CONSUMPTION. ITS CURE AND ITS PREVENTIVE.

By J. H. SCHENCK, M. D.

Many a human being has passed away for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure.

THE MANDRAKE PILLS, SCHENCK'S SEEDLE TREATMENT, and assisted themselves of his wonderfully efficacious medicine, they would not have fallen.

THE MANDRAKE PILLS are composed of one of Nature's subtlest gifts—the Podophyllum Peltatum. They purify all the blood vessels, and give alternative properties of color, but, unlike calomel, they "LEAVE NO STING BEHIND."

LEWIS POTTER, Attorney for Claimants, NEW BLOOMFIELD, PA.

HUMOROUS.

Two old ploughmen down East were telling tough stories of their exploits in breaking up new ground. The linen was taken off the bush by this yarn: "Twas up in Dixmont, twenty-seven years ago, this spring, I was plowing in stump ground with a team of nine pair of cattle for Sol Cunningham; we were going along, makin' not very smooth work among stumps; well, one day the point of the plough struck against a sound stump four feet through, split it square across the heart, and I was follerin' the plough through, when the thought flashed through my mind that the pesky stump might snap together and pinch my toes, so I just gripped the plough-handles firm, and swung my feet up out of the way, and the stump sprang back and caught the slack of my pantaloons. That brought every thing up stamin. Well, I tightened my hold, and Jim Swithin, he and Sol was driven," they spoke to the cattle, and we snaked that stump right out by the roots, and it had awful long ones."

"It must a been strainin' on your suspenders," said the other. "My wife knit them!"

A Challenge Repelled. After the Battle of Preston Pass, a witty Scotch farmer amused himself by writing a ballad upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very poorly on the occasion, that he sent the poet a challenge to meet him at H—, for mortal combat. The second found the farmer busy with his hay fork, to whom he delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero.—The good-natured farmer, turning toward him with the agricultural implement, coolly said: "Gang awa' back to Mester Smith, and tell him I ha'e nae time to come to H—to gie' him satisfaction, but if he likes to come here, I'll tak' a look at him, and if I think I can fecht him, I'll fecht him; and, if I think I canna fecht him, I'll just do as he did—I'll rin awa'!"

Prof. H., of Yale College, was passing out of the recitation-room on his crutches, when an ambitious freshman dropped slyly into his cap a piece of paper, on which he had written legibly the word "Monkey." Ticked with his joke, he told his success to all his student friends. But a speedy retribution befell him. At the next recitation, the lame professor addressed his division thus, in his sweetest tones: "Gentlemen, as I was passing out of the room yesterday, one of your number did me the very high honor to leave me his card!"

A dealer in fertilizers down in Alabama, bragging of his guano, says a farmer recently put a sample of it in his pocket in which there happened to be a carpet-tack, and started home on horse-back. Before reaching his house his steed broke down, and the farmer was at a loss to discover the cause until he found that the carpet-tack had grown to be a long bar of railway iron.

A school master in Bridgeport, Conn., who asked a small pupil of what the surface of the earth consists, was promptly answered, "land and water" varied the question slightly, that the fact might be impressed on the boy's mind, and asked, "What then do the land and water make?"—to which came the immediate response, "Mud."

At an Iowa Falls Sunday school the superintendent was reviewing the lesson, and was talking of the verse reading "Let your loins be girded and your lights burning." He asked the question, "Why are we commanded to gird our loins?" One little sharp shaver sung out, "To keep your breeches up."

An Irishman was summoned for refusing to pay a doctor's bill, when he was asked why he refused to pay. "What for should I pay?" said Paddy; "sure he didn't give me any thing but some emetics, and the niver a one could I keep on my stomach at all."

Hearty old gentleman to a dyspeptic friend—"Doesn't agree with you? Oh, I never let anything of that sort bother me. I always eat what I like, and drink what I like, and finish off with a good, stiff glass o'rog at bedtime, and go fast asleep, an' let 'em fight it out 'mong themselves."

"Ten days of such weather as this," remarked a Vermont farmer one day this season, "put corn beyond injury from frost." "Yes," replied the other, wiping the reeking perspiration from his face, "and so it will all the rest of us."

An anxious mother in Pennsylvania has sent this note to a severe school-mistress: "Your will oblige me not to youse that wail Bone on the Eipes of my Littell dauter. Give your Hart; to god and-Perhaps you will have more Pa-ence."

An Indiana man claims to have succeeded in playing a thorough confidence game upon the potato-bugs. He planted a grain of corn in each potato hill, and as the corn came up first, the bugs thought it was a cornfield and started for other scenes.
