LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

OUR TERMS Are One Dollar a Year in Advance

The Southern Pennsylvania railroad is almost completed as far as Mercersburg, and will be opened for traffic in a few weeks It has been leased to the Cumberland Valley railroad company.

Why Is It .- We wonder why it is that a paper published within twenty-five miles of our office cannot reach us in less than three or four days. The Dauphin Register which is issued on Friday morning, ought certainly come to hand on Saturday evening, yet we never receive it till Monday and sometimes Tuesday, when it is too late to be of much benefit. Is the fault at the office of publication, or with the post office department?

Pennsylvania College. - We have received the catalogue of this institution for 1870 and 71. From this we learn that the present total number of undergraduates is 144, while there are 63 preparatorians, making a a total of 177 pupils. The annual commencement is held on the last Thursday of June, and the first term begins nine weeks later. The price of tuition for each term is $13, and this, with other necessary expenses, makes the total collegiate year cost a little over $200.

A Skeleton Found.—A report was put in circulation a few days since that the skeleton of a woman had been discovered in the woods a short distance from the borough. Whose could it be? and had there been a murder committed? and who did it? were some of the questions asked, by those who hurried out to see the terrible sight. But on arriving at the spot all the horror and mystery was taken from the report by finding that they had come to see a skeleton Handsome Bequest,-We learn from the York papers that Daniel Reiman, Esq., recently of the borough of York, deceased after handsomely providing for his own immediate family, made a bequest of $6,000 for the benefit of the poor of that borough. This amount is to be placed in custody of the Chief Burgess and Town Council, to be invested in U. S. 520 Bonds or such other funds as may realize six per cent per annum, on the investment, the interest to be applied to the purchase of food and fuel for the "worthy poor of the borough of

A Novel Case. - An Illinois paper says :-"A turkey hen spread herself on the requisite number of eggs for hatching, making daily deposits of the turkey fruit previous to the process of incubation. A quail hen was a sharer in this contribution to the general stock, and ere the larger fowl engaged in the batching business, had deposited nine eggs. In connection with the turkey eggs, the quails were, in due time, brough, to life in the shape of nine little specimens of this wild feathered game. The old hen quait had watched the operation with a jealous eye, and succeeded in enticing away six of the broad. The other three remained with the turkey, roosting with her and manifesting all the affection which usually exists between similar parties. The adhering trio may remain true to their attachment for the mother who cares for them but we are rather inclined to think they will, when full fledged, take flight and assume all the peculiarities of their wild nature."

Mysterious Occurrences.-The Reading Times says :- A series of strange phenomenons are said to have been observed for severaldays past at the house of Mr. Reuben S. Leipensberger, who resides near Rothrocksville, this county. The facts were communicated to our informant by a brother of Mr. L., from whose account of the transaction it would appear as if his Satanic Majesty really has a hand in the matter. Beds and the contents of drawers are said to have been mysteriously burned, clothing strewn promisenously about the rooms, knives and forks scattered in the yard, garden truck torn up, books and photographs distigured, the milk crocks in the cellar upset, and laid in one certain direction, a comb wrested from the hand of a woman using it, with a variety of other circumstances equally rare and unaccountable. These transformations are witnessed with wonder and fear by the family and the neighbors and the story goes that a well-known city preacher who officiates in the country was called in, and beheld the performance with amazement. A physician of this place has been consulted, and our curiosity runs high to know what he will prescribe. So soon as we discover, we will not fail to re-

Duncamon Items.—Our correspondent at Duncamon sends us the following: In reply to your inquiry "has Duncamon dried up and blown away?" I answer, no, but it received a severe blow, when the prohibitory liquor law was repealed; ' see count of damages, on day of judgement.

The Union Temperance Association do not appear to be very actively engaged of late, judging from the fact that a drunken man gave his wife a terrible beating in the public square on Tuesday evening, and a party of roughs indulged in a drunken fight up front street, the same evening.

The Rolling Mill, and Nail Factory have been doing their utmost for the last seven weeks, to supply the demands for nails, and iron, the blast furnace will resume operations, next week.

A young man whose slumbers have been disturbed for some time past by the bark-ing of a dog, arose last night and qui-etly hoisting the window, leveled a Spring-field rifle and fired at what he supposed was the dog, the result was, he sent a ball whiz-zing past his brother's head who was laying partially concealed, revolver in hand imita-ting the bark of a dog for the purpose of enticing the offending canine to come forth so that he might get a shot at him

Who is to Blame?-For some time past, the accommodations for travel by rail from Newport have not been as good as they formerly were, and people naturally wonder why this is so. We think one reason may be found in the course pursued by the citizens of that borough. Without the Pennsylvania railroad, the town would not present the lively appearance of the present day, and yet, the authorities are continually finding fault with everything done by that company. If a ditch is left open a little longer than they they think necessary, or a plank in a walk not replaced as soon as discovered defective, complaint is at once made, while not a word would have been said, had the private citizens been in control of the matter. Does a teain run through the borough limits a little faster than accords with the ideas of some people, a fuss is made at once, and a cry of danger is raised, though it is well known that a train running 12 or 15 miles an hour, offers no inducement to boys to jump on and off, while a train running 4 or 5 miles an hour, offers a great temptation to the boys to take a short ride. Human nature in railroad officials is much the same as in other people, and perhaps a less factious spirit shown toward the company, would induce them to take more pains to accommodate the local travel from that depot, would it not be well to try it awhile? for if successful, the whole county would be ben-

DUNCANNON, May 20, 1871. To The Times :- You wanted to know if Duncannon had dried up, and I can answer no! Nor is it likely to as the Legislature has repealed the liquor bill. Neither has it "blown away," but the whistle at the furnace is blowing away again, as the fires are once more started. The employees of the Iron Company recently made a present of a fine silver watch and chain to John Winters, the foreman of the Rolling Mill. The presentation was made by Mr. Irwin Chisholm, and appropriate speeches were made by him and Mr. Winters. Mr. Chisholm has been suffering for a time from a severe burn, received at the rolling mill, but I learn he is now nearly ready to commence work again.

A few days since, a Mr. S. from the Cove A few days since, a Mr. S. from the Cove Forge came to town to procure groceries, but got so much tangle-foot aboard that he lay down to rest in a very public place, and was removed in a pull cart and deposited in Mr. Young's stable. There his friends found him after dark and removed him home in a cart.

for baker, Mr. Shearer has co a fancy wagon and intends to visit Bloomfield every Wednesday and Saturday. He is serving a nice article of bread and cakes.

A wedding occurred here this week, and in returning from the infair one of the guests seemed to be in a fighting humor and there being no one else to fight him, he gallantly slapped his wife a few times, causing her to scream and alarm the neighbor-The wedding was between a man of 48 and child of 15 years. Talk of Duncannon drying up after that will you? AGAIN SOON.

Reply of the Poor House Steward to the Charges of "The Visitors."

For The Bloomfield Times. MR. EDITOR-I see by the Report of the Poor House Visiters that I am charged with harsh and very severe discipline for very trifling offences, and the diet is not of as good a quality as the expenses of the house might warrant. I would like to have their authority for saying so. Was it from some renegade panper, or where? Two weeks before handing in the report, the visitors were here and had an investigation of this same thing and on examination they informed the Directors in my presence, that the complaints were without foundation. Why then come out two weeks after and report differently? There seems to be something wrong in this, or why such discrepancy in their statement so soon after ?

They also speak of the coffee being domestic coffee. I suppose they mean Rye coffee. This is not correct. Coffee is purchased at the store and is made in the Steward's kitchen and carried to the paupers in the Poor House (about two gallons each time) twice a day, and distributed to the inmates, and not domestic coffee as the visitors say. Where did the visitformation, I would like to know.

As to the dist not being sufficient for men who have to work-I have only to tell them that the paupers who work on the farm ent regularly in the Steward's house at the table of the family and from 5 to 6 or 7 ent daily with the family and from 5 to 6 or 7 cut daily with us, and about the same number of females who attend to the house-work, and if the visitors had been in at the second table on days that they had been here they could have seen what their diet was. Why not then know better before making such a public report?

As to the spreading matter of which they speak, the older and delicate ones get butter regularly every meal.

As to the extra pay of the Steward which is spoken of, we think one of the visitors had been sufficiently informed about it by one of our near neighbors a short time previous to the

our near neighbors a short time previous to the net visit, of whom the foreman of the report had made inquiry and if he could not properly understand the matter, he should have applied to the Directors for further information before making such a report, and as to burning lime and other expenses which they speak of, I would just refer them to the article between the Directors and was in formation before the could be such a report, and the could be such a report of the could be such as the could be such a response to the could be such as the su would just refer them to the article between the Directors and myself for information on that subject. They can there at any time be made sensible of their mistake.

But this thing of the house being polluted with bed-bugs. I don't understand. All heds that are slept in will have bugs in less of more, and if they had made as close examination into their own hodetends they might have found some there, at least find one on the wall to pick off with a tooth-pick. My wife has been in the habit of having the bodsteads scaded and cleaned of bugs about every three weeks, and inmates who have been in the house for twenty years, say that they have never known as few years, say that they have never known as few bags in the house as at present. The two horses extra is by order of the Directors for doing the work on the place that the nule team may be employed in hauling for the new building. This is by an agreement be-tween the Directors and the Commissione re-

We wish the visitors of the coming year would notify us if their friends from the west visit them and wish a dinner at the Poor House, yisitithem and wish a dinner at the Poor House, and they could give us a week's notice, as one of the visiters did inst year.

I would not by any means be disposed to find fault with men in office acting under lawful authority for giving their opinion candidly and honestly, but here everything seems to be exaggerated, as though they were disposed to find fault without a cause, and in justification of my character as Steward of the institution, I feel in duty bound to make the above statement in self-defence. It seems strange that all things should appear to be right during the visits of the year, until the last visit, and then so much fault found.

I. B. TROSTLE, Steward.
