Washington's Birth Day .- The 22d of February was a lively day in this borough. About 11 o'clock the sound of bugles, announced the approach of the Ickesburg Cavalry Company, having between 40 and 50 men in line, all well mounted and equipped. After a parade through the streets they dismounted for dinner, after which the company had a drill in the field just below town. The company is called the " Russel Guard," and the organization does credit to the county. The officers are J. M. Weibley Captain ; who saw considerable service during the war, and B. F. Coller, 1st Lieut. One feature of the occasion was the presence of Major Robinson a soldier of 1812, who reviewed the company, and though 80 years of age is as creet and spry as many a man of only 50. In the evening a concert was given in the Court House by the 'Ickesburg Concert Troupe,' which gave entire satisfaction to a large audience.

The Knights of Pythias, with the lady friends of the members, also had a supper at the Robinson House.

Although a large number of people were in town, the day passed of pleasantly without any of the disagceable incidents which are apt to mar occasions of this kind.

Fire in Selinsgrove .- A disastrous fire occurred in Selinsgrove on Wednesday night last. It began in a stable and before it was got under control had destroyed one church, five stores, several dwellings and twelve stables. The loss is very heavy and may reach $100,000. Of this amount we learn that the Perry Mutual losses about $6,000. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. The frequency of the heirs received eleven-twelfths of 12 great fires throughout the country indicate unusual carelessness, or an increase in crime. It would at least be well if courts would be less lenient with persons convicted of the crime of incendiarism.

A Change .- The American Lutheran says: Rev. S. E. Herring, recently pastor of the Reformed church, in Blain, this Co., has lately resigned his charge, with a view to connect with the Lutheran church. He is dissatisfied with the Mercersburg theology that prevails in the Eastern Synod of that denomination, and also to their opposition to revivals of religion. He has received a call from the West Fairview charge lately served by Rev. S. Dasher, and has already commenced his labors there. He has met with a kind reception from the people of his new charge. At the next meeting of the Reformed Classis in May next, he hopes to obtain his regular dismission, and connect himself formally with the West Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran church.

Our Duncannon Letter.

DUNCANNON, Feb., 23, 1872. MR. EDITOR:—They have resumed oper-ations at the Nail Factory here after one weeks idleness, and the prospect for a steady run is good. The Company's iron warehouse is about ready to store iron in, the building is of brick and is an ornament to the place. The "Harrisburg Quickstep" has been quite prevalent here, the doctors reporting about forty (40) cases, but there have been no deaths, and most of the sick ones are about again. The Kuights of Pythias talk of building a Hall two or three stories high; and though nothing has been decided on, the project meets with general favor as the want of a harge room in which entertainments can be given, or which can DUNCANNON, Feb., 23, 1872. favor as the want of a large room in which entertainments can be given, or which can be used for concerts, lectures etc., is severe-ly felt. The trustees of the Presbyterian church are very accommodating and are willing to allow the use of the church when it does not conflict with their sense of pro-priety, but there are many cutertainments which cannot suitably be held in a church, and are which the set of the church when and yet which the general public keenly appreciate; and from such we are debared. A number of the citizens state their willing-A number of the there is an out of one to five hundred dollars each, if the Knights push the enterprise. A return party was given to the "leap year" ladies by the young gentlemen of this place on the 16th inst., at the Washington house. These litinst., at the Washington house. These fit-tle parties make it very pleasant for the young folks, though I don't see why as soon as a man is married they cease to in-vite him. The U. A. Mechanics gave an ice cream supper on the evening of the 20th. It was to take place on Washington's birth-day, but as the United Bretheren were to begin their forth second annual Conference begin their forty-second annual Conference meeting nere on the 21st it was changed. There was some excellent music by the Silver Cornet Band, some appropriate re-marks by Rev. Rodrock and a rather odd toast to the ladies, "May the tall grow taller, and the small never grow smaller." Dr. Swartz introduced the orator of the evening. Chase of Vark who is an effect evening, Chase, of York, who in an effec-tive addresses urged all to follow the ex-ample set by him who stood "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Since liquor is legally sold here as a beverage it is nothing unusual to see men staggering along, or tumbling in the gutters, or to hear them fighting and swearing till near morning, and when Mr. Chase said a man who was not habitually temperate could not be a good mechanic

(U. A. M.) many cordially agreed with him, while some few perhaps, secretly resolved to do better in the future. VERITAS.

Those Problems.

MR. EDITOR:-In regard to the sheep problem published in the TIMES, I answer emphatically that the distribution was not in accordance with the will of the testator. By the provisions of the will his sheep which were eleven in number were to be divided in the following manner, to wit: The first son was to receive one half of the number, the second one fourth, and the number, the second one fourth, and the third one sixth. This disposed of but eleven-twelfths of the whole number of the sheep. The magistrate discovering this fact added one more to the original number making it twelve, then making the division in the same ration, which was taking eleventwelfths of the number, it disposed of the 11 sheep leaving the remaining one-twelfth, sheep whereas they were only entitled to that fraction of 11 sheep or in other words they received 11 sheep while the will gave them only eleven-tweifths of that number leaving the remaing one-twelfth undisposed of. Yours Truly, A. M. M. 17" In answer to the cat question of last week several answers have been received, one of which says, 1 cat, another 331 cats, and another thinks 100 cats the proper number. The correct answer as received from R. H. Stewart, Duncannon is 3 cats.

Sad Accident .- On last Tuesday the child of Mr. and Mrs. Wolf, of Mount Holly, met with an accident which has since caused its death. The family were at the dinner table. Mrs. Wolf was in the act of handing a cup of coffee to Mr. Wolf when he quickly rising, struck the cup with his elbow, thereby spilling about one-half of its contents over their child.

All that could be done to relieve the little sufferer was done, but to no purpose. Her neck, breast and shoulders were so badly scalded that after lingering in intense agony until Wednesday at three o'clock she expired.

A Narrow Escape.—On Thursday last as Henry Foulk, Esq., and Mr. Wm. Seitz of Rye twp., were felling timber in the woodsa large tree they had cut, lodged on some saplings. Mr. Seitz got on the tree, and cut off one of the saplings, when it flew up and struck him on the nose, mashing it, and knocking him some distance. He was considerably hurt, and his escape from fatal injury was remarkably.

Sudden Death .- The Carlisle "Volunteer'' says: On Sabbath last, Mrs. Eliza Gardner of this borough, while worshiping in the First Lutheran churh, was prostrated by a sudden stroke of apoplexy. She was conveyed to her residence in East Louther street, but in a short time life was extinct. The deceased up to the moment of the attack, had been in the enjoyment of excellent health. Truly, "in the midst of life we are in death."

A SERIOUS accident was prevented on the North Central R. R., a few days since a little girl, who observed a broken rail and signalled and stopped the Fast line which was approching. Had it not been for her coolness, a terrible disaster would probably have been the result.
