THE alarming increase in the number of frightful accidents, resulting in terrible deaths and the destruction of valuable property, caused by the indiscriminate use of oils, known under the name of petroleum, prompts us to call your special attention to an article which will, wherever USED, remove the CAUSE of such accidents. We allude to Carson's Stellar Oil FOR ILLUMINATING PURPOSES.

2D. Because it is the most BRILLIANT liquid illuminator now known. 3D. Because it is more economical, in the long run, than any of the dangerous oils and fluids now in too common use. 4TH. Because it is intensely BRILLIANT, and therefore economical, giving the greatest possible light at the least expenditure to the consumer.

TO BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S NEW BOOK, "ROUCHING IT," is ready for Circulators. It is a companion volume to "Innocents Abroad," of which 100,000 copies have been sold.

Address DUFFIELD ASHMEAD, Publisher, 711 Sanson Street, Philadelphia. June 4, 1872.

HUMOROUS.

"Little Johnny was preparing for Sunday school, situated some distance away, when his mother saw one of their neighbors approaching in his wagon. This neighbor, by the way, was called 'The Rich Man,' being both wealthy, kind hearted and liberal to the poor.

"He went to the Baptist meeting, sir," replied the lad, thinking only of his late companion. "No, no, my son; the rich man went to hell," said the teacher, with great impressiveness, while the other scholars were tittering with laughter.

"Did he?" exclaimed the lad in all honesty. "Then he has taken my shoes and stockings with him," and up he jumped, and seizing his hat, he put out of the school room (and down the road, to overtake the rich man and recover his property.

"What is your name, sir?" "Lowder," was the reply. "What is your name?" repeated his Honor, raising his voice. "Lowder," was again the response.

"I'll mark you if you answer me in that manner," said the now thoroughly infuriated judge to the bewildered applicant for judicial favor. At this moment a friend ventured to explain that the gentleman's name was Lowder—"L-o-w-d-e-r," said he, spelling it.

"The other day a worthy lady of Peoria detected her two sons laughing immoderately. Suspecting that she was the cause of their disrespectful mirth the good woman involuntarily loosened her slipper and called up the culprits. "Thomas, what made you laugh?"

"Nothing made me laugh; I laughed on purpose." "None of your impudence, sir. John, why were you laughing at the door just now?" John (eagerly.) "Wasn't laughing at the door, I was laughing at Tom."

"Indian Joe," a Piute medicine man, well known among the whites, was stoned to death by his tribe, having failed to restore to health two sick Indians. If this style of dealing with white medicine men were adopted there would be a great many dead doctors.

"I'm afraid I'm sitting on your crinoline, ma'am." "Oh! never mind, sir, it's of no consequence; you can't hurt it." "No, ma'am, it's not that; but the confounded thing hurts me."
