HUMOROUS ITEMS.

A graveyard inscription in Kennebec, Me., reads thus: "Poor Joe! his head is level now if it never was before."

It is very well for little children to be like lambs, but a very bad thing for them to grow up sheepish.

Why is an Italian exile returning to his native land, like a man going to see his son go up an apple tree? Because he is going to see his own sunny clime.

A wife asked her husband if druggists kept dye-stuffs for sale.

He replied: "Most druggists keep little else but dye-stuffs."

"Biddy, did you put an egg in the coffee, to settle it?"

"Yes mum; I put in four; they were so bad I had to use the more of 'em."

An Illinois postmaster gives notice as follows: "After this date everybody must lick their own postage stamps, for my tongue's give out."

"Any tings pite you dare?" inquired one Frenchman of another, while engaged in angling. "No, notings at all." "Vell," returned the other, "notings pite me, too."

A little boy having broken his rocking-horse the day it was bought, his mamma began to scold, when he silenced her by inquiring, "What is the good of a horse till it's broke?"

A Cincinnati mother got a big cow-hide, and invited in a cobbler who had insulted her daughter proceeded to wax him with awl her might. The last blow nearly ended him.

"Bones," said a wag to a milkman, "you ought to roof them cows of yours." "What for?" asked the other. "To keep the water from running into the milk," replied the wag.

Quite a laugh was raised in one of the courts by an official, who, when the chairman called out for the crier to open the court, said, "May it please your honor, the crier can't cry to-day, because his wife is dead."

A young couple had been married by a Quaker who, after the ceremony remarked, "Friend, thou art now at the end of thy troubles." A few weeks after, the young man came to the minister, boiling over with rage, his wife turning out a regular vixen. "I thought you told me I was at the end of my troubles?" "So I did, friend, but I did not say which end."

An Irishman and a Frenchman were to be hanged together. The latter was strongly affected by his situation, while Paddy took it very easy, and told his companion to keep up his spirits for it was nothing at all to be hanged. "Ah, mon Dieu" said the Frenchman, "there be one grand difference between you and me, for you Irishmen are used to it."

"Good-morning, Mr. Smith—the sick list to-day?" "Yes sir; got the ague." "Do you ever shake?" "Yes, shake like thunder." "When do you shake again?" "Can't say when—shake every day
