From Grass to Hay.

There is no part of the year, or portion of the life of horses, cattle and sheep, cspecially store stock, in which they so often suffer for lack of care, food and shelter, as during the season from the failure of grass to the time when they are regularly installed in winter quarters, and are receiving their winter daily rations. The bleak winds, chilling storms, long nights, cold ground and frost-bitten grass of November have a very different effect upon all farm stock, from the warm stables, soft bedding early cut hay, appetizing Swedes and daily nursing of January and February.

Of the many excuses offered by farmers for neglecting their stock at this season, scarcely one of them is worth the hearing ; but still they are made understandingly if not orally, and have the effect to stultify and quiet the conscience of the herdsman, to the great detriment of his stock.

If every stock-raiser would receive as truth, embrace it as such, fully comprehend its importance and various bearings, that any and everything that much or little interferes with the comfort of animals, lessens their thrift and costs him dollars and cents, there would be less loss in weeks intervening between summer and winter quarters. There is such a reluctance to commence feeding out the grain, hay, coarse feed in the barn, and roots in the cellar, that the stock is often left to browse and grub on the hills, among the bushes, on the meadows or in the woods, as long and late in the autumn as they continue to " fill" themselves tolerably full, with the mistaken idea that until they begin to look lank and sharkey, they are "getting-along," and the winter feed in the barn is saved.

But stock may look full without hunger being satisfied ; yes. they may be full constantly, and all the time growing poor, as it matters little whether full of bleached stubbles, grass, leaves or wind.

And if they have no place to feed daytimes away from the bleak and chilling autumn winds, or to lie nights except on the cold and wet earth and unprotected from wind and storm, they will be uncomfortable, and necessarily deteriorate in consequence.

A fat animal keeps warm casier, and, of course, requires less food for fuel, than a Ioan one; and it is far better that stock should come to winter quarters extra fat than otherwise.

The winter quarters should be so constructed as to exclude frost at "pinch of winter" and all other times, and yet so as to have good air-especially for milk cowswhich may be done and allow five times the oubic space of the cubic size of each animal, for each to occupy.

17 In pasting wall papers, posters, etc., pecially where successive layers are put on, there arises a most disagreeable effluvia, which is particularly noticeable in damp weather. The cause of this is the decomposition of the paste. In close rooms it is very unwholesome and often the cause of disease. In large manufactories, when large quantities of paste is used, it often becomes sour and offensive. Glue also, has often a very disagreeable odor. If when making paste or glue, a small quantity of carl olic acid is added, it will keep sweet and free from offensive smells. A few drops added to mucilage or ink prevents mold. In whitewashing the cellar and dairy, if an onnce of carbolic acid is added to each gallon of wash, it will prewent mold and prevent the disagreeable taints often perceived in meats and milk from damp apartments .- Hera'd of Health.

CONSUMPTION:

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF CONSUMPTION: tient is cured. The essential thing to be done in curing Cousumption is to get up a good appetite and a good digestion, so that the body will grow in flesh and get strong. If a person has diseased lungs—a cavity or abscess the re—rhe cavity lungs—a cavity or abscess there—rise cavity cannot heal, the matter cannot ripen so long as the system is below par. What is necessary to cure is a new order of things—a good appe-tite, a good nutrition, the body to grow in flesh and get fat; then Nature is helped, the cavities will heal, the matter will ripen and be thrown off in large quanties, and the person will secure off in large quanties, and the person will regain health and storength. This is the true and on-ly plan to cure Consumption, and if a person is not entirely destroyed, or even if one lung is is not entirely destroyed, or even if one lung is entirely gone, if there is enough vitality left in the other to heal up, there is hope. I have seen many persons cared with only one sound lung, live and enjoy life to a good old age. This is what Schenck's Medicines will do to care Consumption. They will clean out the stomach, sweeten and strengthen it, get up agood digetion, and give Nature the sys-tem of all the diseases that is in the lungs.

In a good digetion, and give Nature the system of all the diseases she needs to clear the system of all the diseases that is in the lungs, whatever the form may be. It is important that while using Schenck's Medicines, care should be exercised not to take cold : keep in-doors in cold and damp weather; avoid night air, and take out door exercise only in a geaiel and warm sumsline. I wish it distinctly understood thet when I recommend a patient to be careful in regard to taking coid, while using my Medicines. I do so for a specul reason. A man who has bot partially recovered from the effects of a bad coid is far more liabe to a relapse than one who has been entirely cured; and it is precisely the same in regard to Consumption. So long as the lungs are not perfectly basied, just so long is there imminent danger of a full retarn of the disease. Hence it is that I so strenuously caution pulmonary patients against exposing themselves to an unosphere will infame. The grand secret of my success with my Medicines consists in my ability to subdue inflammation instead of provoking it is may a for our of the disease of a bad coid is in the submy patients against exposing themselves in a species with my Medicines consists in my ability to subdue inflammation instead of provoking it is more than the second and provoking it is subdue inflammation instead of provoking it is more the inflammation instead of provoking it is provided to the second of the full substance.

Wood Ashes for Wheat.

A subscriber sends us the following as his experience in using wood ashes, viz. that in quantities of only eight bushels perscre, they have a marked effect ; that they push the wheat forward several days, thus, setting it ahead of that critical period when it is so apt to be altacked by rust, that they strengthen the stem and increase its solidity. All of which and much more, we can readily indorse. In fact ashes are in an excellent application for all crops, and especially for an orchaid .- American Agriculturist.

Neuralgia.

A correspondent of the Lancet says : "A few years ago, when in China, I bemine acquainted with the fact of the natives when suffering with facial neuralgia mang oil of peppermint, which they lightty apply to the scat of pain with a camelfinir pencil. Since then in my own practice, I frequently employ this oil as a local anæsthetic, not only in neuralgia, but also in gout, with remarkably good results."

success with my Medicines consists in my abil-ity to subdue inflammation instead of provok-ing it, as many of the facuty do. An inflamed lung cannot, with safety to the patient, be ex-posed to the biling biasts of Winter or the chill-ing winds of Spring or Autama. It should be carefully shielded from all irritating influeces. The utmost caution should be observed in this particular, as without it a cure under almost any circumstances is an impossibility. The person should be kept on wholesome and mutritions dict, and all the Medicines continued until the body has restored to it the natural quant ty of flesh and strength. I was myself cured by this treatment of the worst kind of Consumption, and have lived to get fat and hearty these many years, with one
