NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENN'A.

Tuesday, August 29, 1871.

Some persons are already advocating application to the legislature for aid to the sufferers by the great fire last week at Williamsport. The experience obtained from the Mifflintown appropriation ought to be convincing evidence that legislative aid in such cases is, to say the least, ill ad-

President Judge.

The people of Perry county, with great uninamity, have insisted upon Hon. B. F. Junkin, allowing his name to be used as a candidate for President Judge of this judicial district, and his having complied with the request, is a guarantee of his election, should Juniata-as no doubt she will-join in this nomination.

We are glad to see such action taken, as it is high time that Perry county asserted her claims to this office.

It is very generally admitted that the Judiciary should be removed as far as possible from the influence of political strife; and we therefore have no doubt that the local pride of our citizens will induce many to cast aside all partizan prejudice, and support for this office a candidate from their own county.

Very many citizens of Cumberland, also acknowledge that the office is justly due some other portion of the district, (Carlisle having filled the office for about seventy years,) and will consequently disregard political preference, and support a candidate from Perry.

In this case, our citizens can without hesitation, ask them so to act, as in presenting the name of Mr. Junkin, they offer a candidate who will not only fill the position with credit to himself, but who will reflect honor on the county, that for nearly fifty years has claimed him as a resident. In regard to the merits of the politscal nominees of either party, The Times, as a non-partizan journal, will express no opinion; but in advocating the election of Perry county's candidate for President Judge, we think we are not only promoting the honor of the county, but speak the wish of many of our citizens, irrespective of party.

State Elections.

Thirty-two States hold elections between August 1st, and November 27th, 1871, and of these many are important, not only as a good indication of the Presidential vote next year, but because in Kentucky, California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Maryland, Wisconsin, and Vermont the legislatures chosen will elect United States Senaorganization of the Forty-third Congress in 1873. The Senators now representing these States, whose terms of office end with the Forty-second Congress, are :-

Davis of Kentucky, Cole of California, Sherman, of Ohio, Cameron of Pennsylvania, Harlan of Iowa, Vickers of Maryland, Howe of Wisconsin, and Morrill of Vermont-all Republicans except Davis.

Arkansas ..... Nov. 7 South Carolina Nov. 27 It will be seen that Tuesday Nov. 7th, is the most important, numerically considered, seventeen States electing State officers, and in some cases United States Senators on that day. New York elects only the minor State officers, and a part of the Legislature. For four years that State has been carried by the Democrats, but recent events may make a change in the vote. In Massachusetts the contest promises to be an exciting one, at least until the Republican Convention settles the question of the candidates for Governor. In Wisconsin the Republicans have a clear majority; but there is discord concerning the nomination for Governor, which imperils their chance of victory. The 10th of October is, upon the whole, the most important day, as Indiana, Iowa, and Pennsylvania then choose State officers and members of the Legislature. In all these States the contest will probably be close and exciting. We can only hope that everywhere the best side will win, whatever may be its political name; and we are not disposed to deny that in certain States there may be some doubts whether that name is Republican or Democrat.

A Husband Rendered Desperate.

An outraged husband at Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, where female suffrage and the political and social appurtenances pertaining thereto are recognized, denounces the female jury business and offers a pertinent scrap from his domestic history. His wife was summoned and empanneled as juror in an important case. When night came, the case not being concluded, the husband applied to the court to have his wife sent home, as there were several small children there requiring her attention-the smallest, in fact, being in a starving condition, owing to the fact that it had not been habituated to the use of the bottle. But the husband's request was denied. The Judge said the jury could not be separated. The husband then requested permission to send the infant to the mother. This was also refused, on the ground that the law does not permit a thirteenth person in a jury room, and there is no statute to show that an infant in arms is not a "person" within the intent and meaning of the law.

The desperate husband then attempted to induce the court to send all the jurors to his house for the night; but the effort was a failure, and the husband was informed that quarters had been provided his wife at the hotel, and if he wished to speak to her for a moment he would have to take the place of the cook. The husband went its ghastly occupants are now open to the home. How he got through the night is not told ; but when he learned the next day there. that the trial was likely to last a week, he straightway proceeded to employ the best looking housekeeper and cook in the county. At last accounts his wife was still Remarkable Lightning Freaks.

A singular escape from death by lightning is related by the Albany Evening Journal, which says that the house of John Randerson, at Shodack Landing, was struck early in the evening, while it contained fourteen persons, the electricity passing down the stove pipe, bursting out at each side, and exploding within two feet of Mr. Randerson, thence passing between him and his wife, who was holding her youngest child, throwing her forward some distance. The electricity then struck on each side of a closed door, stripping off the plaster, scattering it over eight children in that room, splitting a three-by-four inch joist, and plowing up the ground four feet at the extremity, leaving a hole in the ground. The light was extinguished, leaving a strange sulphurous smell and smoke behind. The screams of the family were appalling. Upon a light being procured, Mr. Randerson naturally expected to see some of his family dead, but none of them seemed to be seriously injured. The three eldest daughters, who were in a room above, rushed down, and it was perceived that one of them shook as though under the effects of a strong galvanic shock, trembling from head to foot. Upon Mrs. Randerson taking hold of her, the electriciher paralyzed down the left side, from the effects of which she has not yet entirely the blood which flowed from their hands.

Tunnel Through the Sierra Nevada. Negotiations are said to be going on with every prospect of success, for the increase in the size of the proposed tunnel through the Sierra Nevada to such an extent as to admit of the passage of the Pacific railroad and the Lake Tahoe canal, the one above the other. The saving in distance by run ning the track through the tunnel instead of over the mountain would be seven miles : the saving in altitude 1,000 feet; and almost the entire line of snow sheds now required to be kept up at an immense amount of outlay would be rendered unnecessary. The saving of the running ascent, going from the westward, would be over 12j per cent., and coming from the eastward 20 per cent., and a very great saving in fuel; and the wear and tear of the locomotives and rolling stock annually would be effected thereby, to say nothing of the saving in time and increased safety.

THE temperance excitement in Highland Co., Ohio, is at high pitch, as the women are bringing suits against those who have been selling liquor to their husbands. Last week a Mrs. Dalurhide obtained a judgment against a seller for $75 and costs and many more suits are in progress; one of them a rather peculiar one. A Mrs. Lewis Eckert has sued a German for selling her husband beer, though it is not alleged that Eckert is an intemperate man, and he has always supported his family in a comfortable manner. The suit causes much excitement, as Eckert promises to leave his wife if she persists in the suit.

Under the new liquor law of that State, every glass of liquor sold, is a cause for action, and any fines are a lien on the property on which the liquor is sold.

In Cleveland, the other day, a lad of sixteen entered a show in an old building illuminated out side with glaring pictures on canvas. Inside, instead of the wonders that had attracted him, he found another picture, a parrot, and a monkey, a dog and nothing else except a case of "gifts." He was offered his choice for one dollar, and drew until he had lost thirteen. The next day some of his friends visited the place of exhibition, and in spite of being told that andher husband were sleeping, fell last the responsible man was absent, compelled the persons present in charge to refund.

Two Hundred Skeletons Found.

On Wednesday last Rev. Nathaniel Wardell, Messrs. Orin Wardell, of Toronto, and Daniel Fredenburg, were digging on the farm of the latter gentleman, which is on the banks of the Grand river, in Cayuga twp., Canada. When they got to five or six feet below the surface a strange sight met them. Piled in layers, one upon top of the other, some two hundred skeletons of human beings, nearly perfect-around the neck of each one being a string of beads. There were also deposited in this pit a number of axes and skimmers made of stone. In the jaws of several of the skeletons were large stone pipes, one of which Mr. O. Wardell took with him to Toronto a day or two after this Golgotha was unearthed

These skeletons are those of men of gigantic stature, some of them measuring nine feet, very few of them being less than seven feet. Some of the thigh bones were found to be at least half a foot longer than those at present known, and one of the skulls being axamined completely covered the head of an ordinary person. These skeletons are supposed to be those of a race of people anterior to the Indians. Some three years ago the bones of a mastodon were found imbedded in the earth about six miles from this spot. The pit and view of any who may wish to make a visit

An Absurd Bet.

Such an absurd case has just been decided in London. One Mr. Hampden made a bet with a man named Wallace that the earth was flat, and that he would prove it: the other being also required to prove his opinion of the rotundity of our sphere by experiments. The decision being left to an umpire who, unfortunately for Mr. Hampton, was of sound mind, was given against his theory, and he had to hand over his stakes of £500.

Whether the parting with his money, or the damage done his scientific reputation, was the cause of the ebulition, I know not, but Mr. Hampden let his temper run away with his prudence so far that it carried him into court to answer a charge of fibel, brought against him by Mr. Wallace, who was decreed the handsome sum of £600

This muleting has only increased the ire of the unhappy gentleman, who now declares he will prove the truth of the charges he alleges against Mr. Wallace, as well as his ignorance in the first assertion. I expect to see all Mr. Hampden's property melted away into damages for libel, increasing in sum every time as the allegations become more violent.

Tragedy in New York.

About five o'clock, on the morning of the 23th inst., an officer of the Eighteenth precinct was alarmed by the cry of "murder" proceeding from No. 415 East Fifteenth St., and on going thither found two ty seemed to pass to the mother, leaving lads in the basement, gazing horror-stricken into a room in the rear, and staunching

> The officer found the corpses of Felix and Helen Dorsey in the rear room, and the boys said that their father came home that night intoxicated, but went out again and returned about 8 o'clock in the morning. He quarrelled with his wife, when he seized a knife, and cut her throat from ear to ear. He then attempted to cut the throats of the boys, who, however, avoided him, hiding beneath a bed, from which they saw him seat himself and deliberately cut his own throat, and then fall a corpse. The boys, after a time, gave the alarm, but too late to do any good.

A New Phase of Deviltry.

A few weeks ago a malicio us injury, nearly involving loss of life, was perpetrated on the property of Mr. Blake Butler, of Orangemore. A man was employed mowing with a machine, when suddenly it came in contact with an iron spike driven into the ground, and was smashed in pieces .--The man who was directing the movement of the machine by means of a lever, was thrown off his seat, and but for the lever which he held, he would have fallen between the knives and been dreadfully mangled. The spike was found to be one of those used on the railway to fasten the rails to the sleepers. Three similar spikes were found in different parts of the field, driven firmly in the ground.

237 For several hours during Friday night of last week the city of Richmond, Virginia, was filled with birds of different kinds, which, attracted by the lights of the streets, battered their heads against the windows, as if seeking shelter from the cause that drove them there. Several men seated on the portico of a hotel, while being entertained by the music of the birds, were astonished to see one of the crane species, commonly known as the "fly-up-the-creek," make a dart at one of the windows, striking his head violently against the glass. So persistent was he to effect an entrance that he remained until captured, rather than go away. The Richmond people are anxious to know what the wise men will say about this strange freak of the birds.

The plastering of the room in Augusta, Georgia, in which Elizabeth Charles week, and a part striking her in the stomach caused death.

A Husband and Wife Suffocated.

On the 19th inst., a sad accident occurred at Bear Gap, seven miles north of Mt. Camel, by which a man and wife lost their lives. It appears that the man, William Smith, was sinking a well on his place, and on going down in the well in the morning he was overcome by the white damp that had collected at the bottom of the well. His wife, who was standing near by, saw that he could not get up without assistance, and she proceeded down into the well, and was also suffocated with her husband .-They leave a family of four children, the youngest being only six months old.

Carious Discovery.

The Boulder News, of Colorado, announces that the Rev. Mr. Van Valkenburg, in sinking a shaft near Erie, of said Territory, found the impression of palm leaves four feet long at almost every foot he descended. He also discovered a petrified lemon of perfect formation. In a lime ledge near Boulder City, are petrified cocoanuts in large numbers. Besides, the remarkable coal treasures, 52 feet in thickness, all evidently of vegetable origin, point unmistakably to the fact that these were produced by the same influences now found in tropical regions.

A curious case is reported from Michigan. A stranger, who drank a glass of liquor in a saloon, offered a $100 note in payment. The seller, unable to break it, went into a neighbors for change. The latter took the bill, gave him $10, and said $90 would just settle the account he had against him. The liquor-seller protested. the creditor was immoveable. Finally the former went out and tried to borrow the $90 in order to pay the customer his change, and the latter meantime, worried by the delay and suspicious as to its cause, sent an officer to arrest him for embezzlement.

Wreck of a Steamer.

The smack Ida Mary arrived at Newport on the 22d inst., with wrecked materials, including part of a pilot-house, with the word "Wyoming" painted on it; an extension table, life preserver, etc., from the wreck of a steamer sunk about three miles off shore. Two mast heads are out of the water. She is a large vessel with side wheels, and appears to have been blown up by powder or steam. The revenue cutter Moccasin proceeds at once to the wreck.

The Kentuckey election returns, from all but two counties, give Leslie (Democrat) 124,326, Harlan (Republican) 87,907 a Democratic majority of 36,419. The remaining counties will not make much change in the majority. The Democratic majority at the election last year was nearly seventy thousand.
