FARM AND HOUSEHOLD ITEMS

We invite communications from all persons who are interested in matters properly belonging to this department.

Long-Keeping Apples.

Mr. O. S. Willy gives in The Horticulturist the following advice to keep the American Golden Russet apple, and it will of course answer for any other. It is still timely information for this season:—"Of first importance to every family and orchardists is a good late-keeping apple. A cellar well-stored with them, in prime condition, is a mine of wealth, and a source of real pleasure which few ever reach. We always knew the American Golden Russet to be just this treasure, but never fully realized it as I have the present summer. Up to July 1st, they were in our market, as firm, crisp and tender, "sound to the core," as the Autumn before when gathered. It was a good feast to look upon, but one seldom presented; for as I know a large majority use up their best late-keepers long before they are in their prime. The Golden Russet is really not fit to eat till May and June. But "how to keep it, mine all rot." Pick carefully by hand each apple as (almost) so many eggs; place in a new oak apple barrel; fill full to the level, press in the head; leave in some cool shady place till cold weather; then place in the cellar, free from frost but as cool as possible without freezing; and the next June any one so doing, can have just as good an apple as ever was eaten, and far more pleasant and healthful than the too many early and half-matured apples of our fruit stands. Try it, and there is none better.

About Potatoes.

Not a little discussion has been indulged in by the various agricultural journals respecting the proper time to dig, and the proper way to care for potatoes after they are dug. Our opinion with regard to digging is that when the vines are dead, if this occurs before the frost kills them, the sooner the potatoes are dug, the better. They are then supposed to be ripe, and after a potato is ripe, if allowed to remain in wet earth its quality is harmed. If the vines are killed before the tuber is ripe, we should let them remain in the ground as long as the frost will allow with entire safety. Potatoes ripen if they do not grow, after the vines are thus destroyed. As to subsequent care, the mode adopted by the best growers is to put them immediately in a cool, dry cellar, in bins raised about six inches from the ground, and not over three or four feet wide with slat bottoms and sides, so that the air can circulate freely through the mass. In this way, unless they are poisoned before putting in the cellar, potatoes can be kept from August to April.

Feeding on the Road.

Many persons in travelling, feed their horses too much and too often, continually stuffing them, not allowing them to rest and digest their food; of course they suffer from overfulness, and carrying unnecessary weight. Horses should be well fed in the evening and not stuffed so full in the morning, and the traveling should be moderate on starting with a horse having a full stomach. If a horse starts in good condition, he can go twenty or twenty-five miles without baiting. This is evident when we consider the time necessary to accomplish this space with tolerable speed. On the contrary, with a heavy load, and a bad road, a horse would only go eight or ten miles a day in that time. Why cannot horses travel half a day without eating, as well as to work that time on a farm? If there be more exertion on the road it is a reason against frequent feeding at that time.—American Veterinarian.

Dairy cows are only profitable in some people's estimation during the summer and autumn, and many farmers actually have not enough milk in winter to supply their table with fresh butter, while others, to obtain some, give the two or cows having the most milk about them, the filthy dish water and refuse from the kitchen, to keep them giving some; the consequence of which is nauseous butter, which, like the stuff they feed the cows with, is only fit for pigs to eat. Dairy cows will prove the capacity of any man for the business of farming, for there is no stock which, so to say, resents parsimony so quickly, and if any one cannot make a lot of cows pay well, neither could he make a flock of sheep cut wool enough and make sufficient mutton to answer the purpose of keeping. Peurios men must change their dispositions in these days of progress, for the price of dairy produce is highly remunerative, and so also is the price of meat, so that there is a double inducement to feed well. The right sort of cows must be raised, for lack of judgment will spoil other good qualities, and the best kind of food should be grown, and this is where winter dairymen fail. Food mangolds are the cheapest food to feed with hay and meal, and without roots no dairy would do well.

THE KIDNEYS.

THE Kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loin, surrounded by fat, and consisting of three parts, viz: the Anterior, the Interior and the Exterior.

The Anterior absorbs. Interior consists of tissues or veins, which serve as a deposit for the urine and convey it to the Exterior. The Exterior is a conductor also, terminating in a single tube, and called the Ureter. The Ureters are connected with the bladder.

The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, viz: the Upper, the Lower, the Nervous, and the Muscular. The upper expels, the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability; others urinate without the ability to retain.—This frequently occurs in children.

To cure these affections, we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they are neglected, Gravel or Dropsy may ensue.

The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to affect the bodily health and mental powers, as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources.

GOUT, OR RHEUMATISM.—Pain occurring in the loins are indicative of the above diseases. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalky concretions.

THE GRAVEL.—The gravel ensues from neglect or improper treatment of the kidneys.—These organs being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes feverish, and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed and gravel ensues.

DROPSY is a collection of water in some parts of the body, and bears different names, according to the parts affected, viz: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca; when of the abdomen, Ascites; when of the chest, Hydrothorax.

TREATMENT.—Helmbold's highly concentrated compound Extract Buchu is decidedly one of the best remedies for diseases of the bladder, kidneys, bladder, dropsical swellings, rheumatism and gouty affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysuria, or difficulty and pain in passing water, Scanty Secretion, or small and frequent discharges of water; Strangury, or stopping of water; Hematuria, or bloody urine; Gout and Rheumatism of the kidneys, without any change in quantity, but increase in color, or dark water. It was always highly recommended by the late Dr. Physick, in these affections.

This medicine increases the power of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy exercise by which the watery or calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements, as well as pain and inflammation, are reduced, and it is taken by men, women, and children. Directions for use and diet accompany.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Feb. 23, 1867.

H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist:

DEAR SIR—I have been a sufferer, for upward of twenty years, with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent Physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted with my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and, some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy.

As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination, and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced its use about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room. From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks, was able to walk out. I felt much like writing you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing then it would be of more value to you, and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months.

I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.
