THE alarming increase in the number of fright-ful accidents, resulting in terrible deaths and the destruction of valuable property, caused by the indiscriminate use of oils, known under the name of petroleum, prompts us to call your spe-cial attention to an article which will, wherever USED, remove the CAUSE of such accidents.— We allude to

Carson's Stellar Oil

ILLUMINATING PURPOSES. The proprietor of this Oil has for several years felt the necessity of providing for, and presenting to the public, as a substitute for the dangerons compounds which are sent broadcast over the compounds which are sent broadcast ever the country, an oil that is SAFE and BRILLIANT, and entirely reliable. After a long series of laborious and costly experiments, he has succeeded in providing, and now offers to the public, such a substitute in "CARSON'S STELLAR OIL." It should be used by every family,—

1ST, Because it is safe beyond a question. The primary purpose in the preparation of STELLAR OIL has been to make it PERFECTLY SAFE, thus insuring the lives and property of those who

2D. Because it is the most BRILLIANT liquid iluminator now known. 3D. Because it is more economical, in the long run, than any of the dangerous oils and fluids 4TH, Because it is intensely BRILLIANT, and therefore economical, giving the greatest possible light at the least expenditure to the consumer. Its present standard of SAFETY AND BRILLIANCY will always be maintained .- for upon this the proprietor depends for sustaining the high reputation the STELLAR OIL now

To prevent the adulteration of this with the explosive compounds now known under the name of kerosene, &c., &c., it is put up for family use in Five Gallon cans, each can being scaled, and stamped with the trade-mark of the proprietor; it cannot be tampered with between the manufacturer and consumer. None is genuine without the TRADE-MARK.

STELLAR OIL is sold only by weight, each can containing five gallons of six and a half pounds each, thus scenring to every purchaser full measure. It is the duty and interest of all dealers and consumers of illuminating oil to use the STELLAR OIL only, because it alone is known to be safe and reliable.

HUMOROUS.

The Deacon that Winked.

We have no hesitancy in stating that among the able-bodied male adults of Harrisburg the very common beverage known as "soda water," and which is dealt out so unsparingly at almost every corner during the heated term, is considered, to use their own language, a "thin drink." But as the ingenious mixture of wind and water is termed "thin," strong liquors, such as whiskies, are altogether too "thick" for a steady, warm weather drink; and so the imbiber who must "moisten his flues" with some liquid refreshment seeks a pleasant combination of the two classes of drink which form a happy combination that exhilarates, yet is not intoxicating. It is customary among these bibulous go-betweens to enter a drug store, call for soda water, and name their syrup, at the same time giving a wink to the dispenser of "slush," who takes the goblet, in which he places the syrup, then stoops down beneath the counter or retires to a back room where by some mysterious chemical change the contents are colored darkly, and the soda is then let in upon the mixture, which is handed to the customer with a wink from the clerk. So much for the process. Now for the sequel.

On Saturday a venerable gentleman from the country, who is a respectable church deacon, a justice of the peace, a member of the "Band of Hope," and a Good Templar in his native village, came to this city to trade a little in dry goods and purchase such agricultural implements as he needed to plant and cultivate his spring crops. The deacon is strictly temperate, and never looks upon the wine when it is red any more than he does when it is any other color. Unfortunately our old friend had suffered from opthalmia in his early days, which left him with an optical peculiarity which caused his left upper eyelid to drop every few seconds, and to those not familiar with his infirmity gave him the appearance of winking intentionally.

The "deacen" is passionately fond of soda water, and such light beverage. He loves to feel the gaseous compound coursing down his throat, and creating internal commotions and typhoons, that, however endurable by older persons, throw babes into agony, and requires prompt doses of peppermint. So on Saturday, after he had bought a few shovels, plows, and a Dolley Varden for his wife, he thoughthe would fill up with soda water and drive on toward home. He entered a drug store, inquired the price of the desired refreshment, deposited his scrip and awaited his mixture. "What syrup do you want?" said tho urbane clerk, as he mopped off the marble counter with the towel he used a moment before to remove the honest sweat from hisbrow.

"Oh! give me sassaparilly. That is about as healthy as anything; I guess." Here the deacon's eyelid went back on him and dropped quickly.

"All right!" replied the fountain tender, as he disappeared below the counter, and came up a moment later with the drinking-glass, containing about three fingers of "sassaparilly," to which he added the other ingredients, and handed it to the deacon. The latter drained the contents to the very dregs, then brushed the froth from his mouth, smacked his lips and said: "That syrup is a leetle stronger than they generally make it; but my blood is out of order, and I guess I'll take another glass" At the same time his eyelid fluttered meaningly, as before.

The dose was repeated, and the sodawater bibber left the store. About half an hour later he entered another establishment where a sign announced "Soda and Mineral Water on Draught" It was noticed the descon walked as if he had the string-halt, as he entered the door, and that his spectacles were upside down on his nose. He called for "Congress water" at that place saying he did not feel quite right, and was afraid he had used too much syrup in his soda water at the other store, or else he was bilious. His optical weakness exhibited itself as he spoke; and, returning the wink, the clerk retired to a dark closet, then returning, filled up the glass with plain "Congress," and gave it to our "tightually slight" friend, who swallowed it with out a murmur.

How many "sodas" the deacon stored away before he left the city we are unable to say; but he was found late in the day asleep in his wagon, with a plow-point for a pillow, and several yards of Dolly Varden calico gracefully draped about his person for a covering. He revived sufficiently to inform a stranger that he had been "drugged," and a subsequent visit to the localities where he had taken soda water developed the fact that his unfortunate habit of winking-a defect over which he had no control-was the cause of all his trouble. The soda-water dispenser supposed him to be "one of the boys," and every time his eyelid dropped took the hint. The deacon escaped the "jimjams," but says hereafter he will wear a "blinder" over that eye when he purchases summer drinks or else write his order on a slate.
