Marseilles, Juna 1183-While the Spanish steamship Guadoyea was lying in this port to-day with passengers on board, her boilers exploded. The outire apper portion of the ship was torn to pieces. Of those on board few escaped death or injury. Fortyfour passengers and eleven of the officers and crew were killed. Immediately after the explosion the steamer took fire, and the flames communicated to the dock. A serious conflagration was threatened. Several handred bales of cotton were consumed, when the flames were subdued.

London, June 17 .- The town of Warrington, in Lancashire, was visited by a destructive conflagaration last night, and the extensive cotton mills located in that place were partially destroyed. Loss estimated at £100,000. A large number of hands are thrown out of employment.

The Bill Against Jesuits

Berlin, June 17 .- The bill directed against the Society of Jesuits, depriving its members of the rights of citizenship, passed its second reading in the Reachtsag to-day after several hours debate, 183 to 101.

Berlin, June 18 .-- A dispatch dated from Dortmund, a town of Westphalia, says that 12,000 men employed in the mines at and near that place, have suddenly struck work. ill the cure beef and truncial

A Feminine Sharper.

A Sharp young American woman, a Mrs. Fanny Jordan, whose maiden name was Chumley, has been playing a pretty and profitable game with the King of Bavaria. His Majesty rarely appears in the capital, but leads an isolated life at his villa of Hohenschwangan, where his chief enjoyment is that of music. The lively adventuress went to the place with the sweet and pretty name, and took lodgings at the Golden Bear hotel, determined upon the conquest of the King. Walking out with her femme de chambre, when she saw royalty approaching she fell to drawing the beautiful landscape with all her might. The king, who is proud of the scenery, approached the fair artist and opened an affable conversation. Then he invited the engaging Fanny to visit his country seat and gave her a white mare, a diamond bracelet, his portrait framed in solid gold set with emeralds, and other gifts of great value. Then he lent her money in quite large sums; and then his uncle Leopold, hearing of the matter, employed two Mu-Rich detectives to hunt up the antecedents of the enchantress. Learning his determination, she fled, leaving behind her a large trunk containing 100 letters from different lovers. For the last three years the lady had been seeking, and occasionally finding her fortune in different European capitals. Her last affair, before the Bavarian speculation, was in Berlin, where she did so bedevil an unfortunate Colonel that he resorted to forgery to gratify her incessant demand for money, and so was ignominiously cashiered. The Bavarian detectives having found her in a retired village, allowed her to make choice between leaving the country or going to prison. So she continued her flight into Switzerland, with $10,000 in money and valuables, the net proceeds of her Hohenschwangan, speculation.

of Flintstone district, came to the city yes terday and laid in a supply of liquor which proved too heavy a load for him to safely carry. Having got fully intoxicated, and taking a bottle filled with whiskey along with him in his coat tail pocket, Bathelow started on horseback for his home, some twelve miles distant. During the afternoon he was found lying upon the pike, at a point about four miles from town, in an insensible condition, with a dreadful wound upon the side of his head, which was bleeding profusely. A messenger was speedily despatched to town for Dr. Wilson, who at once went to the man's assistance. An examination of the injuries showed that the man had fallen from his horse, and in doing so, his head struck upon the whiskey bottle in his coat pocket, by which a piece of glass was driven into his skull on the side of his head, and the skull badly fractured. The broken glass, a piece as large as a man's thumb, was successfully extracted by the doctor, and there is now a possible chance for the man's life, although last night he was in a very precarious condition. The accident is a singular one, and it is remarkable that the man was not instantly killed .- Cumberland Daily News.

The World has a letter from an officer of the United States steamer Kansas, from Greytown, on May 10, stating that Lieutenant-Commander White on June 5, caused the death of a sailor, David H. Cady by suffication, brought about by White holding one of the large deck swabs over Cady's mouth till the time of his death. He was in double irons for drunkenness, and this treatment was resorted to in order to make him stop his-noise, which he had been ordered to do and refused.

Christopher Andrews, one of the men indicted for the murder of Peter Ray, on the 10th of May last, cut his throat with a piece of glass from his window in his cell at Troy, N. Y. He cannot recover. He has made no confession.
