HUMOROUS ITEMS.

Why is a married man like a Mississippi steambot? Because he don't know when he's going to be blowed up.

Says Murphy to Paddy, "You're surely an ass. To shut both your eyes, and look in the glass!" Says Paddy, "You blockhead, I wanted a peep To see what a beauty I looked—when asleep!"

A contemporary ungallantly makes the observation that the leading champions of "woman's rights" are generally found to be "men's lefts."

A private in the army recently sent a letter to his sweetheart, closing with, "May heaven cherish and keep you from yours truly John Smith."

"Johnny, what do you expect to do for a living when you get to be a man?" Well, I guess I'll get married, and board with my wife's mother."

"Grandma," said a shrewd child, "do you want some candy?" "Yes, dear, I should like some." Then if you will buy some, I'll give you half."

A squire in Indianapolis married a couple recently, adapting the service to modern times by pronouncing them man and wife, "until separated by law."

"What kind of meat do you like best, John?" "O, I like all kinds pretty well, but I prefer "Meet me in the moonlight alone love," to any kind of meat I know of.

"Hallo, Frank, I thought you were dead?" "Oh," said Frank, "they did get a story around that I was dead, but it was another man. I knew that it wasn't me as soon as I heard of it!"

There are four things that look very awkward in a woman: To see her undertake to whistle; to throw a stone at a hog; to smoke a cigar, and to climb over a garden fence.

An illiterate farmer, wishing to enter some animals at an agricultural exhibition, wrote to the secretary as follows: "Also enter me for the best jack-ass, I am sure of taking the premium."

Man fishing below the dam; boy comes along and inquires: "Got any bites?" Man replies, "Lots of 'em!" Boy draws out,—"Ye-s, under your hat!" Race between boy and stone—boy a little ahead.

A housewife in New Orleans, in filling up her schedule of the census paper, described herself as the "head of the family" while, in respect to the trade of her husband, she wrote, "He turns my mangle."

An idle man once asked a coal merchant what a peck of coal multiplied by eight, divided by four, with a ton added to them, and a bushel subtracted, would come to. "Well," said the coal merchant, "if you burn 'em, they'll come to ashes."

When Mrs. Jones chided her daughter for allowing young men to throw kisses at her, Mary Ann declared that she was quite aware of the impropriety, and never had a kiss thrown at her that she did not throw back.

"Paddy, my boy," said a gentleman to an Irishman whom he observed fishing away at a favorite pool, "that must be a fine steam for trout." "Faith, and sure it must be that same; for I have been standing here this three hours, and not one of 'em come out of it."

This is the season of Commencements; sheep-skin is being consumed in immense quantities; colleges are looking their gayest: every girl who can wears a secret society badge, and the voice of the graduate is heard in the land.

Two men were one day engaged in roofing the house, when one of them lost his hold and fell to the ground. The other hastened to him and inquired, when he found him prostrate and still, "Mickey, Mickey, are you dead?" "No, not dead, but spachless."

A little girl in Portland was repeating the parable of the wise and foolish virgins, when she suddenly paused.—"Well, what did they forget?" asked the teacher, encouragingly. "They forgot their kerosene," responded Miss Five Year Old.

A Prussian cavalry officer who was wounded at the battle of Gravelotte, was greatly annoyed by the cries of some wounded soldiers lying near him. He stood the annoyance as long as he could, and then testily called out, "Stop your howling over there! Do you think you are the only persons killed in this fight?"

During the Anniversaries, the following dialogue was overheard between two newboys: "I say, Jim, what's the meaning of so many ministers being here all together?" "Why," answered Jim, scornfully, "they always meets once a year to exchange sermons with each other."

Fond wife (to telegraph operator) —O sir, I want to send a kiss to my husband in Liverpool. How can I do it? Obliging Operator—Easiest thing in the world, ma'am. You've got to give it to me with ten dollars, and I'll transmit it right away.

Fond wife—If that's the case, the directors ought to put much younger and handsomer men in your position.
