot patch, and any one of 'em would keep the crows from a five-acre lot."

"I'll bet a sheep," said old Meredith to his other half, "that our boy Otho is going crazy. For he is grinning at the plough, and he is grinning at the barn, and he is grinning at the table, and he is grinning to himself wherever he goes."

"Poh," replied the old woman, "don't you know he got a love-letter this morning."

"I SHANGE MIT MY MIND."—One of the brigades of our army was temporarily commanded by a German Colonel, one who claims to have seen service abroad.

One day his brigade was out for review and inspection, when he approached, and, taking position, called out:

"Attention, brigade! Shoulder-r-r-a-r-rms!"

But how the men were startled, as the movement was being executed, to hear:

"Hold on! I shange mit my mind! R-i-ght shoulder shift a-r-rms!"

The manoeuvre was executed with many smiles, especially in the rear of the commanding officer.

Some rascally old bachelor must be the author of the following, and if the ladies could only find out who it was, it might be bad for him:

When man was made, it puzzled Satan much

How Adam's soul and body he could win,

So he invented woman; and with such

A soul endowed her, she was sure to sin;

And once get Adam underneath her thrall,

Satan was certain both of them would fall.

But then another difficulty arose—

How to get Adam to accept his bride?

This he o'ercame, as everybody knows,

By sending him to sleep; then by his side

Placed Eve. For Satan knew this much of life,

That, wide awake, he'd never take a wife.
