FARM AND HOUSEHOLD ITEMS

Coal Oil for Heneries.

Where lice are troublesome in a hennery, the use of kerosene will be found to answer an excellent purpose. If necessary, get a small watering pot and sprinkle it everywhere. We know of it being used in this way, and with complete success. It was also applied to the fowls by rubbing under the wings and among the feathers on the back of the neck, and the pests were effectually "cleaned out," without apparent harm to the fowls. For small chickens, rubbed lightly with a feather about the head and on the neck, it is admirable, and it is there where lice can generally be found if they exist anywhere among the flock. One application of this sort will suffice for many weeks. Careful observers will have noticed that there are several breeds of hen-lice to contend against. The species that attack sitting hens in hot weather are very small, very active in their motions, and multitudinous in their number. They will sometimes drive the hens from their nests, and become so numerous about the hennery that visitors cannot enter it without carrying off more or less of the pests on their persons. Their presence will be indicated by a delicate crawling sensation on the hands, the neck, or the body. Cracks and holes about the building will harbor millions of them at such times. For such a house, kerosene is the remedy. Apply it liberally from top to bottom, and if one application does not completely remove them, apply a second time. In applying to the chickens and fowls, be careful not to get any in the mouth or eyes; it may not prove fatal but it will do any good. It evidently does not make small chickens feel lively, but it will not harm them seriously if they are well-housed, or can get all the warmth they require. We have not tried it in hens' nests, but have no doubt that if sprinkled through the hay or straw of which the nest is formed it will answer a better purpose than sulphur or ashes in the bottom. It will positively kill the vermin harboring in the nests, while it is evident that dry sulphur and ashes are only disagreeable. Of course, the effect of a single application will not last always, but one or two applications a year will probably be found to be sufficient at least in heneries whose owners are not frightfully negligent. The lice found on the heads and necks of young chickens are very large, compared with those infesting the nests of sitting hens, and we do not remember to have ever seen them except on fowls. The touch of a small amount of kerosene infuses wondrous activity into them, while a good saturation evidently paralyzes. Nothing but their blighted remains will be found one day after a good application of kerosene.—Country Gentleman.

Dr. RADWAY—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovary and lower. All the Doctors said there was no help for it. I tried every thing but was recommended to try your medicine. I saw your medicine, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twenty years. I took six bottles of the Bland's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and had a relief. I have had the use of your Ready Relief, and there is not a sign of tumor to be seen or felt now, and I feel perfectly well. I have had the tumor for five years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the lower, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

Insurance Notice.

On and after the tenth day of April, 1872, The Home Reserve force of Insurance Agents belonging to "The Pennsylvania Central Insurance Company" will leave Pottsville in heavy force, and occupy ten different counties of the State, where they will continue to act as the Company's Agents until a full line of Local Agents can be appointed when they will be recalled. As a body of men, I believe they are superior Insurance Agents, and most of them speak the English, French, Welsh and German Languages. The City Insurance Journals, with all their sneers at Mutual Companies, and continual cry of Fraud! Fraud! &c., cannot muster any better Insurance material! Why don't the City Insurance papers tell the public that no Mutual Company broke or failed during the last ten years? Why don't they tell the public that more than half the Stock Companies started within the last ten years have? It is a well-known fact that Mutual Companies cannot fail.

JAMES H. GRIER, Secretary of Pennsylvania Central Insurance Company.
