NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENN'A. Tuesday, April 30, 1872.

An Obstinate Juror.

In the trial of Mr. Hyde, at Brooklyn on the charge of murder, the jury was out twenty-nine hours, and it is said they finally agreed to acquit but one, and that, in order to render a verdict, the eleven offered to agree to $1,000 fine and raise the money themselves, but the disagreeing juror was obstinate, and the counsel for Mrs. Hyde, succeeded in getting her liberated on $2,500 bail, and the jury discharged.

A Terrible Fight in the Court Room—Seven Killed and Many Wounded.

The Fort Smith New Era of April 17, says: "The following startling letter was received on Tuesday morning at the United States Marshal's office, by Captain J. W. Donnelly, chief clerk:

WHITEMORE'S BAREN FORK, CHEROKEE NATION.—We have had a terrible fight, lost seven on our side killed, and three of theirs are killed. There are lots of wounded. We are in a devil of a scrap. Send us men and means instantly.

We are with our dead and wounded, and expect to stay with them until the last one goes. Owens is wounded. For God's sake send help, and send quickly. Come to Dutchtown, and then down Baren Fork to Whitemore's. Ward is killed; Varney and I are alone with Jo Owens. None of the rest are here with us. We look for help to-morrow night by dark, and are looking to be attacked every moment. The parties are close together. Some Cherokees are with us. Yours in haste.

[Signed.] J. S. Peavy. In order that the circumstances causing the terrible fight above alluded to, may be more fully understood, we will state the following:

On April 11th a white man named J. J. Kesterson, living in the Cherokee nation, near the Arkansas line, about fifty miles from this city, came here and filed information before United States Commissioner Churchill, against the Proctor, also a white man married to a Cherokee woman, for assaulting him, with intent to kill. He stated that while in his saw mill, on the 13th of last February, Proctor came in, walked up without provocation, and shot his wife dead. He then fired his revolver at him, the ball striking just above the left eye. Before he could fire again, Kesterson escaped. It is further stated that Proctor was undergoing trial for the murder of his wife, at the court house in the Snake district, about fifty-seven miles northwest of here. A writ was issued, and the deputy marshals was instructed to go to the court house and remain until the trial was over, and if he was not convicted to arrest him on another charge. Proctor is known to be a desperado, and it being in the neighborhood where Deputy Marshal Mentz was killed, about a month ago—where, in fact, a deputy marshal is shot at almost on sight—it was necessary that a strong force should be sent. The parties had also writs for the murderers of U. S. Deputy Marshal Bentz, who are supposed to be in the immediate vicinity, and they intended to resist arrest. On Saturday morning, April 13th, Deputy Marshals Jacob H. Owens and Joseph G. Peavy, with William Weid, Jos. G. Yawney, James Haskens, Paul Jones and Eugene Bracket, as a posse, left here for the scene of action. At Evansville they were joined by Riley Ward and W. J. Morris, and at Dutchtown by a man named Beck, who is part Cherokee.

The Indian court house is about twelve miles west of that place. The party proceeded about 3 p. m. on Monday. They were within fifty yards of the court house when they dismounted, hitched their horses, and quietly walked toward the east side of the house in file by twos. They stopped at the corner, and Beck stepped around to the front door and looked in. Seeing a large number of people inside armed to the teeth, he turned immediately to come away, but not before he was fired upon and dangerously wounded. At the same time a volley was poured from the court house upon the Marshal's force without, who then commenced to return the fire. They were at a great disadvantage as the attacking party were under shelter inside of the court house. It appears that Beck had some friends inside the court house, who, when they saw him fall, opened on his (Beck's) enemies, and presently the fighting was general. It was brief, however, but terrible in its results. Of the Marshal's force seven 'out of eleven' lay dead, and of the assailants only three. Some sixteen or seventeen are reported wounded, some mortally, including Marshal Owens. The messenger knew the name of only two of the Marshal's forces who were killed, James Ward and Riley Woods. Three were missing, James Hawkins, Paul

Jones and Eugene Bracket. Morris helped to lay out nine bodies on a porch about half a mile from the scene of the deadly affray, and thither the Federal wounded were also carried. Proctor, the woman killer and desperado, was guarded by eleven of his personal friends, who would not see him convicted. The sheriff was killed, and the judge received three buckshot in the knee. Indeed, it appears from the sudden and deadly assault on the Marshal's force that the people inside the court house had been fully informed of their approach and were prepared for them. The officials were instructed to make a demand for Proctor only in case of his acquittal, and expected some resistance should they attempt to arrest Proctor after his acquittal, but for the murderous volley on their first approach they were not prepared, and hence their slaughter. Immediately on receipt of Deputy Marshal Peavy's letter, R. C. Kerons, Chief Deputy Marshal, Captain J. W. Donnelly, chief clerk, and United States commissioner Brooks Churchill, raised and mounted thirty men under command of City Marshal, C. F. Robinson, and Joseph Tinker, Deputy. Accompanying the expedition are Drs. Julian C. Field and C. W. Pierce.

A demand has been made on the authorities of the nation to assist in seeking the murderers dead or alive. This is one of the most terrible affairs ever known in this country, originating in distrust and jealousy with which the more intelligent portion of the inhabitants of the Indian Territory are misled by bad white men. What protection can be had may be surmised from the fact that Proctor has committed eighteen murders and still is unchanged. It is the stern determination of the United States Marshal in this district to bring to justice the murderous and rebellious crew in the nation at any sacrifice or expense.

A $20,000 Robbery.

On Friday a German gentleman, from Laporte, Penn'a., arrived at the La Pierre House. In the evening he went to the Academy, and, as he was coming out, made the acquaintance of two men who soon won his confidence by their politeness. They all went back to the hotel, when they took drinks, and then one suggested "wine in the room." This was agreed to, and they conversed, drank, laughed and smoked until two o'clock. During this time the German gentleman became confidential, and exhibited a wallet containing, in addition to $45 in cash, bonds, railroad, State, and Government, and judgment notes to the value of $20,000. The parties separated, very much pleased at 2 o'clock, and the gentleman from the interior went to bed, only to awake, yesterday morning to discover that the wallet, and all its contents, was gone. The affair was given to the detective to work up, and they are very reticent as to the victimized gentleman's name. Philadelphia Republic.

During their stay in San Francisco the Japanese ladies carefully investigated the females attendants at their hotel and compared them in their working clothes with the ladies whom they saw upon the street arriving at the conclusion that the rich and poorer classes of American women are divided by physical development and that the wealthy classes are distinguished from their less fortunate sisters by a hump upon the back something after the fashion of the dromedary.

Miscellaneous News Items.

- A charter has been granted for bridging or tunneling the Mississippi river at Memphis.
London, April 20.—The walls of a building in course of erection at Kirkady, Scotland, fell this morning, while they were at work, causing deplorable loss of life. Nine masons and laborers were suffocated.
Mrs. Maher, of Greenbush, Albany, was struck down and had her neck broken on the 21st inst., while attempting to stop a fight between her two sons. Joseph, the alleged matricide, has fled.
The insects commonly known as buffalo goats have attacked farm, horses and mules in Mississippi, and many hundreds have died within the past few days, and many farmers have no teams with which to cultivate their crops.
Henry Ward Beecher, in a lecture last week, before one of the largest audiences ever seen at Cooper Institute, took ground in favor of a less restrictive method of observing Sunday, and giving the working classes an opportunity for increasing their intelligence, if necessary, on that day.
Mrs. Ellen Sargeant, a mill workwoman, committed suicide at Newport, N. H., on Wednesday week, by taking morphine. She left the following note: "Father, forgive me and forget that you had a daughter Ella. Text for my funeral: 'Judge not, that ye be not judged.'"
At New York last week a singular looking box, addressed to Lieutenant Kelso, was landed from the steamer Manhattan, and, exciting the suspicions of the Custom officers, it was opened, and was found to contain a coffin, on the lid of which was a plate inscribed: "John C. Heenan," with a representation of the Angel Gabriel. The coffin was opened and found to contain a lot of lace curtains, horse blankets, etc., and a smaller coffin filled with valuable bronze goods.
