NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENN'A. Tuesday, August 13, 1872.

North Carolina.

The news from North Carolina during the latter part of last week materially changed the previously reported results of the late election. It now seems that the Republicans have elected the Governor by about 1000 majority, while their opponents have elected 5 out of eight members of Congress, the Lieutenant Gov. and a majority of both houses of the Legislature, thus securing the United States Senator.

MAINE is now receiving the most marked attention by both political parties. The election which takes place in that State on the 9th of next month is regarded as really the opening of the Presidential campaign. Since 1856 the state has invariably given Republican majorities ranging from eight to thirty thousand, the republican majority last fall being a little over ten thousand. While the opponents of the administration do not claim to be able to carry the election they hope to reduce the republican majority, so that there will be a prospect for them to carry the state in November.

The best speakers from both parties are therefore laboring in that vineyard, and the result of the election of the 9th of September, will be anxiously looked for, and generally accepted as an indication of the political sentiment in the northern states, and as foreshadowing the result of the Presidential election.

Some curious evidence of the state of intelligence among the common people of Spain, is given in the prosecution of a claim against the Spanish government by an English gentleman named Jencken. Mr. Jencken was some kind of an agent on a telegraph line, and while in the prosecution of his business at Luca, in 1869, was assaulted by a mob and barely escaped with his life. There is a prevailing notion it seems, in Spain, that telegraph wires are mended by a composition made from the fat and entrails of children, and that great numbers of babies are surreptitiously taken and tried out for this purpose. A notion had got abroad at Luca that Mr. Jencken was engaged in this baby boiling business, and so the mob, with commendable humanity, fell upon him and almost tore him to pieces.

Very Singular,

Some two years ago Mr. John J. Murdoch, of the firm of Murdoch & Dickson, while passing through a field on his farm near Laclede station, observed a curious looking hole twelve inches in diameter and of very recent origin. He thrust a fence rail in it to the depth of eight feet, with a view to future investigation, which was, however, prevented by other matters. What chiefly attracted his attention was the fact that the direction of the hole was exactly perpendicular, cleanly cut and eliptical in shape and that its apparent depth was considerably of water. This water is heated at the degreater than the length of the rail. Our friend Mardoch was evidently determined that whatever had gone in there should not pull the hole in after it. Outside of his professional pursuits, Mr. F. J. Bowman has an inquiring turn of mind which led him to speculate as to what made the hole, He "interviewed" it yesterday, with the following result: At the depth of thirteen feet four inches there was found a stone twelve pounds in weight, about eight inches in diameter, oblately spheroidal in shape and of undoubted meteoric antecedents. It was exhibited in our editorial rooms, and has the invariable characteristic of meteoric stones-a fused black crust, like varnish, with which the surface is coated. As to its chemical composition, the predominating element is iron, in a native or metalic state, with a fair proportion of nickel. We doubt whether an opher aerolite of such perfect shape is in existence as these visitors from the upper region hardly ever fail to split into fragments before reaching the earth .- St. Louis Times, August 2.

A Singular Case.

A child, the son of a merchant tailor in the northern part of the city, says the Washington Star, has been lying in a trance for several days past. Its eyes are half open, and its breathing hardly perceptible. About once in six hours it partially awakes, but before any particular change takes place it relapses into its former condition. The attending physicians are said to be puzzled at the peculiar symptoms of the LE A smart lad in San Antonio, Texas, recently took his stand beside a blind organgrinder, and, hat in hand, solicited alms. When his tile was nearly, filled by the sympathetic passers-by he walked off.

A Terrific Flood.

A very terrific and damaging flood was caused by showers on Friday last, which passed over the township of Brookdale and vicinity, on or near Snake creek, Susquehanna county. A very dark, heavy cloud hung over the mountains toward Silver lake for a long time about noon of that day, causing all the streams from that direction to come tearing into the valley in a manner never known before, and swelling Snake creek into proportions unprecedented, causing an unwonted scene of death and destruction. Two dwelling houses and two barns were swept away at the junction of Riney's creek and Snake Creek, near the acid factory. One of these dwellings was occupied by Mrs. Washburne and family, who, fortunately were absent and escaped. The other was occupied by Mr. Owens. Mrs. Owens and four children were in the house at the time, and two of the children, one a daughter of about 15, the other a child of 4 or 5 years, were drowned. Mrs. Owens and Jacob Chalker were rescued from the flood, both in an insensible condition, and it was with difficulty that they could be recuscitated. Mr. Chalker thus periled his life in attempting to rescue Mrs. Owens, who caught hold of him in such a manner as to cause them both to be drawn under. Families were separated on each side of the creek, each frantic with doubt as to the safety of the other, and all were almost wild with terror and excitement. Every bridge on Snake creek and most of its tributaries, from Franklin Forks to where it flows into the Susquehanna river at Corbettsville, was swept away. Six bridges were destroyed in the township of Liberty. The loss in crops, washed land fences and other farming property is very great, much of which is utterly destroyed. Nothing of the kind, within the memory of the present generation of that vicinity has ever visited them, that is comparable with it in terror and destruction .- Montrose(Pa)

Fearful Fight with a Horse.

The Williamsport Gazette says that Mr. Frey, who resides near Wildwood cemetery on Thursday, 1st inst., attempted to hitch a high-spirited stallion to a reaping machine. Finding the animal uneasy and inclined to be boisterous, he called to his aid his wife, a lady quite well advanced in years . Mrs. Frey, arriving at the ground seized the bridle to hold the horse steady, while Mr. F. fastened the traces. Suddenly the animal scized Mrs. Frey's arm in his month, and dragged her over the ground for a distance of some thirty yards. When the infuriated beast started Mr. F. was knocked over, but quickly regained his feet, reized a club and going up to the stallion knocked him down, but he came quickly to his feet, never for a moment relaxing the hold on Mrs. Frey's arm. A. second time he was knocked down, when he released the arm from his mouth, but on regaining his feet made a desperate dash for Mr. Frey, who coolly and surely dealt him a blow that knocked him kown for the third time. Mr. F. then pummeled him until he became manageable. The bones of Mrs. Frey's forearm were broken, and other severe injuries inflicted.

A Novel Invention.

The latest novelty in the way of street car motive power is now in operation on the New Orieans and Carrolton Street Railway. On a four-wheel truck, about half the length of an ordinary passenger car, are, a boiler, a tank and a double cylinder engine of seven inches stroke. The tank is filled with about three bundred gallons pot in a stationary boiler and discharged into the tank at the beginning of each trip. In this manner enough steam is provided to propel the car nine miles and have a surplus of power left at the end of the trip. One man performs the duties of engineer, brakeman and conductor. There is no escape of steam, nor any noise beyond that ordinarily caused in running a passenger car; and a trial of nearly three months has shown this new motor to be not only practicable, but much cheaper than horse-power. The actual running expenses have been one dollar and forty-eight cents per day.

A Burglar Shot at and Killed.

At an early hour on the 9th inst., the citizens of Birmingham were alarmed by the dischare of a pistol. On examination it was found that a burglar named Wm. Hoegerling, alias Wm. Barnes, had entered the house of Mr. Chas. Evans, and when leaving was shot and killed by Lieut. Geo. H. Evans. Before firing he ordered the burglar to halt, but no attention being paid to his command he fired several shots nearly all of which took effect. Upon the person of the burgiar were found a small amount of money, a gold watch and some jewelry, which he confessed to have stolen. The young lieutenant promptly gave him self up, but was released on bail. He has the entire sympathy of the citizens, who at present feel that he was perfectly justified in committing the act, and that he will be acquitted of any criminal offence.

At Chicago on the 5th inst., Officers Scanlon and O'Mara endeavored to arrest Chris. Rafferty for disorderly conduct. While Scanlon was reading the warrant Rafferty suddenly made a dash for the door, near which O'Mara was standing, and drawing a pistol shot O'Mara in the breast killing him. Rafferty fled and has not yet been captured.

12 A son of Walter Snowden, of New Maysville, Putnam county, Indiana, was milking a cow on Tuesday, July 30, and annoyed by the switching at the flies with her tail, tied it fast to his brother, a nine year old child. The cow, while thus tied, was frightened by a passing train, and ran, dragging the boy a quarter of a mile. He was dead when picked up.

There is great excitement in Glen Cove, Long Island, over the mysterious death of four men within a few hours of each other. They worked in the starch factory. Their sufferings partook of several forms, thus puzzling the physicians to locate the disease. An hour after death the bodies turned black as ink.

A singular accident occurred upon the White Mountain Notch road the other afternoon. A stage coach on its way to the Crawford House was struck by lightning during a heavy shower, the horses were thrown down but not killed, and two passengers sitting on the top of the vehicle were somewhat injured. Their clothes were burned, their gold watches and chains melted in their pockets, and one of the men was burnt upon the breast, the electric fluid also completely encircling his body.

A horrible murder was committed near Yates City on Monday morning. The victim was the wife of John Matthewson, a farmer married but a few months. The murderer went to the house about S A. M., while Matthewson and a hired man were working in a distant field, and ordered breakfast. While Mrs. Matthewson was preparing it he undertook to ravish her. She resisted, and her clothing and person showed unmistakable signs that there was a terrible struggle for life. When her husband returned at night he found her body in the cellar, with her throat cut and skull crushed. Great excitement prevails there, and mounted horsemen are scouring the country in search of the murderer. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for his apprehension. A man who was near the house that day seeking employment is suspected.

A Tragedy at Williamsport.

The Gazette of last week says: On Sunday morning the body of a young lady was taken from the river under circumstances of a peculiar nature. Everything connected with the case appeared to be involved in the deepest mystery, and the news of the strange drowning spread through the city like wildfire. People flocked by hundreds to gaze upon the face of the unfortunate girl, cold, white and beautiful in the embrace of death, whose spirit had winged its spirit to the eternal world, leaving the body the study for curious thousands. A letter was found writen to the young man who had caused her ruin in which she states her intention to commit suicide. The name of the unfortunate girl was Sadie Palhamus and she was the daughter of a wealthy farmer living near Williams-

Horrors of the Chignon.

Some days ago, says the Indianapolis News, we referred to a lady in this city who discovered worms, regular maggots, in the chignon worn by her. For some time she had been uncomfortably depressed by a peculiar pain in the back of her head, and after making the above discovery at once sent for a physician and submitted to an examination.

The head was found in a diseased condition, with maggots actually squirming in the flesh, in spots more or less putrid. Her annoyance over the situation was very distressing and painful: The physician was compelled to closely shave that portion of the head, and although yet under severe surgical treatment, she is recovering rap-

The Good Templars of Grand Isle, Vt., have met with another affliction, like that visited upon them last winter, when their lodge room was broken into by some miscreant, who destroyed their regalia by burning it in a stove. A few days since the outrage was repeated on a larger scale. The regalia of the lodge, which was more costly than that previously destroyed, was burned, and several holes were made in the organ with an auger or bit.

A Determined Preacher.

The Baptists of Bloomington, Ind., are having an unpleasantness. Last Saturday they locked out the pastor, Rev. Mr. Burton. Coming to the church and finding the door locked, he opened a window, entered, undid the fastening of the door from the inside, and when the congregation assembled proceeded with the service. At its conclusion he was arrested, on the affidavit of Mr. Lunderman, for trespass.

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE

The Mutual Plan guarantees to the mutually Insured the greatest security for the least possible cost. The premium notes are the capital. On this no dividends are paid to the stockholders, but it is simply assessed to pay deficiencies arising after the payment of losses and expenses, which in the COLUMBIA INSURANCE COMPANY, during the total 12% years of its existence, have averaged but 6% per centum upon the premium note, being lower than the rates paid in the best solvent stock companies during the same period of time. In insuring at stock rates, the insured must pronounce to himself that he pays every year enough—lst. To form an accumulated fund for emergencies; 2d. To pay large dividends to the capital invested in the Company; 3d. Runs the risk of a "Chicago fire" coming and wiping his Company out of existence. In a mutual Company he keeps his own reserve in hand until needed, and pays no dividend to capitalists.
