HUMOROUS ITEMS.

An exchange inquires, "Why is an infant like a fish?" We suppose it is because he is a sucker.

The Cincinnati Times and Chronicle says: "The lawyers must live."—Possibly, they must; but, really, we can't see why they should.

"Charley," said a fond mother to her son, "you are into that jam again." "No," replied the little pet, "you are wrong, ma; the jam is into me."

At a recent railway festival, the following striking sentiment was given: "Our mothers—the only faithful tenders who never misplaced a switch."

A boy in Springfield, to the inquiry why a ship is called "she," quieted his teacher with the reply, "Because the rigging costs more than the hull."

To make boarding house hash, take a little of everything, a good deal of nothing, and throw in a chunk of something; jam to a mux, cook over a cold fire, season with hair-pins, and serve up on the jump.

A Frenchman cannot pronounce "ship." The word is "sheep" in his mouth. Seeing an iron-clad, he said to a boy, "Is it a war-sheep?" "No," answered the boy, "it's a ram."

How many feet long was the snake?" asked a person of a traveler who had just related a story of his encounter with a boa killed by him. "One hundred and ninety-two inches," was the reply; "snakes have no feet."

In a pool across the road, in the county of Tipperary, Ireland is struck on a pole, having affixed to it a board with this inscription: "Take notice, that when the water is over this board, the read is impassible."

An old toper of a poetical turn, thus exclaims:

"Leaves have their time to fall, And so have I; The reason is the same— It comes from getting dry."

A handsome young bride was observed to be in deep reflection on her wedding day. One of the bridesmaids asked her the subject of her meditation. "I was thinking," she replied, "which of my beaux I should marry if I should become a widow."

A Chicago editor thinks it strange that the Indians have no phrase to express the word "honesty." Whereupon the Detroit Free Press remarks that there is nothing strange about it. Does he suppose that the Indian agents would be fooling around the past ten years and not pocket the word?

A colored man was arraigned before one of the Camden courts, a short time since, charged with the larceny of some wood. When called on to plead to the indictment, he said: "I bought de wood, and dat I knows I did; but to save my soul from the gallus, cannot tell the man I bought it of, kase I bought it in the dark. I guess I'll plead guilty."

Few "last words" were more strikingly appropriate than those of the California stage-driver, who, on his death bed, was visited by a brother "whip."—said he, "Bill, I'm on the down grade and can't reach the brake." It was a California conductor, who said, on his death bed, "This cuss is about to pass in his checks for examination by the Great Cashier."

A man out in Indiana, who heard that the safest way to commit suicide was to shut yourself up and burn charcoal, was found in a ten acre lot with a charcoal fire near him. Though he had taken the precaution to put up the bars and stop the crack in the fence with a newspaper, the charcoal did not act fairly by him and he lived.

A city exquisite having become agriculturally ambitious, went in search of a farm, and finding one for sale, began to bargain for it. The seller mentioned as one of its recommendations, that it had a very cold spring on it. "Aw-aw!" said the fop, "I won't take it then, for I've heard that cold springs ruined the crops last year, and I don't want a place with such a drawback upon it."

They tell a good story on the early appearance of Dr. Bethune, in a church then located on the outskirts of the city of Rochester. The edifice was placed in the centre of a large square or park, and it being summer time, the open doors made the green aisle carpets appear like a continuation of the grassy lawn outside. At least, so the matter appeared to a half-dozen geese that quietly walked into the church just as the minister was closing a splendid passage of eloquence, and was quoting the lines: "Who are those arrayed in white?" etc.

A green, half-grown country boy, who supposed the quotation so eloquently propounded required an answer, at once replied, in a bashful lisp, "Them—them there's geeth." The wings of the young minister were thus abruptly clipped while he was in flight, and the ones "arrayed in white" were the only dignified individuals in the audience.
