FARM AND HOUSEHOLD ITEMS

We invite communications from all persons who are interested in matters properly belonging to this department.

Good News to Peach Growers.

The St. Joseph Herald gives the result of the application of hot water and ashes to the peach trees, to eradicate the yellows. The yellows, which have been such a bane to peach orchards, promises so to continue no longer. Simultaneously from the East, South and West, comes word that the tree revives, puts forth new foliage, and ripens its fruit under the influence of hot water and ashes. John Whittlesey, Esq., was the first in this vicinity to announce the discovery of fungoidal disease at the root of the tree. Mr. Thomas Meehan, of the Gardener's Monthly, shortly after announced his investigation in the same direction. The investigation of Prof. Kediz, of Lansing State Agricultural College, on the yellow, led him to the same conclusion. We are safe in saying that the right direction has at last been reached in the investigation of this disease and its remedy. As yet the subject has not been exhausted, nor has certainty been reached in the eradication or cure of the evil. This, however, is certain that the application of hot water and ashes has saved many trees. Query—Is this due to the action of heat alone; and if so would not a peck of unslacked lime about the collar of the tree, well covered up by slacking, produce heat enough to accomplish the same result? Every tree in every orchard ought to have a pail of hot water poured around the collar of the tree every Spring. This would accomplish two results, namely: It would kill the peach borer or grub, and arrest the yellow in its incipient stages. Either one of these results would amply compensate the labor involved.

Swindling the Farmers.

Every spring brings forth a host of advertisements to catch the eye of the farmer. They are very skillfully worded and set forth enormous profits. Such an advertisement or circular I received the other day from some Western man (name forgotten), who claimed to have a very prolific field-corn, three stalks would average eleven sound ears. An acre would yield two hundred and fifty bushels of good corn, but he does not say two hundred and fifty bushels of shelled corn. Sanford advertised his little dusky white corn in the same way. A number of farmers in this neighborhood purchased it, and it proved to be a miserable failure; yet Sanford found purchasers at seven dollars per bushel. The Norway oats was another swindle, for which farmers paid extravagant price. It was nothing more than the black Poland or Feather oats. And now we are to have a Late Rose potato, for which we are asked to pay a large price, and it may prove to be nothing more than the Garnet Chili, which is very similar to the Early Rose in shape and color. Farmers should be careful to purchase only from honest seedsmen, and give swindlers and speculators a wide berth.

How to Build Brick Chimney Tops.

All the brickwork above the superstructure should be made with cement mortar, which will absorb much less water than mortar made of caustic lime and sand. The bricks for a chimney top should be soaked in water for a few minutes, so that they will not extract the water from the lime. In order to have mortar become very hard, it must dry slowly. By laying up wet bricks, the mortar will set slowly, dry slowly, and eventually become almost as hard as the bricks. Every brick chimney should be covered at the top with a copingstone, with an arched top, or with bricks placed over the flues, like the rafters of a building, for the purpose of turning off the water, which would go down the inside, be absorbed by the bricks, and in some instances, soak through and wet the paper or kalsomining on the inside. A chimney top laid up with good cement mortar, and covered with a copingstone or chimney arch, will stand the influences of the weather for more than a hundred years without any repairs.—Industrial Monthly.

How to Select Flour.

1. Look at its color; if it is white, with a slightly yellowish or straw-colored tint, it is a good sign. If it is very white, with a bluish cast, or with black specks in it, the flour is not good. 2. Examine its adhesiveness, wet and knead a little of it between the fingers; if it works dry and elastic it is good; if it works soft and sticky it is poor. Flour made from spring wheat is likely to be sticky. 3. Throw a little lump of dry flour against a dry, smooth, perpendicular surface; if it adheres in a lump, the flour has life in it; if it falls like powder, it is bad. 4. Squeeze some of the flour in your hand; if it retains the shape given by the pressure, that, too, is a good sign. Flour that will stand all these tests it is safe to buy. These modes are given by old flour dealers.

Insurance Notice.

On and after the tenth day of April, 1872, The Home Reserve force of Insurance Agents belonging to "The Pennsylvania Central Insurance Company" will leave Pottsville in heavy force, and occupy ten different counties of the State, where they will continue to act as the Company's Agents until a full line of Local Agents can be appointed, when they will be recalled. As a body of men, I believe they are superior Insurance Agents, and most of them speak the English, French, Welsh and German Languages. The City Insurance Journals, with all their sneers at Mutual Companies, and continual cry of Fraud! Fraud! &c., cannot muster any better Insurance material! Why don't the City Insurance papers tell the public that no Mutual Company broke or failed during the last ten years? Why don't they tell the public that more than half the Stock Companies started within the last ten years have? It is a well-known fact that Mutual Companies cannot fail.

JAMES H. GRIER, Secretary of Pennsylvania Central Insurance Company.
