LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

OUR TERMS

Are $1 25 a Year in Advance.

No Paper Next Week.—Next week being Christmas, no paper will be issued from this office.

Deer Hunters.—The second hunting party which has visited Black Log from this borough, came home Friday last, bringing with them a fine buck which they shot on the morning they left.

Will You Do It!—Will you look at the date on the direction label of this paper, and see if your subscription has nearly run out?

Sheriff's Sale.—On Friday last, the following properties were sold at public sale, by the sheriff:

A tract of land in Center township, containing 60 acres, seized as the property of Henry Minghes.

A tract of ground in Liverpool township, containing 2 acres and 114 perches, having thereon a house and other out-buildings, seized as the property of John Meyers.

A building in the borough of Newport used as an office, located on leased ground, lease expiring next April, seized as the property of Thos. McDonald.

Rum's Doing.—On Thanksgiving Day a stranger mounted on a black pacing horse, was observed riding through our streets in a beastly state of intoxication.

Duncannon Items.—Our correspondent at Duncannon sends the following: Rev. Graham of Duncannon is holding a revival meeting at Pennell's church 3 miles west of town.

Mr. William Gladden, killed two pigs on Monday a week 8 months old, which weighed in the aggregate, 607 lbs.

The new Iron Ware House, of the Duncannon Iron Co., is nearly completed. The Nail Factory is stopped this week, for repairs.

The case of Dr. McClure, who was arrested on the 7th inst., for violating the Prohibitory liquor law, keeping a disorderly house &c., is absorbing a good deal of attention at present: upwards of 50 witnesses have been subpoenaed by the prosecution and many more will be.

A certain divine has lately been making himself obnoxious, by publicly reprimanding young ladies of unimpeachable character for misconduct at church, and positively refusing to accept proof of their innocence: further conduct of that kind, on his part has been threatened with a thorough investigation by the friends of the accused.

A free musical concert will be given at the M. E. Church, on Christmas afternoon and evening, by the M. E. Sabbath School which is a large and flourishing one, and noted for its musical talent.

The recent cold snap has provided magnificent skating, and large quantities of clear glittering ice has been stored for summer use.

Sale Bills.—of all kinds can be obtained at this office upon short notice, and on reasonable terms. Call and see specimen.

Patent Outside.—We see by last week's News that "Patent Outsides" have made a successful attack on Perry County.

Brought to Time.—A lady, whose husband would't get her a patent clothes-dryer, took the pole out from her old-fashioned line the other evening, and crumpling down near the fence yelled "murder."

Arrested on Suspicion.—A young man giving his name as J. T. Vaughn, claiming to hail from the western part of Virginia, was arrested here on Wednesday night last, and lodged in jail, on the suspicion of being a horse thief.

Juniata County Court — A Humorous Charge.

The Juniata County papers refer to the amount of business done by the Court there at the last session, and the way in which it was done, in a very complimentary manner.

"The plaintiff wanted a new buggy; he was willing, in the goodness of his heart, to give two old buggies and $40 to boot, for one new one, in which liberal spirit he was met in a corresponding manner by Frazier, of this place, a coachmaker.

The only thing plaintiff saw in the coachmaker's shop that stood any chance of being turned to account in the construction of the new buggy, was a piano box, which, on inspection, pleased the plaintiff, and he selected it in a happy moment, paid for it, and left it with the coachmaker, to be painted, striped, and put on the running gear of the new buggy.

The defendants, who are the purchasers of this material at the Sheriff's sale, deny the right of the plaintiff to recover anything. First, because the raw material don't exist as such, having been worked up; and they deny his right on the additional ground that the Sheriff's sale passed to them the value of labor done by the coachmaker to their raw materials, and as you cannot now separate the two, defendants also claim the broad stripes on the piano box.

First, because the raw material don't exist as such, having been worked up; and they deny his right on the additional ground that the Sheriff's sale passed to them the value of labor done by the coachmaker to their raw materials, and as you cannot now separate the two, defendants also claim the broad stripes on the piano box.

think, and so say—for to hold anything else, would be to offer a premium for faithlessness in the performance of solemn engagements, and unless such were the law, it would lead to inextricable confusion, vexation and wrong.

Let us run defendants' logic to its legitimate consequences. Let me illustrate. Suppose Mr. Doty took his boots to a Knight of St. Crispin to be half-soled, and after the shoemaker has got one boot half-soled, an execution creditor comes along, levies on the labor of the shoemaker bestowed on the half-soled boot, and buys it at Sheriff's sale—must the learned counsel lose his boots, which were only half, half-soled? and if the purchaser of the half-soled boot took possession of it, then either the counsel must buy out the Sheriff's vendee, or get one new boot to match the one he still owns, or else the Sheriff's vendee must buy Mr. Doty's other boot, and in the event of their disagreeing on the terms, neither could derive any use for his single boot. This, gentlemen, would be quite annoying.

Or, again, suppose a young lady, in all the glorious pride of womanly beauty, should take a foundation for a bonnet—for, small and microscopic as modern bonnets are, they are not without foundation in their gay attire; their superstructure rests, however minute, on a substantial basis—to a milliner, to have it trimmed with ribbons and posies, and after the skillful fingers of the ingenious laborer have added a string and a flower, a creditor with his writ levies on the labor, strings and posies put there by the marvelous skill of the milliner, sells foundation, ribbon, string and all; can it be that youth and beauty must submit to so irreparable an injury as the loss of the very foundation of her bonnet, when, in all probability this bonnet is to her "a thing of beauty," if not a "thing of joy forever"—at least for the season. And we may all imagine—and it is within the range of reasonable probability, and within the scope of human events—that this joyous girl, warming into womanly beauty, exciting glowing and intoxicating reminiscences, even in the fancy of the Court and doubtless the jury, for we are not superior to this weakness, may herself lose forever the undying love and admiration of her beau, for want of a bonnet, with the consequences of which calamity so fearfully alarming that the Court—and doubtless the jury also—cannot fail to be most profoundly impressed, and cannot decline to declare that a principle followed by such damaging results, never can be the law.

The jury found $40 for Middagh.
