HUMOROUS ITEMS.

A Portland club has the following question proposed for discussion: "Can a big man ache harder than a little man?"

If you want a policeman it's ten to one you won't find him; but if you don't want him, it's a hundred to one he will find you!

The man who put together seven joints of stove pipe without swearing turns out to be a graduate of a deaf and dumb asylum.

"Don't trouble yourself to stretch your mouth any wider," said a dentist to his patient; "I intend to stand outside to draw your tooth."

Last week a man fell a little in his own estimation, but soon recovered.— This circumstance should caution others against entertaining very high opinions of themselves.

In a public office in a Western city the following notice may be seen:
"Lost—A valuable new silk umbrella, belonging to a gentleman with a curiously carved head."

An Irishman, confined in a Wisconsin jail, on being asked what trade he would choose when at the penitentiary at Waupun, replied: "Shoemaking is a purty good thrade, but if they allow me to take me choice, I'll be a sailor!"

"Humble as I am," said a bullying spouter to a mass meeting of the unterrified, "I still remember that I am a fraction, of this magnificent republic."
"You are indeed," said a bystander,
"and a vulgar one into the bargain."

An Irishman having jumped into the water to save a man from drowning, upon receiving a six-pence from the person as a reward for his service, looked first at the sixpence then at him, and at last exclaimed, "Be jabbers, I am overpaid for the job!"

A little boy in Hudson, N. Y., on returning home from church, was asked by his mother to give the text. After a thoughtful pause, the little fellow replied, "It was something about a hawk between two pigeons." The text was,
"Why hult ye between two opinions?"

The first line of a hymn given out at a prayer meeting so excited the curiosity of a little girl that on returning home she asked for an explanation; the line as she heard it was:

"Mike Rimes a bird and long have been,
A patient ingenuity and an old hymn-book solved the mystery. The original of the above translation was:

"My crimes a burden long have been."

Miss Wilkins was a beautiful blonde, and she wanted to go to Brighton —so she told her mother—to look for something particular for her dear papa.

"And what is it, pray," asked her mother, "that you wish so much to find for our dear papa?"

"A son-in-law," was the gentle reply of the blushing maiden.

A lady occupying a room, letter B, at a hotel in New York, wrote on the slate as follows: "Wake letter B at 7; and if letter B says 'Let her be,' don't let her be, nor let letter B be, because if you let letter B be, letter B will be unable to let her house to Mr. B—, who is to call at half-past 10." The porter, a much better bootblack than orthographist, after studying the above all night, did not know whether to wake letter B or to "let her be."

A negro preacher in Louisiana recently got off the following for the benefit of his hearers: "You think de Lord ain't bout heal all de time! If you dux you is mistaken. One time He met de debble walkin' round like a rorin' lion and de Lord say: I guine to put you into de pit for a thousand years; an' I got a great mind to put you in dar for two thousand years; after dat, if I coteh you roun' again I'll put you in dar foreber, if I's got to do it at de pint ob de bay-net."

It was a long while ago that a New Hampshire judge, in charging a jury, said: "The counsel for the State and for the prisoner have talked of law as was right, but, gentlemen, you and I have something else to consider—it is not law we want, but justice."

"Wouldn't you like to be a woman when you grow up, Tommy?"
"No!"

"Why not?"
"Because women can't turn summer-sets."
