Singular Effects of Blue Glass.

At a moeting of the agricultural society in Philadelphia, General Pleasanton appeared before the Society, and addressed them on the subject of the effects of vegetation and, animal light under the blue glass, so far as regarded his discoveries since his last report, some time last year. He alluded to the fact that after the hail-storm of May, last year, in which Mr. Buist's hot-house had been almost entirely destroyed, and during which his geraniums had nearly all been killed, he placed the latter plants under a glass painted blue, when they all began to revive, and even those which had lost color returned it again more intensified.

General Pleasanton, after giving a couple of similar illustrations, mentioned that he had applied to Washington for a patent for the process he had discovered, and that Department had sent Professor Brainerd to Philadelphia to examine his grapery, and see for himself the beneficial effect of blue light on vegetation. On the ground of this report he had received his patent.

The General then spoke of the benefit acruing to those suffering from physical pain, by permitting themselves to be shone upon by the direct rays of the sun pouring down upon the affected part of the body. through panes of blue glass. He gave an example in which a lady, who had been suffering from pains in her back, to whom he recommended that she should substitute the white panes of glass in the window with panes of blue glass, and would disrobe herself, expose the effected parts-her head and naked spine-to the compound blue light and wine light of the sun as they came through the window, for a space of thirty minutes, and repeat the sun bath at the same time every day.

General Pleasanton said the lady applied the proposed remedy, and within ten days, had not only received invigorated strength, and lost the pains in her back, but such parts of her hair as had been exposed to the rays as well as portions of her head on which hair had not grown before, had in the one case, increased in length, and in other cases begun to grow. The patient also said that various pains in her foot had been immediately dissipated by placing that naked member under the blue rays.

Duration of Vitality in Grain.

"A Young Farmer" inquires if seed of the different kinds of grain a year or more old will grow as well as fresh seed. Our answer would be, always sow seed as fresh as it can be had, for although some seed will germinate after it has been kept for years, yet these are exceptions. We do not know of any distinct experiments on old and new grain, except it be a single trial which we made in pots. Fresh seed wheat was sown in pots in autumn, one inch deep, and kept properly moist. In another pot, subject to the same temperature and the same degree of moisture, was sown wheat kept over one year. In other pots, seed five years old was sown under similar circumstances. The first or fresh seed came up in eleven days, the weather being rather cool; the second seed, one year old, came up in thirteen days. The five-year seed in the other pots came up irregularly, the first eighteen days, and aftewards for nearly a month. The grains of all were counted when planted in the earth, and the result was that all the fresh seed grow; all or nearly all the one-year, but not onehalf the five-year seed ever grew at all. From these limited experiments, we may infer that fresh seed is always the best; if only a year old it may do well, although the plants will hardly have the vigor of the first; but seed several years old should be employed only for preserving or securing some desirable variety. Will some of our readers repeat the experiment on oats, barloy, &c., by accurately counting, measuring depth, recording dates, &c .- Country Gentleman.

A Cheap Cure for Dandruff.

A writer in the Journal of Chemistry says; The belief that dandruff arises from a disease of the skin, although physicians do not seem to agree on this point, and the knowledge that the use of sulphur is frequently attended with very happy results in such diseases; induced me to try it in my own case. A preparation of one ounce of flour of sulphur and one quart of water was made.

The clear liquid was turned off, after the mixture had been repeatedly agitated during intervals of a few hours, the head was saturated with this every morning. In a few weeks every trace of dandruff had disappeared, the hnir became soft and glossy, and now, after a discontinuance of the treatment for eighteen months, there is no indication of the return of the disease. I do not protend to explain the modus operandi of the treatment,
