A Comfortable Hotel.—If you propose to visit Philadelphia and wish a pleasant stopping place, we advise you to go the St. Elmo on Arch Street below Fourth. This hotel was formerly called "The Union," but has recently changed proprietors and has been entirely refitted and refurnished, so that it now compares favorably with the best hotels in the city. The charges at the St. Elmo are also very moderate, while the proprietors Messrs Feger & Medlar understands how to keep a hotel. Give them a call and you will know how it is yourself.

The report was deafening, and the cinder was thrown in every direction, setting fire to the mill in several places, and burning Mr. James Boden, in a most shocking manner about the back and legs. Mr. Boden was taken to his home-where he is receiving proper medical treatment. The damages done to the mill were only trifling, the fire being promptly extinguished.

COMMUNICATED.

Mr. Editor:—I had the pleasure, recently, of visiting the Soldiers Orphan School, located at Andersonburg in this county, and in the few days that I spent there, had a good opportunity to witness the admirable workings of the various de-partments of that institution.

partments of that institution.

The number of pupils in attendance at the school is about 130, of various ages, from 7 to 14 years. They are accommodated in two large buildings, both of which are well adapted to the purposes for which they are used. The school and recitation rooms are commodious, well ventilated, and supplied with modern improved furniture, blackboards and all the other appliances for facilitating the instruction of youth.

Under the tuition of Prof. Hall and Misses Laura Milligan and Ellie Dromgold, the pupils are making rapid progress, and by the interest they manifest in their studies, show that they are in earnest in their

They seem to appreciate keenly the benefits that the state has so generously placed within their reach and are making the most of the opportunities thus afforded them. The branches taught embrace not only those that are considered the elements of a good English education, but include also many others taught only in Academies and Colleges. The evils incident to non attendance are very lightly felt, because the pupils consider the school as a sort of house, where it is pleasant to stay, and hence never voluntarily absent themselves. The discipline of the school is of the very best, but none other than "the gentle influence of love? is called into requisition to maintain it. Pupils yield a ready obedience to the will of their teachers, because they feel that nothing will be required of them that is not for their own good.

The Superintendent is the Hon. Martin

Motzer, to whose efforts much of the excellence of the school is due, but he is ably assisted by the corps of teachers before named. To such of our citizens who take and interest in the education of the young, and who feel sympathy for the children whose parents "died that their country might live," and voluntarily sacrificed their lives upon the altar of the Republic during the dark days of the late civil war, I would say, visit this school, and see how admirably the plans made by the state for the education of these little ones, are exercised in little hoop-pole Perry. L. C. BRINER.

The Aldine For February .- The current number of The Aldine is a worthy suc-cessor to the glorious January issue, which was so universally bailed as the challenge of a thoroughly American ("down east American), picture—

"He stood a spell on one foot fust, Then stood a spell on t'other, And on which one he felt the wast He couldn't ha' told ye nuther."

An "Old Mill in the Wyoming Valley," by F. T. Vance, is a picturesque bit of Penn-sylvania scenery. A series of illustrations of the Adirondack region, the famous North Woods of New York, is worthily commencwoods of New York, is worthily commenced with a magnificent full page view by George Smillie, entitled "Morning on the Ausable." The rising sun, dispelling the mists of early dawn, discloses a scene of wood mountain, and water of the rarest beauty. "The Truants," by Miss M. L. Stone, is a natural and attractive drawn Stone, is a natural and attractive drawn group of boys, just such boys as might be seen playing "hookey" anywhere in this great country of common schools. But the feature of this number is the full-page cut, "Manifest Destiny," after a drawing by W. M. Cary. An Indian in hot pursuit of a buffalo bull, is intercepted and foiled of his game by a white man, whose drawn revolver and determined gaze very plainly announces that he considers the animal ahead his meat.

We are glad to learn that THE ALDINE we are glad to learn that THE ALDINE is meeting a very flattering success, not alone from the larger and wealthier towns, but from the smallest hamlets and newest neighborhoods, showing that this country is fully prepared to support the highest forms of art. We should be pleased to hear that our town was well expressed among that our town was well represented among the patrons of THE ALDINE. The publish-ers are James Sutton & Co., 24 Liberty Street, New York, and the subscription price is $5, which includes a handsome oil

Capt. Charles Sager, who keeps a superb stock of livery horses in Portland, Me., informed us recently that he uses Sheridan's Cavahy Condition Powders regularly in his stables, and that the expense is more than offset by the diminished amount of grain necessary to keep his horses always in good order.

A good Engine and Boiler will be sold at public sale in this borough by George Snyder, on the 10th of February.

Women know that beauty rather than genius is worshipped by the sterner sex. A man may talk of the latter to his lady-love, but the keenness of the woman knows that he is thinking of the former.
