HUMOROUS ITEMS.

Teacher—"Th-a-t spells what?"
Bright scholar—"Does it, I thought it spelt that."

"I go through my work," so the needle said to the idle boy. "But not until you are hard pushed," said the idle boy to the needle.

Daniel Purcell was desired one night in company to make a pun extempore. "What subject?" said Dan.—"The King," answered the other. "Oh, the King is no subject."

In a recent trial of a case for assault and battery, the counsel said: "I will now introduce an eye-witness of the affair, Samuel Smith." "What is your occupation, sir?" "Blind beggar."

"Susan B. Anthony has been speaking a good deal lately, and has caught what is called 'minister's sore throat.'" She has never been able, however, to catch the minister himself.

A Vermont girl wants to know if the woman's rights movement includes the right to do the courting. If it does, she is in for it, as the men in her vicinity are very bashful. There is something practical in that.

"What are you about?" inquired a lunatic of a cook, who was industriously stripping the feathers from a fowl. "Dressing a chicken," answered the cook. "I should call this undressing," said the crazy fellow, in reply. The cook looked reflective.

A gentleman fond of using high-flown language, sometimes made very laughable mistakes. He had the honor of presiding at a Sunday school celebration, and after one of the speeches, he addressed the audience, telling them that they would now have "some vocal music on the brass band."

One Doctor Duncan received a severe injury from something in the shape of a cow skin, somewhere in the neighborhood of Cincinnati. "Where were you hurt, doctor?" said a friend. "Was it near the vertebrae?" "No, no!" said the disciple of Galen; "It was near the race course."

An Israelite lady, sitting in the same box at an opera with a physician, was much troubled with ennui, and happened to gape. "Excuse me madam," said the doctor. "I am glad you did not swallow me."
 "Give yourself no uneasiness," replied the lady, "I am a Jewess, and never eat pork."

Not long since, one of the learned counsel in a small suit deemed it necessary to shake the testimony of a Mr. Samuel Butterworth, by impugning his veracity. A witness was called to the stand. "Do you know Samuel Butterworth?" "Yes." "What is Butterworth?" "Two and ten-pence a pound, although some folks have paid as high as three shillings."

The Providence Press says that one of the census enumerators put down in list twins opposite the names of two children, and against the first he designated Providence as the birthplace. Washington sent the list back to have the deficiency accounted for. What they wanted to know was, where the other twin was born.

Zerah Colburn, the wonderful boy calculator, was asked at one of his levees, as a catch question, "Knowing the distance pray, can you tell me how many cows' tails it would take to reach from our earth to the moon?" Nothing daunted, the boy archly replied: "Yes sir, one—if it were long enough!" The audience applauded Zerah's wit and laughed at his would-be confounder.

"Why, Bill, what's the matter with you? You look down in the mouth." "Well, Peter, I dare say if you'd been through what I have you'd look bad too." "What's the matter?" "Well, you know Sarah Snivels, don't you Peter?" "Yes." "I discarded her last night." "You did! what for?" "Well, I'll tell you. She said she wouldn't marry me, and I'd discard any girl that would treat me in that manner."

"Mary, why did you kiss your hand to the young gentleman opposite this morning?" said a careful parent to his blooming daughter.
 "Why, the fellow had the impudence to throw a kiss clear across the street at me, and, of course, I threw it back indignantly. You wouldn't have me encourage him by keeping it, would you?"
 Suspicious paternal relative is convinced that he drew an erroneous inference.
