CARSON'S STELLAR OIL.
This is not the lowest priced, but being much the best is in the end by far the cheapest. Do not fail to give it a trial, and you will use no other.

THE alarming increase in the number of frightful accidents, resulting in terrible deaths and the destruction of valuable property, caused by the indiscriminate use of oils, known under the name of petroleum, prompts us to call your special attention to an article which will, wherever USED, remove the CAUSE of such accidents.—We allude to
Carson's Stellar Oil
FOR ILLUMINATING PURPOSES.
The proprietor of this Oil has for several years felt the necessity of providing for, and presenting to the public, as a substitute for the dangerous compounds which are sent broadcast over the country, an oil that is SAFE and BRILLIANT, and entirely reliable. After a long series of laborious and costly experiments, he has succeeded in providing, and now offers to the public, such a substitute in "CARSON'S STELLAR OIL." It should be used by every family.—
1ST, Because it is safe beyond a question. The primary purpose in the preparation of STELLAR OIL has been to make it PERFECTLY SAFE, thus insuring the lives and property of those who use it.
2D, Because it is the most BRILLIANT liquid illuminator now known.
3D, Because it is more economical, in the long run, than any of the dangerous oils and fluids now in too common use.
4TH, Because it is intensely BRILLIANT, and therefore economical, giving the greatest possible light at the least expenditure to the consumer. Its present standard of SAFETY AND BRILLIANCY will always be maintained,—for upon this the proprietor depends for sustaining the high reputation the STELLAR OIL now enjoys.
To prevent the adulteration of this with the explosive compounds now known under the name of kerosene, &c., &c., it is put up for family use in Five Gallon cans, each can being sealed, and stamped with the trade-mark of the proprietor; it cannot be tampered with between the manufacturer and consumer. None is genuine without the TRADE-MARK.
STELLAR OIL is sold only by weight, each can containing five gallons of six and a half pounds each, thus securing to every purchaser full measure. It is the duty and interest of all dealers and consumers of illuminating oil to use the STELLAR OIL only, because it alone is known to be safe and reliable.

HUMOROUS.

A Puzzled Jury.

They have a bright, golden way of doing everything in the Land of Ophir. Witness a scene which occurred recently in San Francisco during a coroner's investigation, and which is thus described by the happy local of the Chronicle newspaper of that city:

At this juncture the coroner desired to show to the jury the course taken by the ball, and for this purpose produced the corset worn by Mrs. Burkhart at the time of the tragedy. "You see," said he—and here he drew the corset around his waist with the laces in front! "the ball must have gone in here from behind. No that can't be, either, for the doctor says the ball went in front. Confound it, I've got it on wrong. Ah? this way." (Here the coroner put the corset on up side down.) "Now you see," pointing to the hole in the garment, which rested directly over his hip, "the ball must have gone in here. No, that can't be, either, for—"

Here Mr. Mather, the handsomest man on the jury, broke in. "Dr. Stillman," said he, "you've got that corset on wrong." Here Dr. Stillman blushed like a poppy. "Well," said he, "I've been married twice and I ought to know how to rig a corset." "Yes," said Mr. Mather, "but you don't. You had it right in the first place. The strings go in front and the ladies clasp them together in the back. Don't I know? I think I ought to; I've been married. If you doubt it, look here (pointing to the fullness in the top). How do you suppose that's going to be filled up unless you put it on as I suggest?" "That?" said Dr. Stillman; "why, that goes over the hips." "No, it don't," said Mr. Mather; "that fullness goes somewhere else—this way," and here Mr. Mather indicated where he thought the fullness ought to go.

At this a pale-faced young man, with a voice like a robin, and a note-book under his arm, said he thought the ladies always clasped their corsets on the side. The pale faced young man said this very innocently as if he wished to convey the impression that he knew nothing whatever of the matter. The jury laughed the pale-faced young man to scorn, and one of them intimated that he thought the young man was not half so green about women's dress as he tried to appear. The young man was a reporter, and it is therefore exceedingly probable that his knowledge was fully limited as was apparent from suggestions, the juryman to the contrary notwithstanding.

Her another juryman discovered that Dr. Stillman had the corset on bottom side up. "Doctor," said he, "put it on the other way."

Then the Doctor put it on in reverse, order, with the laces in front. This brought the bullet-holes directly over the tails of his coat.

"I don't think," said Mr. Mather, "that the bullet went in there, Doctor."

"No, I don't think it did," was the reply. "Confound it, it's mighty funny—six married men in this room, and not one knows how to put on a woman's corset."

Here the Chronicle reporter, who had several sisters, and always keeps his eyes open advanced and convinced Dr. Stillman and Mr. Mather, after much argument, that the laces of a corset go behind, and that the garments is clasped in front. After this explanation the course of the bullet was readily traced, and, found to bear out the explanation afforded by the two physicians.

The Indians, always excellent at imitating the bad, have learned the "emotional insanity" dodge. One James Lane, living near Trinity Center, California, was shot recently by a treacherous savage who had gained his confidence, and, upon demanding of the Indian the cause for his act the latter bounded off with the rifle, crying out, "Me heap crazy! Me too much crazy! Me too much crazy!"

"Really, my dear," said poor Mr. Jones to his better half, "you sadly disappointed me. I once considered you a jewel of a woman; but you've turned out a bit of matrimonial paste." "Then, my love," was the reply, "console yourself with the idea that paste is very adhesive, and will stick to you as long as you live."

The Count de Grasse was once wounded in the knee with a musket ball. The doctor cut and backed, and made many incisions, when, getting out of patience the Count asked why they cut him up so much. "We are seeking," said the surgeon, "for the ball." "Why didn't you mention that before? I have the ball in my pocket."

An old Scotch lady had an evening party, where a young man was present who was to leave for an appointment in China. As he was exceedingly extravagant in his conversation about himself, the old lady said when he was leaving, "Tak' good o' yourself when ye are awa', for, mind ye they eat puppies in China."

"You have a very striking countenance," as the donkey said to the elephant when he hit him over the back with his trunk.
