NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENN'A. Tuesday, May 23, 1871.

EDWARD H. RULOFF was hung at Binghampton on the 18th inst. He refused to allow any Minister around him saying he wanted no such mummery. He died as he lived, a hardened and desperate man.

THE GERMAN Peace Celebration in Philadelphia on last week, Monday, was the most magnificent parade ever seen in that city. Every industrial and manufacturing interest of the city was represented in the procession. Many thousands of strangers visited the city for the purpose of witnessing the display. The whole affair was very creditable to Philadelphia, and she may well feel proud of her German citizens.

THE contrast between the number of private bills passed by the Legislature of Illinois at their late session, and the number passed by our Legislature is very great. In that State but fifty-three such bills were passed and sixteen of them failed to become laws by the veto of the Governor. In our own State the private bills already passed, amount to several hundred, and still the number is being increased. Can any one doubt that the real interests of the public are the best served by the Legislature passing the smaller number.

The Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Convention for the purpose of nominating candidates for Auding was very harmonious.

the first ballot nominated Col. David Stanton, of Beaver county, the vote being Stannation was then made unanimous.

For Surveyor General, the first ballot left it lying face downward on the stones. stood: Samuel L. Smedley, of Philadel-87. The nomination of Col. Beath was then made unanimous.

The Committee on resolutions reported a platform, the first portion of which must commend itself to every person in the State, This was adopted with entire unanimity and the Convention adjourned sine die.

"On last Wednesday as a party of miners, working in Briggs Shaft, belonging to the Lackawanna iron and coal company, were returning to their homes, under military escort, one of their number, without provocation, otherwise than the taunts of a number of small boys, deliberately fired into the midst of a number of spectators, both males and females, and instantly killed two of most peaceful and estimable cirizens

It is to be hoped however, that the troubles are about over, and that the miners now will go to work peaceably, as the umpire to whom the questions of wages, &c., were referred, has made a report which seems to meet the general approval of miners and operators. If, however, there is any more trouble, or interference with those desiring to work, the Governor should see that they are protected, even if it takes all the militia in the State.

ABOUND Paris affairs continue in a terrible condition. Fighting still is going on and thousands of lives are being sacrificed daily. On Thursday last a dreadful accident occurred in that city. At a cartridge factory where a large quantity of ammunition was stored and many men, women and children were employed, an explosion occurred killing and maiming a large number of persons mostly women and causing a perfect panic throughout the city. A despatch to the London papers says :

At the head of the avenue Rapp the scene was a terrible one. Several houses were burning, and the rattle of exploding cartridges was incessant : first there would be a brilliant blaze and then a loud explosion. From the base of the cartridge factory there shot upward a fearful mass of fire and smoke.

Hundreds and thousands of cartridges, cracking and rattling, one after the other, mingled with terrific shricks from the wounded and frightened. The few men employed in the building were either killed or fearfully wounded. Mutilated forms were to be seen on every side groaning and writhing with agony.

Paris appears to be having such a trial as no city ever had before. It is probable that the Germans have already began active operations against the communists, if the French authorities have not yet been successful in effecting an entrance to the city. a course would be taken on Saturday last.

SEVERAL DAYS ago, the United States Senate was convened in Executive session to consider the ratification of the trenty agreed upon by the Joint High Commission. By some means the reporters for the New York papers got hold of the treaty which was of course at once published. And now the Senate are anxious to know who has committed this fearful crime of giving to the public the knowledge of their own affairs. And the reporter refuses to tell, they have consigned him to "durance vile," until such time as he will make known the dread secret. In the mean time the Senators wrangle and dispute like a parcel of boys, and persons who formerly had an idea that the U.S. Senate was a dignified body, will at once change their opinion .-The people, as a general thing, will sympathise with the reporter and admire his spunk, and the soonerithe Senate discharge him from custody, drop this foolish discussion and turn their attention to the business for which they were convened, the better it will be for all parties. This attempt to information seems too much like a return to the days of the Inquisition. Why not apply the "Thumb-screws" at once?

A Mystery.

A few days since the body of a man having a life preservor securely fastened on was found on the banks of the Hudson river not far from Pokeepsie. The body is seemingly that of a man about 30 years of age, with black hair, dark moustache, and side whiskers. Over the right side is an old sear. On the back are what appeared to be four pistol shot sears, and scars as from knife wounds. The first joints of several fingers of the right stocking, a blue frock coat of the latest style, long black beaver vest, dark heavy striped cloth pantaloons, fine white shirt, and knit undershirt and drawers, and no A rigid examination was made of the contents of the pockets, but nothing was discovered which would identify him. One is that it may be the body of a pickpocket who, after robbing his victim on board a steamer, donned a life preserver with the intention of swimming ashore. A well-known thief says that this has been done many times on the night line of steamers. The life-preservbeen very carefully put on, and was firm-ly fastened over the shoulders so as to fit

> Best On the morning of the 14th inst. Annie Corbett, a domestic in the employ of Mr. Ward, of Trenton undertook to hasten the lighting of a fire by pouring kerosene oil on it, from a can, when the contents of the vessel exploded, the flames enveloping the entire person of the un-fortunate girl, who, frantic with pain, rushed into the yard before the flames could be extinguished. Her body was burned in such a shocking manner that the physician has given up all hope of saving her life.

How a Burglar was Outwitted.

The William & Guion Steamship company's agent at New York has been a trunk which she claimed the company had left for her on one of their steamers, and pending a settlement a deputy sheriff from Grafton Vt., entered the office and asked the agent if he was not engaged in litigation with a certain Mrs. Newham. The agent apprised the officer of the facts then known, and the deputy then informed him that her husband was a notorious English " cracksman," for whom he had been searching for more than seven months. "He was arrested," said the sheriff, "about eight months since for eracking a bank at Grafton, Vt., and was lodged in the county jail. I had him especially in charge, and gave him much of my attention. One day, as I was leaving the cell, he suddenly sprang forward and struck me a blow which felled me to the floor, and rendered me almost senseless, and then escaped, and has since beenat large. I traced him to this city, but force a reporter to reveal the source of his he has completely cluded me. The agent decided to join interests with the sheriff. He despatched a letter to the house of assignation in West Houston street, known as "Clark's" where "Mrs. Newham" had ordered all letters to be sent, asking her to come to the office at No. 29 Broadway, about 12 o'clock on Wednesday last, and he would try to sethand are gone. The man had on one the her claims. She agreed to the propo-blue woolen seek and one white cotton sition. The services of two private detectives were then procured, and they were stationed outside on the pavement. The Vermont sheriff took his position in the private office, armed with a requisition from the governor of Vermont, to await the coming of Mrs. Newham. She was not far behind the appointed time, and the agent in a few moments convinced her that he was ready to sign the check for the £200 provided she would procure been received. The remains are those of the signature of her husband to the receipt. A Stringent Law.

The new liquor law of Michigan provides a fine of $25 for the first conviction, $50 for the second, and $100 for the third, no matter what beverage is sold, so that it intoxicates or comes under the head of intoxicating drink. In case a man receives intoxicating drinks at a saloon, and goes away and does injury to a person or to property, the saloon keep-er is not only held liable for all the damage, but the person from whom he rents his saloon can also be held. saloon keeper is convicted of selling liquors, his lease of any place where it was sold is declared forfeited, although he may have just come into possession. If the wife of a drunkard or a drinking man can prove that she or the family has been damaged through reason or in consequence of such sale, she can sue and recover.

Les A Louisville woman was walking along the streets on a windy day last week, the dust filling her eyes to such an extent that she could not see a switch ongine that was bearing down on her.-Just as it was about to crush her, a man snatched her by the dress, pulled her off the track, and saved her life. In removing the female obstruction from the track he tore her dress, and when she saw the rent that was there she opened her mouth and swore at him until he fell on the other track and came near being killed by the brother of the engine that was after the woman. He is not pulling women around by their dresses any more.

Bed Last week a train of cars on the Long Island R. R. consisting of two pessenger cars, a milk car, and two flats loaded with bale-hay, took fire near Clarenceville, the hay being ignited by sparks from the locomotive. The entire train was destroyed. The greatest excitement prevailed among the passengers, but none were injured. The loss is about $6,000.
