HUMOROUS ITEMS.

An old Yankee bachelor, who edits a paper somewhere down East, puts "Melancholy Accidents" as a head for marriages in his paper.

100 The question of the day is, whether it is more difficult for a girl of the period to get her clothes in her trunk or her trunk in her clothes.

for us last Sunday," said Mrs. Partington "served the Lord for thirty years-first as a circus rider, then as a locust preacher, and last as exhauster."

ter "You'd better look out for your hoss' feet above here, Mister," said a ragged boy to a riding traveler. "Why?" said the gentleman, nervously pulling up. "Cos there's a fork in the road there," was the candid reply.

DEP A link-boy asked Dr. Burgess, the preacher, if he would have a light. "No, child," says the doctor. "I am one of the lights of the world." "I wish, then," replied the boy, " you were hung at the end of our alley, for it is a very dark one.

100 Quabbles, an old bachelor shows his stockings which he had just darned, to a maiden lady, who contemptuously remarks.

"Pretty good for a man darner."-Whereupon Quabbles rejoins,

"Yes good enough for a woman too. darn her."

tormed an "old bachelor," apbcaled to an elderly gentleman to decide whether he should be called old or not, giving his age. "Twenty-six!" said the elderly gentleman, "it is owing to how you take it. Now, for a man it is young enough ; but for a goose it is rather old."

100 Josh Billings says : " Most any man will coincide that it looks foolish to see a boy drag a heavy sled up a hill for the flectin' pleasure of ridin' down again ; but it appears to me that the boy is a sage by the side of the young man who works hard all the week, and drinks up his wages on Saturday night."

Ber" " My dear, come in and go to bed," said the wife of a jolly son of Erin, who had just returned from the fair in a had just returned from the fair in a decidedly how-come-you so state, "you must be dreadful tired, sure, with your walk of six miles." "Arrah! get away with your nonsense." said Pat, "it wasn't the length of the way, at all, that fatigued me; " twas the breadth of it."

for An attorney-at-law, who wished to show his smartness by quizzing an old farmer, began by asking him if there were many girls in his neighborhood. "Yes," replied the oid gentleman, "there's a dreadful lot of 'em; so many there isn't half enough respectable husbands for all, and so some of 'em are begining to take up with lawyers !" The attorney didn't follow up the subject.

BEF A few years ago, at a negro camp meetin held near Flushing the colored preacher said: "I tell you, belubed bredern, dat the debble is a big hog, an' one of dese days he'll come along an' root you all out." An old negro in one of the anxious pews raised himself from the straw, and clasping his hands, exclaimed in the agony of his tears. "Ring him ! ring him !"

Do Old Deacon Sharp never told a lie but he used to relate this : He was standing one day before a frog-pond, and saw a large garter snake make an attack upon an enormous bull-frog. The snake seized on the frog's hind legs, and the frog, to be on a par with his snakeship, caught him by the tail, and both commenced swallowing one another, and continued this carniverous operation until nothing was left of them.

100" A certain citizen in Edinburgh, noted for his parsimoniousness, had oc-casion to bury his mother in the family cemetery in the Highlands. He hired a hearse for the purpose, and on his return to the city from the funeral, filled the hearse with smuggled whiskey. A friend reproved him for his dishonest conduct under the circumstances, when the canny Scot replied. "Wou, man, there's nac harm done. I only took awa' the body and brought back the speerit."

when he begins to "clerk it" in a store, is to enquire "Anything else ?" and it is generally the last thing he forgets. There is a story of a defunct dry goods clerk who, after the funeral services were over, and the undertaker had put the final screw in the lid of the coffin perparatory to interment was heard to say in faint and muffled tones, "Anything else?"-a most remarkable illustration of ruling passion strong in death.

nor A Colorado saloon-keeper said of a rough crowd : "I could'nt get their whiskey strong enough for them, so, after trying every way, I at last made a mixt-ure of poisen oak and butternut. That fetched them. I called it the sheep-herder's delight, and it was a popular drink. The first Pike I tried it on yelled with the the next one took in drinks with delight; the next one took two drinks and turned a double somerset in the road before the house. A pedler came along, and after he took several drinks of my sheep-herder's delight, he went off and stole his own pack and hid it in the woods."
