NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENN'A. Tuesday, March 21, 1871.

Col., THOMAS A. SCOTT has been elected president of the Union Pacific Railroad. This is a pretty sure sign this road will be successfully managed.

GREAT complaint is made regarding the crowded condition of the Penitentiaries, and the erection of another building of that kind is talked of. At the rate these expenses are increasing it will soon take all the honest portion of the community can make, to safely keep the

THERE is no reason why one stubborn Juror should be enabled to block the wheels of justice, and to prevent this being done, a bill now before the Wisconsin Assembly provides that whenever eleven jurors, impanelled to try any criminal case or civil action, shall agree upon a verdict, such agreement, duly announced in court, shall be taken and held to be the verdict of the whole jury.

THE latest dodge which has come to our notice for the purpose of obtaining gratuitous advertising comes from Baltimore. A firm there employed in putting up canned fruit and oysters, recently got burned out, and now send slips, giving a description of the fire and applauding the promptness with which they resume business, to papers all over the country requesting them to publish. Ten cents a line is our price, gentlemen, for the desired notice. No charge, however, for

An important case was recently decided in Detroit, regarding the liability of insurance companies. A man who was killed a few months since, had just ordered from the Continental Insurance Company of New York, a policy for $5,000, and had paid part of the premium, but the policy was not handed over. The company refused to pay, and were sued by the widow. Judgment was rendered for the amount of the policy and interest.

New Hampshire Election.

At the election in New Hampshire, on Friday last, the Democrats carried the State for the first time since 1854. At the last Presidential election, the Republican majority was nearly 7,000. The reason for this change is thus accounted for by the Concord Statesman, a leading Republican paper of that State:

"Had Charles Sumner not been forced from his place as chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, the Republican vote would have been larger: have been larger; had the San Domingo scheme been left to the operation of natural causes, instead of being pushed with unreasonable persistence, it would have been larger; had Congress succeeded in restoring our commerce to the extent and importance it had before the Rebellion, it would have been larger; had some of the land grant bills, however wise and just in themselves, been discreetly deferred until the public understanding had grown up to them, it would have been larger; and had all these causes of embarrassment been withheld, we might have carried the State by nearly the usual majority, in spite of the demoralization produced in the party by the forcing upon it of the unpopular nominations made in a packed

Let these be the correct reasons or not, it is pretty certain that the result of the election in that State is only the begin-ning of a series of defeats to the Republican party, unless they learn wisdom from the past, and throwing aside all petty quarrels close up the ranks solidly for the fall Campaigns.

Horace Howes, who died recently at San Francisco, left property valued at nearly $2,000,000, but so tied up as to make it useless to his widow and child. Just before dying he sent a message to the Courts, saying that he had always disapproved of adjournment out of respect to the memory of deceased members of the bar, and requested that no adjournment be allowed in his case. It is believed that his Will will be set aside on the ground of insanity, and in justice to his Chauncey Johnson one of the boldest robbers the century has produced, has just been tripped up in a career of crime extending over many years, and has been sent to Sing Sing. Many of his exploits in the way of bank robberies are marvels of audacity. Among his bold operations was the robbery of the Bank of North America, in Philadelphia some time in the summer of 1861. He had a confederate with him.

They both entered the bank, and while the confederate engaged the attention of the teller, Johnson, with a piece of wire bent up at one end like a hook which he ran through the iron railing in front of the desk, pulled out a package of bills from under the teller's hands and pocket-

The two then went out on the sidewalk to count their ill-gotten gains, and found that the package consisted of one dollars bills, in all $85.

"Let's go back and make it an even hundred," said Johnson.

"Agreed," replied his confederate and the two re-entered the bank and began fishing for another pile. But they were not so successful this time. The package Johnson hooked on to was one of new bills, and, while being drawn out from the pile, the paper-rattled sufficiently loud to attract the attention of the teller, who at once saw through the little

With the help of the cashier he sueceeded in catching Johnson, while the confederate escaped. Johnson got five years in prison for this offence, but was released at the expiration of about half of his sentence.

The amount of money, securities and goods stolen by this one man will reach the enormous sum of at least $1,500,000, and yet he is to-day poorer than when he began his career of crime. He placed no more value upon money than if it was so much blank paper, except as it furnished him the means with which to indulge in the passion for gaming.

A dispatch from Titusville dated March 11th, says:

Our city has been startled by a tragedy the circumstances of which are thus far a mystery. On Wednesday the body of a woman, in a partially decomposed state, poorly clad, and with nothing on her person whereby she could be identified, was found in an unfrequented, out-of-the-way place, near this city.

The body laid on the bank of a small stream about two rods below the railroad track, and about forty rods below Ames' Mill and across Oil Creek. It was that of a woman about twenty five years of age. The face, breast and lower limbs were uncovered and discolored, having been exposed to the action of the weather and sun.

Some three months since Mr. Morse and Mr. Burdick, of this city, picked up three or four articles of men's clothing near the spot where the woman's body was found, but on the other side of the railroad track. They were torn and stained with blood, and being found under suspicious circumstances have been preserved. Their finding had passed out of mind, but the question now arises, have they any bearing on the death of this nen_ A New York Paper says: "Many New York merchants are thinking of dis- the cause of the terrible fright, and its pensing with drummers or traveling consequent result, as nothing was seen in agents, of whom not fewer than 25,000, it is said, are sent from that city alone, whose salaries, commissions, and traveling expenses amount in the aggregate to between fifty and sixty million of dol-lars a year. This sum is practically a tax upon the retailers throughout the country, each of whom pays annually from $175 to $200 to maintain a system which is now declared to involve a needless expenditure of money. Several large houses that have discharged their drummers are reported to be doing as well as before the change was made, and to have incurred fewer losses. In his eagerness to earn his commission on sales, the drummer will force upon the retailer goods that are not actually wanted-Whence it follows that the buyer often suffers, and the seller also becomes a loser. the liability to loss on this account will of course be greatly diminished by the abolition of the whole system, in place of which many of our merchants have substituted more extensive advertising with very favorable results.

nes. In Michigan, Grand Juries have been abolished. The law provides that the district attorney shall present all crimes for trial by indictment, and that no information shall be presented except in cases which have been first examined by justices of the peace. Should the district attorney decline to draw an information he is directed to report the case with the evidence of the Circuit Judge. The law further provides for an arraignment before the County Judge so that if the defendant should plead guilty he may at once be sentenced, and not compelled to lie in jail awaiting the session of the circuit court. A similar law has been introduced into the Wisconsin Leg-

James Bloomer, of Ulster county stole a horse and wagon on Tuesday, and was arrested. Soon afterward he took a heavy draught of laudanum and died in five hours.

The Washington Star says: On last Friday night a man named Thomas Kelly, living on the corner of First and B streets northwest, beat his wife in so brutal a manner while in a delicate condition that the physicians despair of her life. He was arrested yesterday by the officers of the Seventh precinct station, and will be held till the results of the injuries are seen.

Lieutenant Kelly, who made the arrest, visited the injured woman this morning, and she positively refuses to prosecute her assailant, saying that if she dies she wants to die in his arms; that she loves him dearer than life itself; that he would not have done the deed had he not been in liquor. Mrs. Kelly is very badly beaten about the head, face, neck, breast and stomach, her person being black and blue, showing the severity of the attack, and her sufferings this morning are of such a nature that little hopes are entertained by the physicians of her recovery. She is a native of Altoona, Pa.

per Dr. Reeve was called recently to examine a little child of Mr. Mulcahy, residing in Prospect street, near North 7th St., Philadelphia, only 17 months old, who, on the day previous fell out of a third story window to the ground beneath a distance of at least thirty feet.

The child fell inside the railing in front of the house, striking upon the soft earth, the place not being paved. It was not knocked senseless, as would be supposed but alarmed the inmates of the house by its cries, and when picked up, did not appear to be even stunned.

The dector on examination, was unable to find the slightest injury, and came to the conclusion that it was a very remarkable case. The child appears to be as well as ever, with no symptoms of any bad result of the fall.

Lynch Law.

A despatch from San Francisco of the 15th inst., says:

Last night the "Vigilants" entered the jail of Virginia City, Nevada, and took out Wm. Willis, who is charged with attempting to burn Piper's Opera House in that city. They took him to the Opera House, in the basement of which were one hundred men, armed and masked. There they hung Willis to a beam until he confessed to the crime and also other crimes implicating a number of persons heretofore unsuspected. Willis was then returned to the jail handcuffed, where he again confessed to the Chief of Police and the result was the arrest of Charles McWilliams and Thomas Laswell, as accomplices with Willis in numerous incendiary attempts.

One day last week a little daughter and son of a Mr. Raker, of Hollen Run, this county, went a short distance from the house to play. They had been absent about fifteen minutes, when the little girl was seen running to the house at an unusual pace. She had scarely reached the front door when she fell into a fit, and remained in that condition for about two hours, when she expired.

After the little girl had been carried into the house, they went in search of the boy, and found him where they had been playing, laying on the ground in an insensible condition, and laboring fearfully. The parents were unable to ascertain the vicinity that might have been the cause.-Sunbury Guard.

A Sad Affair.

The Holidaysburg Register says: "The body of Frank B. Isett, was found yesterday morning, (Tuesday,) about 7 o'clock, dead in his bed at his boarding house, the residence of Simon Brotherline .-Quite a quantity of blood was discovered and the supposition was that he bled to death from a hemorage of the lungs, but on further examination a small revolver was discovered beneath the cover, and what appears to be a bullet hole in the middle of his forehead. His death must have been almost instaneous. An inquest was held, and the jury found that the deceased came to his death by a pistol shot in his forehead, inflicted by his own Samuel Hyde committed snicide by hanging himself on Monday night, on his sister's (Nancy Hyde) farm on the Berlin road, in West Manchester township, about 4 miles from York. He was in town as late as 6 o'clock, on Monday evening and must have committed the act some time during the night. He was found suspended to a stake of worm fence by a silk handkerchief, in a field about two hundred yards from the main road. Coroner Rouse held an inquest over his body and the verdict was that was a man of intemperate habits. His age is 68 years .- York Press.

Can a Tenant Remove Hay and Straw from Premises Rented !- A case of this kind was decided by the court at Norristown, last week. As the case may interest many of our readers, we give the following report from the Herald:

This was an action of trespass for taking straw and grain from plaintiff's farm. Mr. Mauger had rented the farm from Wm. B. Rambo, guardian of Emma Rambo, to whom it was devised by her father. After Mauger's death his wife remained in possession, without any new lease until notified to leave, the farm having been sold to Samuel W. Shutt. Before Mrs. Mauger moved she had a sale and defendant bought some of the crops in the ground. Defendant was at the sale and bid. Afterwards Shutt took possession of the property, and when the proper time arrived the defendant entered upon the premises and cut and removed the crops they had bought at the sale. The plaintiff contended that by the custom of the country the straw remains upon the place and that Mrs. Mauger having no right to remove it the defendant who brought at her vendue could not do so. The | 1 5 ty court charged that when the owner of lands leased sells to a third person and a tenant has rights those rights do not pass. A landlord cannot convey his tenant's In this case if Mrs. Mauger continued to remain as her husband did without any new agreement, she would be a tenant from year to year, and such tenant is entitled to the waygoing crops, which is that crop which, by the customary rule of agriculture, is put in the fall preceding the summer in which it is to be harvested .-Such being her right she could go there after her tenancy had ceased and remove them, and her vendee could do the same he came to his death by hanging. He thing. By the law of Pennsylvania a tenant for years is entitled to remove all the hay and straw unless prevented by agreement, and a tenant at will can do the same where the tenancy is ended by the act of the landlord. It is an erroneous idea to suppose that the same quantity of hay must be left on the place that is found there. In this case the question turned on the nature of Mrs. Mauger's tenancy, and whether she agreed not to remove the straw, that being the wrong principally complained of. She testified that she never agreed to do so and had the right to sell. Verdiet for defendants.

Stellar Oil!

TitE alarming increase in the number of fright-ful accidents, resulting in terrible deaths and the destruction of valuable property, caused by the indiscriminate use of oils, known under the name of petroleum, prompts us to call your spe-cial attention to an article which will, wherever USED, remove the CAUSE of such accidents.— We allude to

3D. Because it is more economical, in the long run, than any of the dangerous olls and fulds now in too common use.

4TH, Because it is intensely BRILLIANT, and therefore economical, giving the greatest possible light at the least expenditure to the consumer. Its present standard of SAFETY AND BRILLIANCY will always be maintal upon this the proprietor depends for sustaining the high reputation the STELLAR OIL now enjoys.

To prevent the adulteration of this with the ex-plosive compounds now known under the name of kerosene, &c., &c., it is put up for family use in Five Gallon cans, each can being sealed, and stamped with the trade-mark of the proprietor; it cannot be tampered with between the manufac-turer and consumer. None is genuine without the TRADE-MARK.
