Jim Heffenger Pinds a Sympathizer.

Tuesday, September 26, 1871. LOCAL DEPARTMENT,

OUR TERMS

Are $1 25 a Year in Advance.

Get Registered .- Attend to getting registered without delay, as Friday of this week is the last opportunity to attend to that duty.

An Accident.-Mrs. Jacob Drawbaugh, of Carroll township, while on a visit to William Meyers, in Rye township, was seized with a vertigo, just as she was descending the stairs, which caused her to fall to the bottom, rupturing a blood-vessel and badly injuring herself otherwise. Under the care of Dr. Eberhard, she is rapidly recovering.

A Wretch.-Some inhuman monster in Hagerstown has been disgracing humanity lately by mutilating dumb animals. A cow of Mr. Bomberger's was recently cut over the back with a heavy sharp instrument, evidently an axe, and horribly mutilated. Mr. Joseph Friese had a cow mutilated in the same manner.

New Census and Patent Laws .- We have received from Munn & Co., publishers of the Scientific American, N. Y., a neat book, giving valuable information regarding inventions, the patent laws, official rules, etc. The book also gives complete census returns, showing the population of all counties and States in the United States. Every one should have it, as it can be procured for twenty-five cents, by sending for it as above. It is the most complete book for the price we have seen.

A Cattle Speculation. - A young man named Morton was arrested on Saturday last, and committed to jail in this borough, on the charge of having stolen two steers belonging to Samuel Gutshall, Esq., and driving them over the mountain when he sold them to a butcher near Middlesex for $25. The prisoner is a young man about twenty years of age and says he is a son of James Morton, of Juniata Co. A butcher who would buy a pair of cattle weighing thirteen or fourteen hundred pounds for $25, under the circumstances these were sold, lays himself open to the charge of knowingly purchasing stolen property.

Examinations. - The County Superintendent announces the following places for the Examination of teachers.

Narrow Escape. On Thursday evening a week as Professor D. Eckles and family were preparing to retire for the night, they narrowly escaped a terrible coal oil conflagration. One of the Professor's daughters. it appears, took the lamp up off of the table, intending to leave the room. While in the act of doing so, the flame ran down into the oil, when she immediately dropped the lamp upon the floor. Her father rushed to the spot, and attempted to extinguish the flames, but of no avail. He then gathered up the carpet containing the burning lamp, and threw it into the street, thus making a very narrow escape from a terrible conflagration. Persons cannot exercise too much care in the use of coal oil .- Cartisle

A Snake Story .- Last week a little son of Mr. Bradon, of Petersburg, Cumberland county, Pa., while playing in the wagon shed, was bitten in the ankle by a copperhead snake. The child running to his mother, complained that a bee had stung him; but as no attention was given his complaint, beyond a glance at the supposed sting, he went out and began wading in a mud puddle. In a few minutes, however, he returned to the house and said his knee was paining him very much.

The sting now showing some abrasion of the surface, on account of the inflammation and swelling, which had spread to the knee, excited alarm, and search was made for the supposed bee's nest, which the boy said he had seen, but which proved to be a large copperhead snake coiled on a heap, measuring, when killed, over three feet. The physician who was summoned said that wading in the mud was the best thing the child could have done. The boy made a good recovery.

Tury Ann Henr.-F. Mortimer & Co., have now received a splendid stock of Fall and Winter Dry Goods. Call and examine them before purchasing your winter outfit.

Newport Items. Our correspondent from Newport sends us the following:

B. F. Miller will soon break ground for the building of a new wing to the Huggins House, to be used as a private residence. Fever and ague is now at a discount in our town as at the present time there are but few cases here.

On Monday morning last the emigrant train passed here with 479 emigrants bound for the far west in search of homes.

Captain Crist of this borough has exhibited three pears that weigh three pounds and three ounces. They are of the Duchess variety.

"Fife Major" Townsend, of Oliver township broke his right fore arm on last Saturday evening.

The brick building known as the 'Miller property' has been sold by Messrs. Sponsler and Junkin, to Mrs. Jesse L. Gantt for $6000.

We have a man in our towa who, whenever he gets angry is subject to hysteries. Poor fellow!

The sash of the new Alms House are to be hung by weights and cord. The weights are to be cast at the foundry in this place.

For The Bloomfield Times. Will Jim Hefflefinger Explain?

Mr. Epiron:—I once before wrote you a few lines telling you there were fair, honorable men in old Mother Cumberland who did not agree with Jimmie Hefflefinger's who did not agree with Jimmie Heilleinger's argument, whether legal or scriptural, as to the prescriptive right of a Cumberland County lawyer to the Judgeship. Very many here, good and true men, are pleased that Perry presents so good a lawyer and citizen as Berjamin F. Junkin, Esq., as a citizen as Berjamin F. Junkin, and her candidate for President Judge, and without distinction of party, assert openly that it is Perry's time to have the position. Rest assured however, Mr. Editor, if the smallest counties Perry and Juniata do not now assert their position and rights, the title of a Cumberland County lawyer to the office will be really settled by prescription, and honest opponents of the idea will become converts. It will always be asserted that Perry and Juniata do not desire the office to be filled from their respective bars, but yielded to the superior qualifications of the Carlisle lawyers, and the heavier vote of Cumberland County.

With all the fallacies asserted by Jimmie about Cumberland County having a prescriptive right to the office, he has hardly come up yet to the singular assertions of the Perry advocates of Cumberland County supremacy, and I should like him to expatiate on them. One is that a Cumberland County lawyer admitted in 1829 can never grow old, and another is, that when of large frame and portly presence, the lawyers of this County must, as they advance in years, become mentally as they advance in years, become mentally and physically stronger than all other lawyers, though men twenty years their junior. It would hold in no other trade, occupation or profession. Will "Jimmie Hefflefinger" explain the phenomenon? If he does, his anxiety may be at rest; the prescriptive right of the Carlisle Bar will be established and the question forever settled to Jimmie's satisfaction, even though the trouble did kill McGrannahan.

For The Bloomfield Times.

CUMBERLAND.

Shermansdale, Sept. 18, 1871. Mr. Editor—If convenient, I would like to express my opinion in regard to the bad condition of the road from the Narrows Saw Mill to Shermansdale, in Carroll townsaw and to shermansdate, in Carroll town-ship. There has been no work done on this road of any account all summer and according to my estimation of the matter, it is a rough road for the amount of travel that is done on it. The mail is carried daily over it, and thousands of bushels of lime hauled yearly, besides the traveling that is done between Landisburg and Carliele Four vary are thereour years ago there was a new road laid out and made all but the bridges, and if this road were finished it would make a good one; but all it is fit for in its present condition, is for the turkey hunters to run up and down. It is a useless piece of business to spend two or three hundred of business to spend two or three material dollars to almost complete a road, and then let it lay in idleness. If there is no better material to select a Supervisor from next Spring, we had better save the expense of election and make a wooden one.

Fall Suits.

DEAR SIE:—I am not without hope. The silver lining of faith is now glittering around the edges of the dark and somber cloud of despondency that for the past fortnight has been banging threateningly in the political atmosphere of the 9th, Judi-cial District. Last week I was much disheartened. The foolish people of Juniata and Perry Counties had the presumption to take into the Judicial arena a man who was raised on the north side of the mountain. I expected to see some terrible visitation of Divine vengeance follow this unparalleled ferime. I waited for four days in dread of the reproduction of the piagues of Egypt or the fearful surges of billowy flame that rolled over the cities of the Plain, or the angry skies with the frightful tokens that preceded the destruction of Jerusalem, but there were no more toads than usual, nor any lice that I could hear of save those that I caught from the children the last time I was at Wattle's house,-neither could I discover the smell of Sulphur in the air, nor see flery swords in the sky. At the expiration of this time I re-ceived a letter from Mrs. McGracken of Juniata County, urging me to come over as soon as possi-ble, stating also that Widow McGrannahan was very anxious to see me on business of great importance. Now knowing as I do that the old lady is scheming to have me marry the widow, this request was the cause of fresh trouble. But thinking that the people had repented of their great sin, and an immediate visit would enable me to call upon the people to look at the steeple of the Court House in Cariisle for salvation from impending destruction, as the Jews of olden time were directed to look to the brazen serpent on the top of the pole when the fiery serpents invaded the camp in the wilderhess, I immediately went. When I reached my destination I found the family all well but Mrs. McGrannahan and live of the children. I soon discovered the important business to be transacted-Mrs. McGranna. han wanted to borrow $25 from me to pay for a new set of teeth. After I had complied with her request she began to talk to me of her lamented husband. With tears large as apple dumplings rolling from her sorrowful eyes, down over her care worn cheeks she recounted his many virtues. Alt yes? she said, now since he's gone I know how to sympathize with poor Barbara Jiggerumbob, Her husband Israel, hauled stone with a yoke of oxen to the new bridge down here. He was a great rover. He used to be on board a whate ship, then he listed and went down to the Florida wars and fit with the injuns, and finally when he settled down here he was so scarred and bruised that you couldn't see a bit of whole flesh on his body. Well one day when he stopped the wagon to let his oxen blow, one of them struck him with his horas when he was striking at the flies, and knocked him over in the road, and then they started and run the wagon over him killing him on the spot. Poor Barbara said it wasn't that she missed Israels company so much, as to think that after so many glorious chances of dyin both on sea and land, that he had to come here and be be trampled to death by a pair of dod durnedsnotty-calico-sided-old steers.

So said Mrs. McGrannahan, wiping her nose and sobbing violently; "I don't fret so much for James because he's dead, as to think that he was killed by the contrariness of the people of these counties where there is no college or garrison, and where they raise little else than hoop-poles and buckwheat." When I thought of the noble conduct of this man in thus sustaining the rights of Carlisle to the Judgeship, and gazed upon his family of 7 ornhans, none and gazed upon his family of 7 orphans, none of which seemed to possess sufficient dry-goods to wad a shot gun, my eyes become suffused with tears, and turning from them I quietly left the house, and walked towards home. It was my intention to commit suicide. I included to return home, and take with me to me tended to return home, and take with me to my room two and a half bushels of dried apples and nine gallons of water, and then go out of this world on a tremenduous bust. After havthis world on a tremenduous bust. After having walked some distance in this melancholy frame of mind, I set down to rest. Soon I heard the distant rumbling of wheels, and a buggy containing a man of grave and reverend mien came by. His flowing beard, his broad phylacteries, and his toothiess lower jaw ways him an appealing measurement was similar to the contract of the contract o gave him an apostolic appearance, very similar to that of Judas Iscarlot, as represented on carvas. From his pocket protruded a pack of LaCrosse and Perry County, "Democrats;" the lines were under his feet, his left hand held a copy of the "BLOOMFIELD TIMES," while his right hand stroked his heard vigorously. I right hand stroked his heard vigorousiy. I found that he was reading aloud one of my letters, but like the Eunuch of Philip's time, he falled to undersand. I approached him cautiously, and said, "Understandest thou what thou readest it' and he replied, "Not more than forty per cent." I then mounted the buggy seed and conversed with him about the seat and conversed with him about the situ tion. I found that he was in sympathy with my feelings concerning the Judgeship, may more, that he was actually traveling to convince the people that it must be given to Cumberland, where Judges like Sauer-Kraut, always grow better as they grow older. He assured me that there were five more men beside my-self in the district who wanted the $40,000, of salary for the next ten years to go to Carlisle. When I heard this, tears of gratitude welled in my eyes. Perhaps I was saved, and the rights of Carlisle might yet be established. He also of Carlisic might yet be established. He also gave me the assurance that his four companions and himself would stand by me, and if there was no other hope, on the day of the election, we would do as the heathen Chinee do with the Digger Indians in California—we would go to the polls in the different districts and frighten the people away by making grimanees at them, and he further assured me that they were well calculated for this, as they all had big mouths—thus you see hope has again been renewed. Yours feelingly,

JIM HEFFLEFINGER,

Who has now made up his mind to live for a fortnight longer.

THE AMERICAN WASHER!

PRICE, $5.50!

THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY,

The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dread-ed, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Cloth-ing, Sure.

ed, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of better quality, than the most claborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old pian of the rub board. It will wash the largest blauket, or three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a quilit to a Lace Curtain or Cambrie Handkerchief, are equally in the capacity of this LiTTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken off atwill.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleaning efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and defractor at once become the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwiedy, useless machines, which have signally falled to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price, another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.
