> PROSPECTUS FOR 1872. FIFTH YEAR.

A Representative and Champion of American Art.

THE ALDINE: An Illustrated Monthly Journal claimed to be the hand-somest Paper in the World.

"Give my love to the artist workmen of THE ALDINE who are striving to ake their profession worthy of admiration for beauty, as it has always been for usefulness."—Henr., Ward Beecher.

NEW FEATURES FOR 1872. ART DEPARTMENT.

ART DEPARTMENT.

As a guarantee of the excellence of this department the publishers would beg to announce during the coming year, specimens from the following eminent American artists:

W. T. Richards, Granville Perkins, Jas. Smiley, Wm. Hart. F. O. C. Darley, R. E. Piguet, Wm. Beard, Victor Nehlig, Frank Beard, Geo. Smiley, Wm. H. Wilcox, Paul Dixon, Aug. Will, James H. Beard and J. Hays.

Those pictures are being reproduced regardless of expense, by the very best engravers in the country, and will bear the severest critical comparison with the best foreign work, it being the determination of the publishers that THE ALDINE shall be a successful vindication of American taste in competition with any existing publication in the world.

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.

Where so much attention is paid to illustration and get up of the work, too much dependence on appearances may very naturally be feared. To anticipate such inispicuous, it is only necessary to state, that, the editorial management of Tilli ALDINE has been intrusted to Mr. Richard H. Stoddard, who has received assurances of assistance from a host of the most popular writers and poets of the country.

THE VOLUME FOR 1872 will contain nearly 300 pages, and 220 fine engravings. Commencing with the number for January every third number will contain a beautiful tinted picture on plate paper, inserted as a frontispiece.

The Christmas number of 1872, will be a splendid volume in itself, containing fifty engravings, (four it tint) and, although retailed at $1, will be sent without extra charge to all yearly subscribers.

A CHROMO TO EVERY SUBSCRIBER was a very popular feature last year, and will be repeated with the present volume. The publishers have purchased and reproduced, at great expense, the beautiful oil painting by Sans, entitled 'Dame Nature's School.' The chromo is Ilx13 inches, and is an exact fac-simile, in size and appearance, of the original picture.

TERMS FOR 1872.

HUMOROUS.

Very Sick.

LMOST every day, on one of our prin-A cipal thoroughfares, can be seen a hale, hearty-looking gentleman, dressed with scrupulous care, but with a look of profound depression on his countenance.-Indeed, he is a confirmed hypochondriac.-He thinks he is the unfortunate victim of every ill that flesh is heir to. Walking along yesterday he saw two young men furtively watching him, and accidently overheard their subjoined conversation.

"You don't think h'll live long, then?" said one.

"O no, certainly not-he's bound to die before the winter's over."

"And do you think we can get his body?" "Certainly, it's all arranged."

It may be imagined such words produced no very favorable impressions. In fact, the gentleman felt cold chills coming over him perhaps it was to him they were alluding. He determined to ascertain. Approaching the youths he inquired if he might be permitted to know their calling.

"We are medical students, sir." "And was it of me you were speaking a moment since?" The young men colored with confusion, and hesitated for an answer.

"I beg you will be candid," said the gentleman. "I should like to know." "Well! yes sir, we were alluding to you." "And you say it's arranged to get my body after I die?" "Yes sir, I said so."

"And is it a fact?"

" Certainly." "To dissect ?"

" Yes." At each interrogatory the gentleman's countenance got a shade paler. Evidently his mental auguish exceeded all his physical ills; he was suffering now in earnest.

"Will you be kind enough to tell me why this particular injury is reserved for me?" he asked, plaintively. "Is it necessary to advance the cause of science?"

"Well, you see, sir, we want to find out what the matter is with you. You are always sick, and yet are ever growing fat, are always complaining, and yet ever eating. You look well, and yet are an invalid. We want to cut you open and discover the enigma."

"You do! well, allow me to say that I don't intend to be cut open. I shall get well. I'm well now. I intend to keep so." And the invalid turned on his heel, fully resolved not to die.

E A lady in a town not a thousand miles away was considerably annoyed by hens who picked the loose plastering from the wall. So one morning while washing dishes, she thought she heard her fowls pecking as usual, and dish cloth in hand, she hastened to the door, and giving her rag a warlike flourish, she uttered a tre-mendous "shoo-oo!" Imagine her dismay at beholding, not the hens but a stranger, who, after wiping from his face the drops of dishwater with which he had been sprinkled, said in a perfectly calm voice, "Well, mum, if you've got any more spare rags, I should like to sell you some tin-ware for 'em." An Irishman, being annoyed by a howling dog in the night, jumped out of bed to dislodge the offender. It was in the month of January, when the snow was three feet deep. He not returning, his wife ran out to see what was the matter. There she found her husband in his nightsuit, his teeth chattering and his whole body almost paralyzed with cold, holding the struggling dog by the tail. "Holy mother, Pat," said she, "what would yo be after doin?" "Hush," said he, "don't ye see? I'm tryin' to fraze the baste !"

At a trial, not long since, one of the witnesses, an old lady of some eighty years, was closely questioned by the opening counsel relative to the clearness of her eyesight. "Can you see me?" said he.

"Yes," was answered. "How well can you see me," persisted "Well enough," responded the lady, to see that you are neither a negro, an Indian, nor a gentleman." The answer brought down the house.

Our Major says an old Mexican volunteer, had very long feet, and also a horse that threw every one but the Major. One evening the Major's servent was out on the parade ground with the horse, and, as usual got thrown off, when one of the boys spoke up and said : "I know why the horse don's throw the Major !" "Why?" was asked by a dozen or more. "Well, you see the Major's got such long feet that the horse thinks he is in shafts."

One political economist writes that "it is an appalling fact, that if the American people were called to pay their taxes in one day, there would not be money enough in the country to do it. To which another replies that it is an appalling fact, that if the American people were called upon cat in one day, the food which they consume in a year, there would not be room in the American people to hold it."

"Astor and I," said a New York boot-black "are worth millions."
