HUMOROUS ITEMS.

"Rum did it all," said a man on the gallows, "and I'll never drink another drop as long as I live."

'Adversity,' says a western preacher, "takes us up short and sets us down hard, and when it's done with us we feel as contented as a boy that's been spanked and set away to cool."

There is a man down east, rather a facetious fellow, whose name is New. He named his first child Something, as it was something new. His next child was called Nothing, it being nothing new.

A crusty old bachelor sends us the following conundrum: What is the difference between a honeycomb and a honeymoon? A honeycomb consists of a number of small "cells," and a honeymoon consists of one great "sell."

Dr. S. wants to know if you will please to pay this bill now?

Old gentleman looks over the items and replies:
 "Tell Dr. S. I'll pay him for his medicines, and return his visits."

A little four-year old boy sat alone on the piazza, when a new physician came to see his sick mother. The doctor naturally wished to make acquaintance, and said: "How old are you, my son?" "I'm not old I'm new!" said the boy.

A man who had filed a petition for divorce was informed by his counsel that his wife had filed a "cross petition," as lawyers call it. "A cross petition!" exclaimed the husband. "That's just like her, she never did a good-natured thing in her life!"

A captain, of the old school, being at a ball, had been accepted by a beautiful partner, a lady of rank, who in the most delicate manner possible, hinted to him the propriety of putting on a pair of gloves. "Oh!" was the elegant reply "never mind me, ma'am; I shall wash my hands when I've done dancing."

"Ma," said an intelligent, thoughtful boy of nine, "I don't think Solomon was so rich as they say he was." "Why, my dear, what could have put that into your head?" asked the astonished mother. "Because the Bible says he slept with his fathers; and I think if he had been so rich, he would have had a bed of his own."

The following scene recently occurred in one of our courts between the judge and a Dutch witness, all the way from Rotterdam: "What is your native language?" "I pe no native." "What is your mother tongue?" "Ich hab no modder, mynheer." "What did you first learn? What language did you speak in the cradle?" "I did not speak no language in de cradle; I only cry in Dootch."

Hahneman, the founder of the Homoeopathic school, was one day consulted by a wealthy English lord. The doctor listened patiently to the statement which the patient made to him. He then took a small vial, opened it, and held it under the lord's nose. "Smell! Well, you are cured?" The lord asked, in surprise, "How much do I owe you?" "A thousand francs," was the reply. The lord immediately pulled out a bank-note and held it under the doctor's nose. "Smell! Well you are paid!"

A little fellow, some four or five years old, and who had never seen a negro, was greatly perplexed one day when one came to where he and his father were. The youngster eyed the stranger suspiciously till he had passed, and then asked his father:

"Pa, who painted that man all black so?"
 "God did, my son," replied the father.
 "Well," said the little one, still looking after the negro. I wouldn't have held still unless he had painted me a prettier color."

From Missouri, a friend furnishes the following information upon a matter which has probably suggested an inquiry in more than one man's mind: A venerable and greatly esteemed and respected old patriarch, late of this vicinity, divulged to me on his deathbed, the origin of a certain phrase or figure of speech. He said it came about it in this wise; A gentleman was blown up on a Mississippi steamboat, and he went up in the air about four or four and a half miles, and then, just before parting into a great variety of fragments, he remarked to a neighbor who was sailing past on lower level, "Say, friend, how is this for high?"
