FARM AND HOUSEHOLD ITEMS

We invite communications from all personaucho are interested in matters properly belonging to this department.

The Best Time to Cut Bushes.

Twenty years ago I bought a pasture of poor soil, badly overrun with bushes; roses, blackberry, bayberry and barberry. For several years thereafter, as opportunity occurred during the summer season, the bushes were cut, and I had a good opportunity to observe the effect upon their life when ont at different times. It was uniformly the case with all the kinds, that when they were cut in the latter part of August or early in September, they were most injured if not killed by the proceeding. The roses were nearly all killed by one cutting at that season, and the barberry, especially those of large growth and which were in fruit, never sent up a sprout from the stump or root. The bayberry and blackberry were more difficult to eradicate with the scythe, but were then, and are now, kept down better when cut late in summer than at any other time. I am confident the time mentioned is the best to destroy any plant by cutting up; and I think it would be more effectual if done before the foliage drops in the autumn, while the plant is growing, and too late for it to make a new growth before winter.

An experiment, however, which I made for another purpose, leads me to think it may be done later in the autumn. A few years ago I had about 200 peach trees from 3 to 5 inches in diameter, which had been left in the seedling rows to fruit, on, account of their vigor and hardihood, and in the hope that some of them would yield good fruit. They stood in rich ground, which was allowed to sward over with grass. None of them bore good fruit, and I desired to bud them with good varieties. To do this I concluded to cut them off near the ground, and to bud the shoots that would grow up from the stump. They were all, therefore, sawn off an inch or two from the ground, on the 19th of November, 1870, and I expected and desired a thick growth of shoots next spring. But not a shoot, sucker, or bud ever started from one of those stumps or roots. The destruction was entire and complete with every tree. It seems, physiologically, that the same effect should attend the same treatment of plants we wish to eradicate.

Worth Trying.

It is said that sowing of Buckwheat broadcast in the preparation of a turnip crop, will prevent the ravages of the turnip fly, that when the turnips have attained their rough leaves, the Buckwheat may be cut and taken away without any further danger from the insect. This experiment might be tried without much pains or expense. It would not be too much trouble to go over an acre or two with the mowing machine and cut down the Buckwheat and eart it off. All kinds of stock could eat it without detriment, or it might be thrown into a heap to make manure. It is exceedingly annoying to the earnest farmer to have his turnly crop all nipped off by insects, and if any means can be employed to prevent it without too much labor and expense, it will be wise to give it a trial: It is further said that lettuce seed scattered on the cucumber hills at the time of planting will prevent the ravages of the yellow bug; this would be an experiment easy to try. The lettuce plants could be destroyed by the hoe as soon as the cucumbers were out of danger from the bugs. The knowing ones have further said that poppies are a sure protection against every species of obnoxious fly and bug, and that Russian leather is safe against the moth, that often destroys the binding of books, on account of the odor of the bark with which it was tanned. Spirits of turpentine and cedar shavings will protect clothing from the same on account of the odor they impart. It will not cost much to try either or all of these experiments, and if any should prove successful the result is worth knowing.

Keeping Cream.

Next in importance to having milk perfeetly pure and sweet and free from all animal odors, comes the matter of keeping the cream after it is taken off the milk. In the first place, the less milk there is with the cream at the time it is set in the cream Jar the better. A great deal of carelessness is shown in this matter, for be it known that milk makes cheese, while the cream only makes butter, and the more milk there is in the cream at churning time the more cheesy-flavored will be the butter, and, therefore, the more likely to spoil afterward, unless excessively salted. Really pure, good butter requires very little salt, while butter as ordinarily made will soon spoil, unless well salted or kept covered with brine.

Insurance Notice.

On and after the tenth day of April, 1872, The Home Reserve ferce of Insurance Ageuts belonging to "The Pennsylvania Central Insurance Company" will leave Pottsville in heavy force, and occupy ten different counties of the State, where they will continue to act as the Company's Agents until a full line of Local Agents can be appointed, when they will be recalled. As a body of men, I believe they are superior Insurance Agents, and most of thom speak the English, French, Welsh and German Languages. The City Insurance Journals, with all their sneers at Mutual Companies, and continual cry of Fraud! Frand!! co., cannot muster any better Insurance material! Why don't the City Insurance papers tell the public that no Mutual Company broke or failed during the last ten years? Why don't they tell the public that more than half the Stock Companies started within the last ten years lave? It is a well-known fact that Mutual panies started within the last ten years have? It is a well-known fact that Mutual

Companies cannot fail.
