THE manner in which the True Democrat a Republican paper published at York, refers to the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, is not only in bad taste, but shows a lack of truth that we are sorry to see, though it is too often exhibited in party papers.

WE protest against such personalities in any case, and though politically opposed to Mr. Magee, we must say in this case, the charges are entirely uncalled for.

Strange Affair.

During the past week stories have been in circulation in our town and neighborhood which partake somewhat of the supernatural. They run to this effect: On the 29th ult., stones commenced falling around the house and barn of a respectable farmer residing about two miles from this place and have since continued to fall at intervals daily, except Sunday, ranging in size from four to six pounds and smaller.

Accidentally Shot Dead by a Companion.

Three young men residents of South Washington, named respectively Conrad Wetzler, H. W. Deckman, and Frederick Rohleder, on Saturday went on a gunning expedition to the marshes that border Gravelly creek, just below the long bridge.

Rohleder was wading in the marshes, and doing the shooting, while his two companions seated in a boat, reloaded the guns as fast as he fired them. Rohleder handed his gun to Deckman to be reloaded, and the latter having capped both tubes of the other gun, attempted to let down the right hammer by pulling the left trigger the muzzle of the gun being pointed towards the head of Rohleder, who was only a few feet distant.

The coroner held an inquest over the body of the deceased, and the jury found that the shooting was purely accidental, and exonerated the accused from all blame.
