HUMOROUS ITEMS.

"How long can a fool live?" asked a lawyer of a witness. "I don't know," replied the witness. "How old are you?" "Have you 'Blasted Hopes?'" asked a lady of a green librarian, whose face was much swollen by toothache. "No, ma'am," he replied, "but I've a blasted toothache."

A lady teacher in the Janesville, (Wis.) public school, has laid aside her ferule and adopted the method of kissing her pupils into obedience. The larger boys, it is said, are particularly unruly, and require daily correction.

"I am willing to split hairs with my opponent all day, if he insists on it," said a very distinguished lawyer, in a speech at the bar.

"Split that then," said the opponent, pulling a coarse specimen from his head. "May it please the court, I did not say 'bristles!'" retorted the other.

"Mother don't you wish you had the root of all evil in your garden?" "Why, Josh you sarpan, what do you mean?"

"As money's the root of all evil, if we had the tree couldn't we get all the precious stuff?"

"Dod you, pesky vormint, you're gettin too smart, entirely; that's what comes of sending boys to macadamias."

An Irishman once entered a book store to purchase a lead pencil, and amused himself by looking over the numerous books that filled the counter. "What's that?" he asked, pointing to a large gilt edged box. "That box contains Milton's Paradise Lost; do you wish to buy it?" answered the polite clerk. "No, bedad, I don't; if Milton has lost his pair o'dice, why don't you give them back to him, and not be temptin, innocent boys like meself to buy lost property. Pon my soul, I'll report ye to the perlice."

JIM'S LAMENT. I met her by the sular dore, Her look was cold and sturn, Her eyes looked daggers into mine, And mine looked pitchforks into hern!

For we had luv'd in daze gone by, Her father sed that I might take her; But alas! for my dreme of wedded bliss, She up and got with a dutch shoemaker.

No more gurls for me if I knows it; No more frawds my luv ter win; In the words of the poick, 'not for Joseph,' And we might have added, not for Jim!

A dominie at Boston, holding forth the other morning, among other things explained to his class, that two negatives made an affirmative.

Some hours afterwards a small boy asked the pedagogue for a day's holiday. "No, no!" said the master, curtly. "Thank you, sir," said the petitioner. "What do you mean?" was the rejoinder.

"Please, sir, you said this morning that two negatives made an affirmative?" "Take your holiday," said the dominie; nonplussed at this prompt application of his rule.

Josh Billings on "horns." "Dinner horns: This is the oldest and the most saked there iz. It iz set to musik, and plays 'Home, Sweet Home' about noon. It will arrest a man and bring him in quicker than a Sheriff's warrant. It causes the deaf to hear, and the dumb to shout for joy. Glorious old instrument! long may your lungs last! Whiskey Horns: This horn varies in length, from three to six inches iz the favorite size. It is different from other horns, being of a fluid nature. It is really more pugnashus than the ram's horn; six inches of it will knock a man perfectly calm."

A somewhat eccentric lawyer, being engaged in defending a hard case, and not being altogether pleased with the ruling of the presiding Judge, remarked that he believed the whole court could be bought with a peck of beans. The judge, of course, took this remark in high dudgeon, and ordered the lawyer to sit down, and demanded of him an apology for this contempt of court; threatening him with commitment for the offense, if he did not apologize. The lawyer, after a little reflection, remarked what he had said was, he believed the court could be bought with a peck of beans; that he said it without reflection, and wished to take it back. "But," said he, "if I had put it at half a bushel, I never would have taken it back in the world."

A gentlemanly conductor was collecting tickets from his passengers.—All handed over tickets promptly except one fat old lady, who sat next the door and who seemed to be reaching down as if to get something she had dropped on the floor. When her time came to pay she raised her head and thus addressed the blushing conductor:

"I allers," when I travels, carry my money in my stockin', for, you sees, nothing can get at it thar, and I'd thank you, young man, just to reach it for me, as I am so jemmied in I can't get to it. I forgot to get a ticket at the depot."

The conductor glanced at the other passengers, some of whom were laughing at his plight; one or two young ladies among them blushed scarlet, and he best a sudden retreat, muttering something about not charging old ladies, etc. His cash was short that trip the fare of one passenger.
