NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENN'A.

Tuesday, July 26, 1870.

THE FRENCH MINISTER, M. Prevost Paradel, who but recently arrived, committed suicide at Washington, last Wednesday, by shooting himself through the heart. It is supposed he was laboring under insanity at the time he com-mitted the deed. He left letters showing that the deed was premeditated.

THE new tax law is expected to furnish the following results: Income, $14, 900,000; Spirits, $52,000,000; Tobacco. $30,000,000; Beer, $6,000,000; Stamps $15,000,000; Gas, $2,000,000. The new law in respect to the duties on imports is to take effect January 1st, 1871; in respect to most international taxes on income and dividends are retained through 1870 and 1871.

An appropriation of $50,000 was made by Congress for the expedition to the North Pole. The best use that the money could be put to, would be to invest it, and let the interest go to those who have already lost their lives fooling around in that locality. A contest for the handling of it was begun at once between Dr. Hayes, and Capt. Hall, two Artic explorers, and has been decided by the President placing Capt. Hall in command of the expedition.

THE DOCTRINE OF INFALIBILITY has been adopted, and the Pope has already delivered an allocation, promulgating the doctrine, and requiring all Catholics to give it support. He calls upon those Bishops voting against it, to seek for light to show them that they voted in error, and expects as he says, "that God will illumine their minds so that they may return to the bosom of the father.' It will be uphill work to bring the intelligent portion of the Catholics to unanimously support such a doctrine.

The War in Europe.

So far there has been no actual conflict between the contending parties, but both France and Prussia are massing their forces, each, apparently waiting for the attack to come from their opponent. The French have, however, seized and occupied Saarbouck, which is a Prussian town of about 12,000 inhabitants, but no opposition was offered. There have been some rumors of a fight having occurred, but these rumors are all contradicted. In the meantime, Napoleon is busy trying to furnish a satisfactory reason for the course he has taken, by sending circulars to the other European nations, claiming that he has appealed to arms only to prevent Prussia from destroying the political equilibrium of Europe. It is not proba-ble that any nation will be foolish enough to believe that his course has been controlled by any such motive. At the present time it is impossible to tell how many nations may be drawn into the quarrel, but the least interference with Belgium will bring England, to the aid of Prussia. and if France is not extremely careful of her movements, Russia will also take part in the fight, and of course, would oppose France.

We are inclined to think unless a peace is patched up within a very short time, that England and Russia will be drawn into the strife and if that should be the case, Austria could no longer remain neutral, but would join her fortunes with Napoleon. It is possible that the war may end with a single battle, but much more probable that there will be a long war in which all the above nations will take part. In that case we expect to see the pride of Napoleon crushed, and the prospects of his son ever occupying the French throne entirely destroyed. Until some decisive battle has been fought it will be impossible to obtain any reliable news of the situation of the armies, as all correspondents are kept out of the lines, and the Governments have control of the telegraphs.

GENERAL GREGORY is evidently unqualified for the position he occupies, if be performs the other duties of his office with as little show of common sense, as he exhibits in the appoinment of assistantsfor taking the Census. To this sub-district a deputy is sent, who resides miles away, while from this borough, a man is appointed to take the Census in another locality, and all through this, and the adjoining counties, appointments have been made with the same disregard to convenience and common sense. Not only is it inconvenient, but it is a clear violation of law, "Sec. 4, of the Act of 1850, making it obligatory on the assistants to be residents of the sub-division to which they are appointed.

It therefore seems that four-fifths of all the deputy-marshals in this county are appointed contrary to law.

THE GOLD PREMIUM has already commenced to fall, as we predicted last week that it would do, after people began to recover from the first excitement. Should the war continue any length of time, we expect to see the premium at a lower point than any yet reached since 1862 .-The closing price for gold last week was 1187. Speculators may succeed in getting up another excitement when the news comes of an actual conflict between the two armies, but if they do, we believe the rise will be temporary and the reaction will carry it back to a still lower figure than it is at present.

Effects Of The War On Farm Products.

The War in Europe, especially if it be prolonged beyond a few months or even weeks, will result to the profit of the agricultural community of this country. The drouth in France has reduced the crops of the present year to about onehalf of the ordinary yield, and the waste of war is proverbial, but in nothing, more than in the products of the soil. That which is eaten by soldier and beast is insignificant by comparison with that which armies crush down and destroy. A march of a vast army is more destructive in material to a country than a battle. Nations at war have no time to till the ground. The sword usurps the plow-share, and France and Prussia must look abroad to have their markets supplied with cereals. Here we have them in plenty, and we will be very glad to exchange them for our bonds, of which Germany and France have plenty. The crops of this year in all sections of the country have been bounteous, and the most prosperous men of the coming winter will be the farmers. We have no doubt that the grain speculators are already scattering themselves over the West and South, but the farmers should not be in too great haste to part with their harvests. This season, certainly, they can lose nothing by waiting a little longer. The next ten days will probably decide whether or not there is to be an extraordinary demand for our agricultural pro-

A Desperate Resistance.

A young man named Thomas Gallagher a conductor on a coal train on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad, was arrested this morning at the Lehigh and Susqehanna depot at Nanticoke Junction, for the alleged larceny of a watch. He made a desperate resistance, and attempted to get on the passenger train as was leaving the depot. He succeeded in getting on, but so did the officer. Gallagher ran through the car and leaped from the forward platform, the officer in close pursuit. He caught the rear end of the train and knocked the officer over as he attempted to detain him. He was however, caught by a confederate of the officer, who, it seems, was on the train. He was then safely conveyed to the county prison at Wilkesbarre.

Swallowed up in a Quick Sand.

A correspondent of the Kansas Journal says: This afternoon the citizens of Silver Lake were shocked by the inteligence that a man, by the name of Price Roberts, was partially buried in a well out on Big Soldier. In company with Dr. Ward and others of this place, I repaired to the scene of disaster. The circumstances are as follows:

Mr Randall engaged Mr. Roberts to dig him a well. When he had it sunk to the depth of twenty-five or thirty feet he commenced curbing with rather frail material, using grape vines, secured by boards. When at the depth of forty feet having dug five feet below his curbing. he was urged by Mr. Randall and his friends to come out; but, having struck water, he was auxious to secure the prize. Shortly afterward Mr. Randall's ears were startled by the ery for help. Seizing the windlass, they dragged him about fifteen feet, when 'the treacherous curbing gave way, forcing him to one side and under the bank, breaking his hold and entangling his legs in the cur-

Buried up to his chin, and with the fearful prospect of another slide every moment, Mr. Randall, with heroic fortitude, decended the well and commenced digging him out. Death was around him and above him-on all sides. Yet he worked until he had got the land away to his waist. Weak and exhausted, he was pulled out. He mounted his harse and rode after help. When we reached the spot we found Mr. Roberts still alive and giving directions to those above how to proceed. We constructed a curbing about twelve feet long, and let it down but owing to the curbing below we could not get it to the bottom within three feet Moments were eternities with the poor

The first to descend the curbing was a young man by the name of Johnston, who pulled the sand away from his face came up, and Mr. Randall went down

This noble youth worked until, fainting and exhausted, he was palled up and placed on a bed and restoratives given him. An experienced well digger was the next to go down. He worked faithfully, but gave up all hope of getting him out. The sun had set, and deep down into the darkness of that "chamber of death" Mr. Roberts still continued to give directions. Dr. Ward went down with a lantern. A bottomless box was lowered which the Dr. placed over his head to protect him from the inroads of the quicksand. We were falfilling other orders of the Doctor when he exclaimed. "He is gone!" Another slide completely covered him, and almost fastened the Doctor in. Every effort was put forth to save him, but in vain.

Robberies in Altoona. - The Altoona

Daily Sun, of the 19th inst., says: "Our city is undoubtedly infested by a gang of experienced burglars, who carry on their nefarious business in the most systematic and successful manner, and who have no trace wherby they can be discovered.

Night before last, another attempt was made to enter the residence of Mrs. Caroline Huff, on Eleventh avenue, probably by the same person who succeeded in carrying off a portion of her property but a few weeks before. His movements were observed by four or five persons, who made an attempt to capture him, but, like the Irishman's flea, when they thought they had him he "wasn't there."

Last night, or early this morning, the residence of the Rev. Mr. Monroe, (pastor of the Second M. E. Church,) corner of Sixth avenue and Twelfth street, was successfully entered by one or more of these chevoliers d' industrie who obtained ingress to the building by climbing over a wooden shed and entering an open window. Once inside, the thieves evidently took their time, and made a thorough search of the premises, securing two gold watches and Mr. Monroe's pocket-book, which contained a sum money and a check payable to order. One of them belonging to Mrs. Monroe, was highly prized, having been presented to her by some friends. The other, the property of Mr. Monroe, was also a present .-The pocket-book and check were found this morning. Mr. Monroe has been awake a great part of the time for the past few nights, waiting upon a sick child, and sup-poses that when , he fell asleep last night he was so exhausted as not to hear the noise, if any had been made.

13 Joel Pardee, a young man who resided in Sullivan county, N. Y., was instantly killed last Wednesday while going from the field to the barn, by lightning, which struck a pitchfork he was carrying on hisGreat Fire at Occola.

About nine o'clock, on the 16th inst., fire broke out in the large saw mill at Oceola Clearfield county, belonging to the Moshannon Land & Lumber Company. The mill and three dwelling houses were entirely consumed, together with the warehouse and a large portion of the trestle work on the Beaver Branch Railroad. Vast piles of sawed lumber that occupied every available space in the extended yards were consumed. The loss is estimated at from $175,000 to $280,000 covered with insurance to probably half that amount.

Ta A Chicago paper is responsible for the story that a few days since some boys in that city cropped an anvil weighing 200 pounds out of a fourth-story window on the head of an African who was passing, and ling to let the boys have fun, but when they jammed a "gemman's" hat down over his eyes and spoiled it in that way, the law must take its course.

A. Winsted lady was some time ago struck by lightning, and lay for hours unconscious—dead to all human appearance. She distinctly heard her friends declare that she was "unquestionably dead;" and she would have been buried alive had not her brother insisted (while the bystanders laughed him to scorn) upon hoping and working and waiting for her restoration, which he at length accomplised.

A Tragedy.-On the 19th inst Captain W. F. Hayward' proprietor of the hotel at Chester's Summer Retreat, on the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad, shot and mortally wounded his son-in-law, B. F. Lindsay, for deceiving his (Haywards) daughter. Hayward is also proprietor of the Dime Hotel, Richmond and is well known and much respected.

He called Lindsay into a room of the ho-tel and taxed him with his crime. Lindsay it is said, confessed and professed himself willing to realize such punishment as he merited and Hayward then commenced firing on him, wounding him in the abdo-men and thigh.

Terrible Accident.-On Saturday afternoon, as the 4 o'clock train on the West Jersey Railroad was approaching the Woodbury depot, a horse attached to a carriage, containing Mr. George Gregory and his wife, and an aged lady from Iowa named Cadwell, became unmanageable. In his fright the horse dashed egainst the smoking car, and he with the carriage and occupants, were forced along with the car between the platform and the passing train. Mr. Gregory and his wife were instantly killed, and mutilated in a horrible manner. Mrs. Caldwell was thrown under the cars which passed over her, cutting one foot completely of above the ankle, and crush-ing the other in a terrible manner. The horse was literally cut into pieces and the wagon broken into atoms.

The "Pain-Killer."

The foreign and domestic demand for Perry D vis & Son's great medicine-the Pain Killer-v never before so large as it has been of late; and w think the time has arrived when the declaration may be made, without the possibility of refutatio that the city of Providence, in the State of Rhoc Island, of the United States of America, has fu nished the habitable globe with a medicine, which in point of universality of demand, extent of us fulness, complete efficiency for all the purposes for which it is designed and wide-spread, endurir popularity, has never been equalled by any med cine in Europe or America.

The universality of the demand for the Pa Killer, is a novel, interesting, and surprising feture in the history of this medicine. Its "fame ha gone out," into every quarter of the habitable globe. The Pain Killer is now regularly sold i large and steadily increusing quantities, not only to general agents in every State and Territory (the Union, and every Prouince of British America but to Buenos Ayres, Brazil, Uraguay, Peru, Chi and other South American States to the Sandwic Islands; to England and Continental Europe; t Mozambique. Madagasear, Zanzibar and othe African lands; to Australia and Calcutta, Rangoon and other places in India. It has also been sent to China, and we doubt if there is any foreign port o inland city in Africa or Asia, which is frequented by American and European missionaries, travellers or traders, into which the Pain Killer has not been introduced and been sought after.

The extent of its usefulness is another great feature of this remarkable medicine. It is not only the best thing ever known, as everybody will confess, for bruises, cuts, burns, &c., but for dysentery or cholera, or any sort of bowel complaint it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of British India, and in the West India Islands and other hot elimates it has become the standard medicine for all such complaints, as well as for dyspepsia, liver complaints and other kindred disorders. For coughs and colds, canker, asthma and rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing trials and testimony, to be an invaluable medicine. The proprietors are in posession of letters from persons of the highest character and responsibility, testifying, in unequivocal terms, to the cures effected and the satisfactory results produced, in an almost endless variety of cases, by the use of this great medicine.-Prov.
