HUMOROUS ITEMS.

A stump speaker exclaimed: "I know no North, no South, no East, no West, fellow citizens." "Then," exclaimed an old farmer in the crowd, "it's time you went to school and learnt jography."

In the old time a Connecticut pastor declined an addition of $100 to his salary, for the reason, among others, that the hardest part of his labors had been the collection of his salary, and it would kill him to collect $100 more.

At a Sunday School in Ripon, a teacher asked a little boy if he knew what the expression "sowing tares" meant. "Courth I does," said he, pulling the seat of his little breeches around in front-- "there's a tear my ma sewed. I teared it slidin' down hill."

As Pat Hogan, a recently arrived emigrant, sat enjoying his connubial bliss upon the banks of a Southern creek, he espied a turtle emerging from the stream. "Och, honey!" he exclaimed, "that iver I should come to Ameriky to see a snuff box walk!"

An Irishman, being a little fuddled, was asked what was his religious belief. "Is me belafe ye'd be asking about? It's the same as the Widdy Brady. I owe her twelve shillings for whiskey, and she belaves I'll never pay her--and faith that's me belafe too."

Curran being at a party at the seat of an Irish nobleman, one of the company, who was a physician, strolled out before dinner into the churchyard. Dinner being served up, and the doctor not returned, some of the company were expressing their surprise where he had gone to. "Oh," says Curran, "he has just stepped out to pay a visit to some of his old patients."

"Vat ish dem tings dat has a got a long bill and go 'buz'" inquired a Dutchman of a man at a hotel, where he had put up the night before. "I suppose you mean woodcocks," returned he. "Vell I kill dwenty woodcocks in mine chamber bed last night." "O, you mean mosquitoes." "Vell den I kill dwenty mosquitoes," returned the Dutchman.

A few years ago a little fellow was taken by his father to a carpenter to be bound apprentice to him, after the fashion of those times. In settling the business, the master, who was one of the stiff kind, observed: "Well, boy, I suppose you can eat most anything, can't you? I always make my boys live on what they don't like." "I love every thing but mince pie and apple pie!" was the boy's instant reply.

A good story is told of the late M. de Balzac. One night, while lying awake in bed he saw a man enter his room cautiously, and attempt to pick the lock of his writing desk. The rogue was not a little disconcerted at hearing a loud laugh from the occupant of the apartment, whom he supposed asleep. "Why do you laugh?" asked the thief. "I am laughing, my good fellow," said M. de Balzac, "to think what pains you are taking, and what risk you run, in hope of finding money by night in a desk where the lawful owner cannot find any by day."

A Michigan constable, from whose custody a prisoner had escaped with only a shirt on, while in search of the convict, was told by one of his neighbors that there had appeared at the house of the latter, during the night, an individual who was stark naked and who refused to give any account of himself. The neighbor further said that the stranger was still in his house, and might yet be taken. The constable flew around, got his handcuffs, and rode up to the residence of his informant, to find that the lady of the house had given birth to a fine baby.

A Lady was told the other day by a traveling gentleman that in a certain country every lady who had a small mouth was provided with a husband by the government.

"It is possible," said the lady making her mouth as small as she could. The gentleman added, that if a lady had a large mouth, she was provided with two husbands. "My gracious," exclaimed the lady, at the same time throwing her mouth open to its full extent. The gentleman became alarmed, made his escape almost immediately, and has not been heard of since.
